Teen Rumble Ends In Chase, Crash

An 18-year-old San Rafael youth was arrested last night after a fight and then a high speed chase — by teen-agers trying to get even — which ended in a car crash at 632 Belle Avenue, police reported. Two teen-agers were injured.

Booked into Marin County Jail was Edwin Wesley Cadra of 260 Canal Street, apt. 222, on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon, felony hit-and-run and felony drunken driving.

Police said that apparently Cadra was involved in a fight at 10:05 p.m. with Michael Joseph Smith, 16, of Boardwalk 1, Larkspur. Cadra, police reported, threatened Smith with a hammer, then kicked Smith who was lying on the ground fixing his car on Fourth Street between D and E streets.

Following the fight, Cadra drove off and was chased by Smith's friends apparently in an attempt to repay Cadra for Smith's injuries, officers said.

Cadra's car, estimated to be traveling at more than 65 miles per hour, screeched to a halt against a tree on Belle Avenue, police reported.

Witnesses told police that both cars attempted to leave the accident scene and, on police arrival, only Cadra's car was there. The other car was still unidentified today, police said.

Hanoi Cutting Back Infiltrators In South

Major Drop Is Seen In Casualty Replacements

WASHINGTON (AP) — The North Vietnamese have reduced their infiltration into South Vietnam below their casualty rate, and thus enemy forces in the South may be getting smaller in number, a State Department spokesman said today.

The spokesman, press officer Robert J. McCloskey, reaffirmed the State Department's view that the infiltration cutback is "significant" but added that the United States still seeks a mutual U.S.-North Vietnamese withdrawal deal.

While North Vietnamese combat losses in excess of replacements "will eventually have the same effect as a withdrawal by North Vietnamese forces," he said, it would be a slow process and "we prefer to end the conflict by negotiation" leading to a pullout of all non-South Vietnamese troops.

State Department officials said the infiltration drop may be a factor in President Richard M. Nixon's still-pending decision on the next withdrawal of American forces. But they cautioned

Leader Of Sausalito's Parents' Club Resigns

By LARRY D. HATFIELD

Margaret Lester, deeply troubled over the tense racial relations in the Sausalito School District, has quit her post as president of the Sausalito Parents Club with a charge that some black educators in the district are creating an atmosphere of "polarization and fear."

(See page 23 for the third in a series of articles on the integration of the Sausalito School District).

Mrs. Lester, a long-time activist in Sausalito's school system and a founder of the parents group, made her decision to quit after Monday night's school board meeting during which the controversy over Sidney F. Walton Jr.'s hiring as principal of Martin Luther King School was discussed.

Mrs. Lester today said, "I have been trying for two years to work for human understand-

Novato Increases Tax 6 Cents

The Novato City Council last night set the tax rate at 81 cents per $100 assessed valuation for the 1969-70 fiscal year, 6 cents more than last year.

The tax rate was broken down into 54 cents for general fund, 25 cents for recreation and 2 cents for bond redemption.

The additional tax rates for three assessment districts also were set. These were: Scottsdale Maintenance District, $1.50; San Marin Park Maintenance District, 10 cents, and Lynwood Park Maintenance District, 32 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

The council adopted the final budget of $1,906,730 up $216,659 from last year.

The tax rate was based on an assessed valuation of $54.3 million, up 6.8 per cent from last year.

San Anselmo Taxes Remain At $2.255

A tax rate of $2.255 per $100 assessed valuation, the same as last year's was adopted last night by the San Anselmo City Council for 1969-70. (Another San Anselmo City Council story, page 22).

The council voted 4-1 to approve the rate, Councilman Robert M. Scott dissenting. He said that, during budget hearings, he opposed certain items, including $21,000 for Hub planning. "I'm going to have to stick to no," he said.

Mayor Woodrow V. Capurro said he had previously voted "no" because he thought there would be an increase but since the rate remains the same as last year, he would go along with the vote.

The increased 1969-70 budget of $1,376,850, already approved, compares with $1,070,614 for last year.

The tax rate breakdown is general fund, $1.27; library, 20 cents; parks, 21 cents; recreation, 9 cents; retirement, 27 cents; capital improvements, 13 cents and storm drains, 5 cents.

Johnson Welcomed By Nixon

The President and his wife, Pat, were beside the helicopter landing pad to greet the former chief executive as he arrived from El Toro Marine Air Station with his wife, Lady Bird, and their two daughters and their husbands, Maj. and Mrs. Charles S. Robb and Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Nugent.

Later today the families were to fly to the Redwood National Forest near the town of Orick in Humboldt County for dedication of the "Lady Bird Johnson Grove."

Rec Center Idea For Courthouse

By JOANNE GRANT

Convinced that a little man with a suitcase full of hundred dollar bills isn't going to appear and create an exciting Courthouse Square development, San Rafael architect Robert W. F. Severin has come up with a plan to put the community recreation center on the site.

His proposal was aired at a meeting of the courthouse committee of the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce yesterday and received support, though members also obviously preferred something more spectacular.

More Property Tax Rates Are Set

Property tax rates for 40 special districts and 21 school districts were set yesterday by the Marin County Board of Supervisors. (Other board of supervisors stories, page 6)

Combined with various city, county and regional taxes, a grand total of 295 separate tax rates will be spread on the tax roll, County Auditor Michael Mitchell reported.

About half of the school districts had decreases in their tax rates, and about half increases.

Mitchell said his office had been unable to receive budget and tax rate data from Sonoma County applicable to Lincoln, Union and Laguna School districts, which are part of the Petaluma and Santa Rosa Junior College districts. But on Mitchell's advice, the supervisors set rates for these districts based on his estimates.

Korean Reds Mum

PANMUNJOB, Korea (AP) — North Korea again refused today to tell the United States what happened to the three men aboard a U.S. Army helicopter shot down Aug. 17 north of the demilitarized zone in Communist territory.

During another meeting of the Korean Military Armistice Commission, the Communists again accused the U.N. Command of sending the craft over North Korean territory. The United States said the pilot of the OH23 helicopter strayed after becoming disoriented during a training mission.

It is not known whether the three Army men aboard survived the crash.

10 Years For Killing

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — An American helicopter pilot from the Vietnam war has been sentenced to 10 years in prison for killing a Sydney model who fought off his attempt to have sexual intercourse with her.

Lawrence James Hull, 20, of Enfield, Conn., was convicted of manslaughter in Central Criminal Court yesterday. The jury acquitted him of a charge of murdering Josephine Dunphy, 18.

Hull was on leave from Vietnam when the girl was killed in his motel room on Dec. 16. She stabbed and the body mutilated with a hunting knife.

Hull testified that he hoped to have intercourse with the girl. He said when he tried to kiss her, her elbow came toward him and everything went black.

Hungarian Bomber

VIENNA (AP) — Police say a 47-year-old Hungarian migrant to Canada has admitted the fire bombing of the Canadian Embassy that killed two of the embassy's Austrian employees.

A man threw several gasoline-filled bottles against a bookcase in the embassy library yesterday. Police said that at the height of the blaze, Colman Losonczy walked up to a policeman and said: "I started the fire."

Rickover Warning On Soviet Subs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Navy nuclear chief Hyman G. Rickover says the Soviets—determined never again to have to back down as they did during the Cuban missile crisis—rapidly are overtaking the U.S. submarine fleet.

The Soviet Union is likely to have more nuclear submarines than the United States by the end of next year, the vice admiral told a House Appropriations Subcommittee, and they already have 230 more submarines of all types.

He said the Soviets could catch up with the U.S. missile-firing Polaris submarines by 1973 or 1974.

A censored transcript of Rickover's testimony May 20 in support of the Navy's $1.16 billion request for nuclear ship development and procurement was released today by the public works subcommittee.

Rickover linked the rapid Soviet submarine buildup to the 1962 Cuban missile crisis when asked about the danger of the United States being overtaken.

"I would put it this way: I believe that after the Cuban confrontation—which resulted ultimately in Mr. Kruschchev being kicked out of office—they made up their minds that they would never again be faced with a similar situation," Rickover said.

Industry Defends Old Truck Policy

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp. said today it is industry practice to change the model year identifications of trucks carried over by dealers at the end of a model year and sell them as current models.

General Motors Corp. conceded it does so with heavy duty trucks.

Ford Motor Co. said it "is attempting to obtain clarification of the problem discussed" by the Federal Trade Commission, which reported yesterday that at least seven manufacturers change model year identifications on unsold vehicles.

In some instances, after the date change, the FTC said vehicles are sold as new, even though they were manufactured two or more years previously.

The FTC said its investigation was initiated because of complaints from consumers concerning five domestic manufacturers and two subsidiaries of foreign manufacturers. It declined to name the companies.

The FTC said it had taken no action against the manufacturers, but that it would do so if the practices are continued.

It said similar practices were followed by some trailer manufacturers and makers of other vehicles.

The FTC said what it termed a deceptive practice involved the recall and reissue of the so-called "manufacturer's statement of origin" sent to dealers.

There is little doubt," the FTC said, "that an unused motor vehicle, no matter how carefully it may be maintained, will be subject to deterioration during a long period of storage following its manufacturer."

Atlantic Storm Cools

MIAMI (AP) — Its fury softened by a cooling atmosphere, tropical storm Eve drifted slowly toward the open sea today more than 300 miles east of the North Carolina coastline.

Eve's winds dropped to 50 miles an hour yesterday after the storm broke away from the warmer weather system off Florida where it was born.

Defense Buying Off First Half Of Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense purchases in the first half of this year constituted a smaller part of the nation's Gross National Product than for any time since the end of 1966, the Commerce Department said today.

Asst. Secretary William H. Chartener in a broad review of trade and defense spending, said the defense purchases indicate "a diminishing impact of defense spending on the total economy."

Chartener also reported that the nation, as of the end of July, has "now had 102 consecutive months of increase in economic activity," and said he did not see any sign that inflation will ease over the rest of this year.

Chartener, a Democratic holdover who is leaving the government at the end of this month to return to private business, said the nation's merchandise trade balance in July was in surplus, that is, exports over imports, by a seasonally adjusted $105.2 million. The figure was up from the June surplus of $25.3 million, but was about the same as the average monthly surplus of $116 million during 1968.

"It now seems unlikely that our trade surplus will be significantly better than it was last year," when it was $837 million, Chartener said.

During July, exports including military shipments totaled $3.17 billion, and imports were $3.07 billion.

Chartener said the Commerce Department's composite index of 12 leading economic indicators declined slightly in July to 147.6. But without a 10 per cent declined in building permits, he said, the composite index would have shown an increase.

"Housing clearly is showing the impact of monetary stringency and high interest rates," he said.

On defense activity, Chartener said defense purchases of goods and services declined in each of the first two quarters of 1969, the first decline since 1964.

However, the GNP has risen steadily, so that defense purchases as a proportion of the GNP fell from 9.3 per cent a year ago to 8.5 per cent in April, May and June of this year.

"This ratio is at its lowest level since the fourth quarter of 1966, and lower than for any quarter" from the second quarter of 1951 through the third quarter of 1963, Chartener said.

He said the Defense Department spending in fiscal 1969 was $78.7 billion, less than one per cent more than was spent in fiscal 1968 and "by far the smallest annual increase in defense outlays during the Vietnam War period."

Marchers Force Way Into Steel Firm, Get Conference

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A small group of demonstrators demanding more jobs for Negroes in the construction industry forced their way into U.S. Steel Corp.'s headquarters today, demanded, and got, a meeting with U.S. Steel executives.

But Michael Dismond, a march leader and one of a delegation of 11 demonstrators at the meeting, said U.S. Steel refused to meet the marchers demand that the big steel company halt construction of its 65-story skyscraper only two blocks away.

The announcement was greeted with hisses and booes from the 500 demonstrators who were marching around the building, clapping their hands and chanting. It is the third straight day of protests for more construction jobs.

Dismond, speaking to the demonstrators from atop a wall, said the demonstrators would stop construction.

"We're going over to the U.S. Steel building and we're going to shut it down," he said. "We're going up with the intention of a peaceful settlement. However, we're going to protect ourselves and we're not going to be whipped like yesterday."

The crowd cheered Dismond's remarks and surged into the streets. Dismond called it back and told the demonstrators to walk in small groups and not tie up traffic.

When the demonstrators reached the construction site, they were held back by self-styled Negro policemen who said they were in the march to protect the demonstrators from city police. In front of them were Negro policemen from the city's force. Authorities said every available black policeman on the force was at the site.

As the crowd gathered beneath the structure, workers in the building's ironwork hurled down balloons and paper bags filled with water and other objects.

When one object struck a woman demonstrator, the crowd surged forward and tried to storm the building. Police held the marchers back and the crowd quieted down. Demonstrators carried the injured woman off.

Dismond and others got inside the building by rushing a revolving door opening into a lobby as a doorman was trying to lock it, pushed him aside and demanded to see U.S. Steel president Edwin A. Gott.

Told Gott was in New York, Dismond replied, "This is his problem, this is his town." Another demonstrator said, "Bring him in with a plane."

After a brief conference, the delegation boarded an elevator and was whisked away for the closed door meeting with U.S. Steel officials.

bert Park Lane to the Safeway store.

The council was aghast at the proposal which included estimates of $681,000 for the center; $382,265 for the fire station, and $300,000 for land acquisition. Council members, expecting to spend $200,000 to $300,000 for the center sent it back to the parks and recreation commission for study.

The $300,000 for land acquisition could be "saved" and applied to the purchase price of the courthouse property, Severin suggested yesterday.

Parking could be constructed through a parking district and there would be about 40,000 square feet of space available for retail shops. He noted there are about 35,000 square feet currently available.

The site could be developed to provide for future upward expansion, if the mythical man ever does appear, he said.

Severin estimated it would take about $12 million to do something spectacular with the site —$12 million he doesn't think will appear, based on Marin's population projections.

"It isn't what I dreamed of happening on this site," said Severin with a hint of regret. However, no one has risen to the "bait" that's been offered for more grandiose schemes.

The community center could generate the traffic which will be lost when the courts move to the Hall of Justice, he suggested.

"It's something for everyone, but not everything for everyone," he commented.

Committee members liked various aspects of the plan but worried about financing, particularly about the bond issue which would be inevitable.

Severin said one key to that could be the gold coin parking meter program. It involves raising meter prices in the shopping area from 5 cents to 10 cents an hour. When the dime is inserted, a gold coin would come out. The coin could be redeemed in stores.

Agreeing that this new approach was the only visable measure at this time, the committee recommended it to the chamber's executive board and also decided to notify the city the plan is being studied.

ing and I feel that when the effect of the actions of paid employees of the school district contribute to polarization and fear, my efforts at trying to create human understanding are not going to be very effective."

Although she declined to name them, Mrs. Lester indicated she was referring to the activities of James T. Toliver special assistant to Walton and the King faculty, and William (Chaka) Bradley.

Toliver and Chaka Monday night distributed a militant resolution passed by the Nation Association for African American Education at its Atlanta convention last week. The resolution attacked two Sausalito school board members as racists and solidly backed Walton, Toliver and Chaka.

The resolution, read by Chaka, described Trustee James E. Muldoon as "one white honky racist" and decried "white racism which is perpetuated by right-wing elements in our society such as Muldoon, a bigoted honky in Sausalito and misguided, ignorant Uncle Tom niggers such as Rev. Fred Small of Marin City."

Small has been critical of Walton's appointment.

The Atlanta resolution also condemned "the white racist attitudes expressed by ... (C. Gerald) Clear.' "

Mrs. Lester also was critical of a newsletter distributed in Marin City last week by Toliver which urged black parents to attend Monday night's meeting to "see democracy in action."

The newsletter suggested some members of the board may have held illegal secret meetings to discuss Walton and asked whether there is a "difference under the Constitution between the rights of a black man and a white man —witness the treatment of Bill Chaka and Sid Walton."

Mrs. Lester declined comment on Supt. Phillip . Schneider's role in the hiring of Walton and backing of Chaka, who does not have teaching credentials.

In her statement, Mrs. Lester said, "I also have resigned because I wish to be free to speak as an individual and to state my convictions. I feel that a parents club representing all communities in our school district has been and should continue to be an instrument of reconciliation and I hope that my resignation will not hurt it.

"However, I must speak against the hate and fear I see around me."

The biracial parents club, organized in 1967, has been active in pushing integration in the Sausalito district and heretofore has solidly backed Schneider.

Mrs. Ann Fisher of Sausalito will be acting president of the group until its 11-member board elects a new head. The board consists of three members each from Marin City and Sausalito, two from Forts Cronkhite and Baker, two from Mill Valley and one at large.

SOUTHERN SONOMA

Russ Debris In Space Makes Splash

Russian space debris, trailing a shower of sparks, streaked across the skies of three western states last night and touched off a flood of calls from ground observers in Marin.

Seen from various points in Marin and Southern Sonoma, the high-flying object created an illusion of a plane in trouble, giving rise to reports in North Marin that a plane was seen crashing toward Hamilton Air Force Base, and from yachtsmen off Sausalito that it was heading for a crash at San Francisco International Airport.

Hamilton reported about 30 calls on the then-unidentified flying object.

Local observers also called police and fire departments and described the object as a bright yellow ball of fire with a long tail traveling across the sky in a southerly direction.

Other observers said glowing, cherry-red lights appeared to be a swarm of meteors.

The North American Air Defense Command, which tracks all objects in space, said the lights were from a burning Soviet rocket body used by the Russinas to launch Cosmos 294 on Aug. 19.

The Air Force facility at Colorado Springs, Colo., reported observers had predicted the rocket breakup last night for almost the exact time it happened, 8:50 p.m.

An Air Force spokesman said it was unlikely that any parts of the rocket body would escape burning and fall to earth, but if so, the particles would come down in the Pacific Ocean about 600 miles off the coast of Mexico.

The debris, which was seen in California, Nevada and Arizona, was first believed to be a meteor by the Mount Wilson Observatory in Los Angeles.

Other observers thought it was a missile or a satelite reentry.

The Air Force said rocket debris usually disintegrates and burns in space without being sighted and seldom is it seen so clearly as the Cosmos "decay."

VIETNAM

McCloskey gave no figures in saying "There has been a considerable reduction in North Vietnamese infiltration into South Vietnam."

Other sources had previously suggested that infiltration from the North had dropped, starting four or five months ago, from a monthly rate of around 8,000-10,000 to perhaps half that level.

Enemy casualties have been running upwards of 2,000 a week, by allied count, and about 70 per cent of enemy troops in South Vietnam are believed to be from the North.

"We believe that the infiltration figure is currently lower than the North Vietnamese casualty figures in the South," the spokesman said.

"This suggests that they are not replacing all of their casualties and that there may be a net reduction in enemy field forces that occurs as a result of attrition of the North Vietnamese component in these forces."

McCloskey declined to go as far as a statement attributed to former Secretary of State Dean Rusk last night. Rusk was quoted as telling a University of Wisconsin school group that there has recently been an almost total lack of infiltration from North Vietnam.

However, some Nixon administration officials had made similar remarks privately.

House Ransacked

John A. Bielefeldt of 706 Idylberry Road, Marinwood, reported to the sheriff's department Monday that the bedrooms in his home had been ransacked and $2.50 in change taken, sheriff's deputies said today.

TAX

found later, he said, "will have to be absorbed due to the extreme lateness in budgetary actions by Sonoma County."

Because of an increased spread between the statewide assessment average and Marin's average, Mitchell noted, the new countywide school equalization rate is 9.5 cents, a hike of 5.5 cents over last fiscal year. The increased spread required more local money due to decreased state aid.

Other special area-wide school taxes included 2 cents for mentally retarded minors (down 3 cents), 2.5 cents for physically handicapped (down 2.5 cents) and 2.5 cents for the handicapped development center (up 1.5 cents).

The 30-cent rate for the Bolinas Harbor District was also set, but the supervisors set a special meeting for 9 a.m. Friday in the Civic Center to cut the new rate if the harbor commissioners vote Thursday night to reduce their budget in light of the fact they will go out of business by early November. The rate last year was 36 cents.

Other special district rates were reported in detail on Saturday by the Independent-Journal, except for the Novato Sanitary District, which has a new rate of 31.5 cents (up 3 cents).

For elementary school districts, the new tax rates are Bolinas-Stinson, $2.325 (up 18.5 cents); Dixie, $3.995 (up 30.5 cents; Fairfax, $3 (down 1.5 cents); Kentfield, $3.33 (down 1 cent); Laguna Joint, $1.65 (up 6 cents); Lagunitas, $3.495 (up 21.5 cents); Larkspur, $3.45 (down 9.5 cents) Lincoln, $1.165 (down 2 cents); Mill Valley, $3.10 (down 3.5 cents); Nicasio, $2.14 (down 8.5 cents); Reed Union, $3.735 (up 20 cents).

Ross, $3.405 (up 69 cents); San Anselmo, $3.41 (up 11.5 cents); San Rafael, $3.275 (up 21.5 cents); Sausalito, $3.355 (up 31.5 cents); Tomales Bay (See Shoreline Unified, was $1.565 last fiscal year); Union Joint, $1.245 (down 47.5 cents), and West Marin Union (see Shoreline Unified, was $1.765 last fiscal year).

For unified school districts, the new tax rates are. Novato, $5.345 (up 19 cents), and Shoreline, $3.88 (new district).

For high school districts, the new tax rates are San Rafael, $2.29 (up 3 cents); Tamalpais, $2.29 (up 5 cents); and Tomales Union (see Shoreline Unified, was $2.115 last fiscal year); Petaluma for Laguna district, $2.28 (down 17 cents); Petaluma, for Lincoln and Union, $2.27 (down 17 cents).

For Marin Junior College District the new rate is 93 cents (up 10.5 cents); Santa Rosa Junior College District, which includes parts of Northern Marin, 42 cents (down 3 cents.)

Mitchell noted that these rates included not only general and override taxes, but also taxes for bonds, area-wide tax levies and special levies.

New teachers in the Mill Valley School District will be honored at a luncheon Sept. 4 hosted by the Mill Valley Chamber of Commerce at Sabella's restaurant.

Also attending the luncheon wilp be Mill Valley Mayor Dean N. Meyer, city councilmen, school trustees, school staff members and Parent-Teacher Association council officers.

Guest speaker will be Supervisor Michael Wornum.

Environment Held Flood Control Key

The Ross Flood Control Advisory Board has moved to protect the town's environment when first phase flood control work begins next year on Corte Madera Creek through the town.

The board Monday approved a series of recommendations by Tokn Engineer Philip B. Lygren which he said would control the contractor's activities "so he doesn't range at will" in getting at the flood control work.

Among the limits recommended by the board:

Access to the project through the Ross Post Office parking lot limited to vehicles under five tons.

Construction rights-of-way cannot be used for storage or staging areas.

A line of cypress trees and two walnut trees along the creek are to be preserved. The southerly part of a line of acacia trees is to be preserved. Growth along the northeast bank of existing Corte Madera Creek is not to be cleared except for three access openings.

Where the new channel will deviate from the existing creek, the old creek bed is to be preserved and provided with drainage.

The Ross Town Council will meet at 8 p.m. today at town hall to discuss the board's recommendations.

Pope Shifts Two Bishops In California

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Two Catholic bishops were transferred from Santa Rosa to in California today by Pope Paul VI.

The Pope announced that Bishop Leo Maher would be transferred to new assignments San Diego and Bishop Hugh A. Donohoe from Stockton to Fresno. He did not announce their successors.

Both bishops assumed their present posts in 1962 when the Stockton Diocese was created out of the San Francisco-Sacramento Diocese and the Santa Rosa Diocese was made separate from the Archdiocese of San Francisco.

Bishop Maher, 59, held various positions under the late San Francisco Archbishop John J. Mitty and served as assistant pastor of Holy Name and St. Mary's churches, both San Francisco.

Bishop Donohoe, 63, was ordained in 1930 and was administrator of the San Francisco Archdiocese following the death of Archbishop Mitty.

A HELPING HAND — A wounded soldier, head bandaged, gives a hand to troopers and medics tending a seriously wounded buddy in a battle zone south of Da Nang. The two were wounded this week when a search for a downed U.S. helicopter turned into a battle with North Vietnamese troops. (AP Wirephoto)

300 More GIs Leave Viet Combat

SAIGON (AP) — Three hundred more men of the U.S. Ninth Infantry Division flew from Vietnam to Hawaii today, virtually completing the withdrawal from the war of 25,000 U.S. troops ordered by President Richard M. Nixon.

The last numerically designated unit to leave under the current cutback program, Marine Corps Fighter Attack Squadron 334, will complete its transfer to Japan tomorrow. Redeployment of the squadron's 250 men and 14 F4J Phantom fighter-bombers began yesterday.

22,700 SO FAR

The U.S. Command said a total of 22,700 men have been moved out by units, while another 1,400 Army men, 400 Marines and 350 Navy men left in advance parties or as individuals. Departure of a Navy LST (landing ship tank) with a crew of 150 a week ago completed the total of 25,000 men which Nixon on June 8 said would be pulled out of Vietnam by the end of August.

Despite withdrawal of the 25,000 troops, U.S. forces in Vietnam last Thursday totaled 526,500 men, or only 10,500 less than the 537,000 in the country when Nixon made his announcement.

TERROR RAIDS

Meanwhile, South Vietnamese headquarters announced that 17 persons were killed and 99 were wounded last night in two terrorist attacks, one on the central coast and one in Da Nang. Both attacks were blamed on Viet Cong agents, and in both attacks the terrorists escaped.

Thirty miles southwest of Da Nang, a task force of American Marines and infantrymen clashed twice yesterday with North Vietnamese troops in the rolling foothills behind the populous coastal lowlands. Six North Vietnamese and one American were reported killed and 30 Americans wounded.

Army Stops Delivery Of M16 Rifle Output

WASHINGTON (AP) — Calling the weapons poorly made, the Army has stopped accepting M16 rifles produced by a Massachusetts company involved last year in a contract award that raised the ire of Congress.

The Army says in effect that the Harrington & Richardson Co., of Worcester, Mass., has been turning out shoddy rifles but it hopes the suspension of M16 acceptances will be temporary.

In response to questions, the Army said it had rejected five lots totaling 5,000 rifles before suspending further acceptances last July 25. The company is behind in deliveries by 12,866 weapons.

"The contractor was not complying with the contractually prescribed quality assurance program," the Army said. "Some rifles failed to pass function, endurance and targeting and accuracy tests."

Furthermore, H&R's M16s failed final examinations because of such flaws as defective barrels and bolt carriers and improper lubrication, the Army said.

The Defense Contracting Administration Service has been called into the situation and with the Army is trying to help H&R straighten out the quality problem, officers said.

In Worcester, H&R president C. Edward Rowe Jr., said he would have no comment.

The Army irritated Congress last year when it picked H&R and General Motors Corp. of Ypsilanti, Mich., to become second and third producers of the rapid-firing M16 even though two other companies said they could produce the rifles more cheaply.

On the initial contracts, H&R had a ceiling price of $41.5 million and GM $56.3 million for M16 production. By contrast, Maremont Corp. of Saco, Maine, indicated a ceiling price of $36.5 million and Cadillac Gage offered $36.8 million.

Neither Maremont's nor Cadillac's estimates were considered in the bidding because the Army doubted they could produce M16s fast enough.

A special Senate Armed Services subcommittee later blasted the Army for "a most inept performance" in choosing the costlier contracts.

Since World War II nearly 300,000 Army and Air National Guardsmen have been called to active duty—in the Korean war, the Berlin crisis and Vietnam.

Judge's Son Loses Appeal

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — U.S. Court of Appeals judges yesterday upheld the conviction and sentence of a jurist's son who refused hospital work in place of military service.

Vincent J. O'Connor, 27, son of the late Judge Raymond J. O'Connor of San Francisco, still may petition the U.S. Supreme Court for a rehearing and is free in $100 bail.

While classified as a conscientious objector, he argued during a U.S. District Court trial that the alternative service order was unconstitutional.

That court sentenced him to three years in prison.

O'Connor had told the district court that when he received the alternative service order he was working with the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee registering Negro voters in Arkansas.

New Fire Code Proposal Aired But Then Is Promptly Shelved

Tough new code requirements proposed to improve the fire resistance of structures got their first airing yesterday before the Marin County Board of Supervisors, and promptly were shelved. (Another board of supervisors story, page 1.)

The county public works department proposed the new standards in response to the 1969 Marin County Grand Jury's expression of concern about fire protection provisions of the building code, particularly in areas without structural fire protection.

The department's proposals included fire-resistant exterior finishes, restrictions on roofing materials, and a ban on shingle siding where one-hour exterior walls are required.

These and other technical changes proposed by the department, said Supervisor Michael Wornum, would mean that "stucco buildings virtually would be the only buildings you'll be able to build."

The proposed requirements "go too far," he said, and would "make a monster" of the building code. Wornum is an architect.

Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. said the answer to better protection of the citizenry from fire lay in enforcing the present building code. He said it would be ridiculous to have different codes in various parts of the county.

The supervisors, after brief discussion, agreed unanimously to refer the proposals back to the staff, and did not ask that they be returned to the board for further action.

The Marin County Board Of Supervisors Also:

ROADS — Approved plans to widen Novato Boulevard between San Miguel Way and San Marin Drive, and East Sir Francis Drake Boulevard on San Quentin Peninsula from Highway 17 west around San Quentin Prison.

TARRANT APARTMENTS — Upheld the county planning commission and denied an appeal of the Gallinas Village Improvement Association to reverse approval of the design review application of Tarrant Apartments. The apartments will be built at LaBrea Way, Point San Pedro and Adrian Street.

GRAND JURY — Approved a $2,000 reserve transfer requested by the grand jury to augment the budget for testimony transcription. The board was informed this was the jury's investigation of local government, not criminal activities.

CAMPERS — Passed an ordinance prohibiting the parking of campers, trailers and similar vehicles on sections of five streets in the Waldo Point area.

DIRECTOR — Reappointed Kenneth B. Brown as director of weights and measures for a four-year term. His salary for the 1969-70 fiscal year was set at $1,111 per month and will increase yearly to $1,286 per month during 1972-73.

PATROL — Approved the allocation of $315 to provide a mounted patrolman at Stinson and other beaches during weekends and holidays during the remainder of this month and early September.

Suspects Held In Burglaries

Two burglaries at the same San Anselmo house have been cleared up with the arrest of two Sleepy Hollow teen-age brothers, Police Chief Raymond R. Buchignani said today.

Joseph G. Cutrufelli, 14, and Sam J. Cutrufelli, Jr., 13, both of 164 Deer Hollow Drive, were cited to Juvenile Hall yesterday on suspicion of burgling the residence of Patricia J. Borup, 50 Ash Street, on Thursday and Monday.

Coins totaling $30 were taken in the first burglary and seven packs of cigarettes in the second, police said. A witness told police he saw one of the brothers climb a fence to enter the Borup property Monday.

Motorcycle Theft Charge Dismissed

A charge of motorcycle theft against Rodney John Arnold, 19, of Novato was dismissed yesterday in Marin Municipal Court by Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. because of insufficient evidence.

He had been accused of taking the cycle June 30 in Novato.

Dean Rusk's Car Stoned After Talk

About 50 persons who objected to Rusk's policies when he was in office surrounded the car as it left a parking lot. It was hit by half a dozen stones and a large stick.

Bolinas Lagoon Will Be First Marin Fill Target

An ordinance to strengthen county control of shoreline and bay filling with Bolinas Lagoon the first target, is in the works, the Marin County Board of Supervisors was told yesterday.

Donald R. Frost, county public works director, told the supervisors that the county planning commission on Sept. 29 would consider a countywide ordinance similar to the Richardson Bay ordinance, which prohibits any filling without a permit.

The only ordinance the county can presently use against bay fill is the grading ordinance, which allows a developer to place up to 1,000 yards of fill anywhere without a permit. Frost said this limit had already been reached in Bolinas Lagoon but that filling was now halted since his order Aug. 15 blocking developer George P. Leonard from further dumping of fill.

Leonard is now in the process of obtaining a permit, Frost said, and "there is no reason to withhold a permit under the grading ordinance."

"I think that lagoon's in trouble, we don't really have any real control and before long we'll lose it," declared Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni.

"We've lost half of it already," remarked Supervisor Louis H. Baar.

Unlike San Francisco Bay, Bolinas has no state or regional control on it.

Shell Explosion Kills Two Boys

APPLE VALLEY (AP) —Two boys were killed when a mortar shell war souvenir they were playing with exploded.

They were identified as Troy Dersch, 13, and Michael Bubash, 12, both of Apple Valley, San Bernardino County. The shell belonged to Michael's father, Michael J. Bubash.

The explosion occurred in the bedroom of the Bubash boy. It blew out the windows and sent shell fragments through the walls.

Walnut Clothing Just Not Enough

BERKELEY (AP) — Campus police arrested two young persons at the University of California, saying the scanty clothes they wore — made mostly of walnuts — weren't quite enough.

Released on $500 bail each after being booked for investigation of exhibitionism yesterday were Theodora Pauline Skipitares, 23, of Oakland, and George Paul Csicsery, 21, of Berkeley. The young woman said she was a university student.

Campus officers W.R. Jones and J.W. Davis said the pair appeared at Sproul Hall Plaza in the scanty garb for which officers had no immediate explanation.

Plane Crisis Remains Up In Air

A special hearing yesterday on a request to legalize the parking of seaplanes on Richardson Bay ended inconclusively with a prediction by county zoning administrator Thomas E. Cordill that his decision will be made sometime later this week.

The owner of the illegally parked planes, Chris Hansen of San Francisco, has asked for a variance to keep them there until the site opposite Marin City is needed for the public area envisioned in the plan for Richardson Bay.

Cordill said he would need a recommendation from the county health department on whether the chemical toilet on the site was adequate, and also must review the adequacy of fire protection.

There was no opposition to the variance application.

The base sprang up during the past two months, despite numerous notices by the county to Hansen that it was illegal without a variance.

Dissident Unit's Officer Relieved

SAIGON (AP) — The young American lieutenant who couldn't get his men back into battle last Sunday has been relieved of his command.

His battalion commander, Lt. Col. Robert C. Bacon of Falls Church, Va., said today that Lt. Eugene Shurtz Jr., 26, of Davenport, Iowa, had been relieved as commander of Alpha Company and would be given a new assignment with the 196th Light Infantry Brigade.

"I went out to relieve him personally," Bacon said in a telephone interview from his headquarters in the foothills southwest of Da Nang. "I wasn't satisfied with the progress the company was making."

Alpha Company suffered heavy casualties last week in five assaults on a labyrinth of North Vietnamese bunkers and trench lines on the slopes of Nui Lon Mountain. Ordered to move out again Sunday, Shurtz told Bacon over the field telephone: "I am sorry, sir, but my men refuse to go. We cannot move out."

Blankenship finally persuaded the men to get moving. They ran into no opposition.

Bacon said that Capt. Bernard F. Wolpers, a native of Germany who is now a U.S. citizen, had replaced Shurtz as company commander.

The colonel said the company's refusal to follow Shurtz's orders "was certainly a contributing factor" in his decision to change commanders, but that the action "was not solely based on that."

"I made the decision for a lot of reasons," he said. "I don't think he had the experience to handle the job . . . The company wasn't responsive; it was dragging its feet.

"It was slow getting its gear together. I didn't think the company moved when I wanted it to. I would tell them to move out at 6 a.m. and they would move out at 6:30."

A spokesman for the Americal Division said five enlisted men had questioned Shurtz's orders to move out, but that all five had finally gone with the rest of the company "and the company completed its mission." Both Bacon and the spokesman said no charges are pending against anyone and no formal investigation is being conducted.

"The matter is not being further pursued," the spokesman said. "The men are still in the company, and the company is still in the field."

Bacon said five enlisted men in the company had requested during the incident to see the Inspector General, but "they decided not to once they settled down and started moving. They decided they had no complaints at all."

He said the company is still operating in the field but has not been involved in any significant fighting since last Saturday.

Shurtz had been in Vietnam only a month and was commander of Alpha Company for three weeks. Bacon took command of the battalion last Thursday after his predecessor, Lt. Col. Eli P. Howard of Woodridge, Va., was killed in a helicopter crash.

Bacon said he did not consider the Alpha Company incident "a big problem."

"I've seen similar type things happen," he said.

18 Facing Camp Rioting Charge

CAMP LEJEUNE, N.C. (AP — The Marine Corps has charged 17 Marines and a Navy hospitalman with rioting in connection with a fatal racial fight at Camp Lejeune July 20.

Another nine Marines were restricted to the base on suspicion of rioting, the corps announced yesterday.

All had shipped out for the Mediterranean shortly after the fight but were returned for questioning. Two other Marines returned at the same time have been released without being charged.

Previously, five Marines had been charged with murder and rioting.

About 30 Negro and Puerto Rican Marines attacked 14 white Marines following a squabble at a service club.

One white Marine died a week after the fight.

Bolinas Man Pleads Innocent

Frank Emory Prewett, 29, of Bolinas entered a plea of innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court in a charge of possessing marijuana Thursday in Bolinas.

A preliminary hearing was set for tomorrow.

Prewett also faces earlier charges of possessing methamphetamine and narcotics paraphernalia in Superior Court.

James Edward Gray Jr., 28, of Larkspur has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of felony drunken driving stemming from a head-on collision on Golden Gate Bridge July 15.

A preliminary hearing was set for Sept. 25.

The California Highway Patrol said that the accident occurred when Gray's car crossed the center line and hit a minibus. Gray and the occupants of the bus, Brian W. Beggs, 21, and Paul R. Healey, 18, both of Peterborough, Ontario, Canada, were hospitalized.

$50,000 Claim Goes To Militants

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — The National Student Association has climaxed its 22nd annual convention by approving a claim for $50,000 by a breakaway black student association.

Delegates to the convention, numbering about 500, acted late last night on the militants' demand after a riotous session the preceding night, during which black dissidents took control of the meeting.

A spokesman, Gwen Patton, said the new National Association of Black Students estimated the amount due to be $50,000. Miss Patton is coordinator of the Third World Conference, an organization of black separatists.

There was no indication of where the funds would come from, barring volunteer student contributions. Robert Powell, outgoing president, said NSA, nual budget, currently is $120,000 in the hole.

The NSA picked as its new president a 22-year-old graduate of the University of California at Berkeley, Charles Palmer of East Los Angeles, Calif.

Palmer told delegates he was looking forward to helping students work together as a means of preventing new campus violence.

The convention voted approval of a black resolution calling on the organization to recognize that racism is the most serious problem affecting American students. The resolution called on the NSA to combat racism as its first order of business in the coming year.

In addition, delegates adopted resolutions sought by Mexican-Americans, who call themselves "chicanos," for support of a California grapes boycott and a boycott of a Colorado beer company accused by the chicanos of hiring discrimination—an allegation the beer firm has denied.

The sun radiates more energy in one second than man has used since the beginning of civilization, says the National Geographic.

Christian Scientists Attending Convention

Thirteen college age Christian Science Church members from Marin County will attend the seventh biennial conference of college students tomorrow through Sunday at the First Church of Christ, Scientist in Boston.

Attending the conference on "building in a revolutionary period" will be David Smith of San Rafael; Teri Spence, Holly Mensing and Hoyt Smith, all of San Anselmo; Buzz Beattie of Ross; Wendy Wurtz and Bob Webb, both of Kentfield; Ruth Kauer of Mill Valley; Consuela Smith, Ann Horton and Judy, Shelly and Robin Jurs, all of Belvedere.

77 Years' Service For Three Retirees

A lieutenant colonel from San Rafael and a lieutenant colonel and captain from Corte Madera were among 11 Army veterans who participated in their final retreat ceremony at the Presidio of San Francisco yesterday.

Retiring after a combined total of 77 years in the Army were Lt. Col. Charles W. Jones Jr. of 7 Terra Linda Drive, San Rafael; Lt. Col. Anthony Barkovich of 9 Key Largo Course, Corte Madera, and Capt. Noriya Fujiwara of 41 Staghound Passage, Corte Madera.

Colonel Jones, and infantry officer, served in Europe during World War II and also saw service in the Korean War and in Italy, Japan, Iran, and Vietnam. He served 27 years in the Army.

Colonel Barkovich, who entered the Army in 1942, has served in the Quartermaster Corps in Yugoslavia, Germany, Korea, and Vietnam. He has been on the logistics staff of the Sixth Army since February 1968.

Captain Fujiwara entered the Army in Hawaii in 1946 and served with the Chemical Warfare Corps in Europe, Japan, and Vietnam. He has been on the headquarters staff of Sixth Army Special Troops since returning from Vietnam, where he received the Bronze Star and Air Medal.

Doctor's Drug Capsules Stolen

A burglar yesterday broke into the residence of Dr. John L. Bradin Jr., 215 Wilson Way, Larkspur, and stole 300 drug capsules and property valued at $500, Larkspur police reported.

Stolen were 200 Dexadrine capsules and 100 Dexamobarb capsules, a pad of prescription blanks, a tape recorder, a portable radio, a camera, clothing, a wristwatch, a .22-caliber rifle, phonograph records and tape recordings.

Minor Injuries In Two Wrecks

Two persons received minor injuries in separate accidents on Highway 1 in Stinson Beach yesterday, the California Highway Patrol said today.

At 11:45 a.m., a car driven by Iphigens Malony Bittman, 18, of 550 Sonoma Mountain Road, Petaluma, hit the rear of one driven by James Anthony White, 60, of Stinson Beach, as Miss Bittman was pulling away from a stop sign at the highway's intersection with Calle Del Arroyo.

Elizabeth White, 67, a passenger in her husband's car, was slightly injured in the mishap but did not require hospital treatment, the patrol said.

Gerald Steven Granados, 24, of Bolinas, was also injured slightly at 1:30 p.m. when his car stuck the rear of one driven by Donna Renard, 22, of San Francisco, the patrol said. He did not require hospital treatment.

The patrol said Miss Renard had stopped to turn across the highway into a parking lot when the Granados car hit hers.

Higher Signs Along Highway 101 Studied

Possibility of raising the height limits on signs along Highway 101 was reviewed last night at a joint study session of the Petaluma City Council and Planning Commission.

Paul Stanley, planning commission chairman, said that the present 30-foot limit on all signs has caused many requests for variances.

Stanley said he felt the limit should be raised to 75 feet for freeway oriented businesses with the sign size and heights to be approved along with the use permit application so that some control could still be exercised.

Operators of present freeway businesses told the group that higher signs approved by the commission had brought as much as a 25 per cent increase in business.

With most council members in agreement on raising the sign heights, several suggested that the proposed amendment to the sign ordinance include what types of businesses could be considered freeway oriented. Some recommended that the businesses be limited to gas, food and lodging.

Andy Anderson of the planning staff said there might be a problem in the future when many businesses are competing for air space. He suggested the city might work with the state Division of Highways in having signs on Highway 101 stating "gas-food-lodging" placed at appropriate intersections. Anderson said small emblems of national businesses represented locally could be incorporated beneath the sign.

Robert Koenitzer, planning commissioner, disagreed with the other members saying the national trend is away from large and high signs. Stanley said the commission would consider the amendement at a future meeting and make a recommendation to the city council.

The group also reviewed the possibility of ammending the service station ordinance to permit a large grouping of stations at freeway interchanges. The ordinance now allows only two stations at each intersection.

The proposed amendment will also be discussed at a future planning commission meeting.

Only Half A Burglary In Tamalpais Valley

Ina A. Devin of 295 Flamingo Road, Tamalpais Valley, reported to police that when she returned from a vacation last Thursday that her house had been ransacked and $50 in coins taken, sheriff's deputies said today.

The burglar apparently had been frightened while in the house and had left a television set, a stereo and other articles piled in the front hall.

Informal Talks On Park Plans

The Belvedere Parks and Recreation Commission did not hold its regularly scheduled meeting last night for lack of a quorum, according to Wendy Buchen, secretary.

However, the two commissioners attending informally discussed the proposed parks master plan with several persons in the audience.

The commission will hold another community meeting on the master plan at 8 p.m. Sept. 9 in city hall.

Arabs Again Seek Anti-Israel Unity

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Hoping to capitalize on Moslem indignation over the fire at the Al Aksah Mosque in Jerusalem, the Arab nations have agreed to try to convene a summit meeting of all Islamic nations and also to hold a joint Arab defense council in November.

As the Arabs inched toward unity, in words at least, the U.N. Security Council voted another condemnation of Israel, and the Israelis reported finding 13 Arab missiles trained on the heart of Jerusalem.

Foren ministers and other representatives of the Arab governments ended a two-day meeting in Cairo yesterday with a communique which said Saudi Arabia and Morocco would be asked to line up all the Moslem countries for the Islamic summit. This is to enlist such non-Arab nations ar Iran, Pakistan, Malaysia and Indonesia in the fight against Israel.

The ministers said the Arab defense meeting, to be held in Cairo in the first week of November, would "put the necessary plans toward mobilizing Arab military potentials against Israeli aggression and consolidation of the Palestinian revolution."

Plans for an Arab summit conference to unify action against Israel were postponed until after the November defense meeting.

The Security Council unanimously condemned Israel for an air attack Aug. 11 in which Lebanon claimed four civilians were killed. Israel admitted the attack but said the targets were guerrilla bases in southeast Lebanon from which terrorists had been raiding Israeli border settlements.

Israeli Ambassador Yosef Tekoah told the 15-nation council his government would continue to defend its borders regardless of the resolution.

The unanimous vote came after Lebanon's supporters agreed to include in the resolution an indirect slap at the Arab guerrillas. The provision, demanded by the United States and Britain, deplored "all violent acts" in violation of the 1949 armistice.

Underground Press— Bourgeois?

BERKELEY (AP) — Underground newspapers are "pretentious . . . deviantly bourgeois. . . schizophrenic . . . and dirty," a professor asserts. Two publishers of such papers disagreed.

Walter Gieber, journalism professor at San Francisco State College, also asserted purchasers read only the paper's racy want ads.

On the other hand, Art Kundin who publishes the Los Angeles Free Press said the papers reach those disaffiliated persons who don't read the regular papers.

"We don't ask the police what they think is happening on the streets," he said. "We go out and ask the people on the streets."

The two were on a panel yesterday as the Association for Education in Journalism held its convention at the University of California.

In another speech, Jerome K. Full, director of information services for Eastern Airlines, said: "The news media do not generally concern themselves with the public substance of a corporation."

"They will not offend the most craven or vicious enterprise nor encourage, for fear of committing the heresy of commercialism, the most socially responsible."

Newspapers and broadcasting stations should run the names of companies that pollute the streams and atmosphere and cite by name those which "peddle bad merchandise."

Lifeguard Life No Piece Of Cheesecake

REDNODO BEACH (AP) — A hard-working lifeguard has no time for larking about with pretty girls.

His heroic rescues are likely to take place in about three feet of water.

He spends most of his time handing out bandages, picking up trash or looking for lost objects—children, rings, watches and false teeth.

Such, at least, are the observations of Bob Moore, who has worked for the Los Angeles lifeguard service for more than 35 years.

"I'm afraid a lifeguard's job isn't what it's like in the movies," sighed Moore, still trim, hard and handsome at the age of 59.

Moore has rescued hundreds of persons. One day he and two other lifeguards pulled 82 persons from the surf.

But, he confesses, "the rescues usually occur in the shallows just off the beach.

"They're people who start panicking when a wave hits them and they swallow a little sea water," he said. "These are usually the tired, the fat, the drinkers. They fall face down and can't get back up."

He says it's the muscle men who cause the biggest headaches.

"They swim far out and look back and suddenly people on shore looks like ants," he said.

"They begin swimming, hard and fast. Pretty soon their elbows droop and they go under. I see it coming and haul them to shore."

He blames fear for most drownings.

"Without fear you will float high enough to breath, whether you can swim or not," says Moore. "With fear you thrash around, use up your oxygen, and sink."

BEFORE LEGION — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird waves and smiles prior to addressing the 51st national convention of the American Legion in Atlanta. In his speech yesterday, Laird warned that more cuts in the defense budget would "reduce our defense readiness . . . both short and long term." (AP Wirephoto)

Pentagon Critics Plan New Attack

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators critical of the defense budget are planning new assaults on it despite a Pentagon campaign depicting further cuts as dangerous.

Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., said the Senate no longer will accept as infallible the judgment of the Pentagon or the White House on weapons spending.

When the Senate reconvenes one week from today, it will take up once again an amendment to cut $533 million for the giant C5A transport plane from the defense budget.

Action is due later on an amendment sponsored by Case and Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., to slice $377 million programmed for work on a nuclear-powered aircraft carrier.

Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., is considering an effort to knock out $239 million for the new F14A Navy fighter plane.

Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., is challenging a $90.2 million item for research and development work on a new manned bomber.

And there may be other attempts to trim the $20 billion bill authorizing weapons purchases, research and development spending, and other military outlays.

The overall military budget now stands at some $77 billion.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said yesterday those demanding further big cuts in that budget "are urging a very dangerous course."

Laird told the American Legion national convention in Atlanta that the defense budget has been trimmed $4.1 billion since the new administration took over.

"Even these cuts do not satisfy some critics who impatiently demand additional major reductions," he said.

Laird entered a special plea for $6 billion in research and development spending.

But Case, in a report to his New Jersey constituents, said the long Senate battle over Pentagon spending reflects an irreversible change in approach to the defense problem.

"The American people, I believe, are no longer willing to accept as inevitable the upward spiral of the arms race," Case said. "And the United States Senate clearly is no longer willing to accept as infallible the Pentagon's or even the President's judgment that a particular weapons system is essential to national survival."

Tuesday Session

The Petaluma City Council will meet Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. and not on Monday, Labor Day, as reported in yesterday's Independent-Journal.

Drunken Driving Charge Dismissed

Felony drunken driving charges against Airman Jose Tamayo, 20, of Hamilton Air Force Base were dismissed yesterday in Marin Municipal Court after Deputy Dist. Attny. Gary T. Ragghianti said that witnesses were unavailable.

He said that a passenger in Tamayo's car who was injured in an accident Dec. 22 on Highway 101 is still hospitalized in a mental hospital in the East and has no memory of the collision.

Two other witnesses cannot be located, Ragghianti said.

One Killed In Munitions Explosion

NEWHALL (AP) — An explosion rocked a munitions and flare manufacturing plant building last night, killing one man and injuring nine others, sheriff's deputies said.

It was the second death within a week from an explosion at such a plant, the other coming last Thursday in an explosive-making plant at another company's nearby site.

Fire officials said there was absolutely no suspicion of arson or sabotage. Both firms involved have extensive defense contracts, officials said.

The dead man, burned over most of his body, was identified as Ian K. Bruce Jr., 30, Lancaster.

The building, at the Bermite Powder Co. three miles east of Newhall, was destroyed with $20,000 damage, Los Angeles County fire officials said.

The cause was unknown but the sheriff's substation at Newhall said it received a report that a worker saw a spark just before the explosion, which touched off a fire that engulfed the structure of steel and concrete.

Flares and explosives were made in the building, officials said.

Deputies said the blast occurred in a disposal area and that magnesium might have been what was initially touched off.

U.S. Help Promised For Smogless Car

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — Presidential science advisor, Lee DuBridge said yesterday it may take some kind of new, unconventional "automotive propulsion device" for cars to solve the pollution problem before the turn of the century.

And, he said, the government plans to spend some money to help the auto industry to speed development.

DuBridge said there may be a lively race between companies trying to turn out an unconventional car engines and those seeking to improve the gasoline engine to the point pollution will be no great menace.

"We do not know," DuBridge told reporters, "how that race will turn out but we want to make sure it is a lively race and that the federal government stimulates private industry to encourage development along all these lines.

The Department of Transportation, DuBridge said, is spending $2.2 million in this field now, but hopes to double or triple that in the next year or two.

He said many private companies are putting up funds and with a little stimulation and federal insistence, he said, it is thought there will be rapid stimulation for turning out prototypes to do the job.

"We think," he said, "these will be developed by private industry because the opportunities of sales of automobiles is so enormous that there is great attractiveness in getting the best possible engine so they can keep ahead of the requirements for air pollution."

Opinions On Tam High To Be Reported

Public opinion about the Tamalpais High School District, sought in a survey of the community, teachers and students by Field Research of San Francisco, will be reported when the district board meets at 8 p.m. Sept. 8 in the Little Theater at Redwood High School.

The $18,500 survey was ordered after the district's third failure to pass a building bond issue. The board is urging the public to attend and hear the report, according to Administrative Assistant Edward J. Neumeier.

FLOATING INFERNO—Flames from a burning Gate 5 houseboat illuminate the Sausalito waterfront as firemen attempt to quell the blaze. Neighbors worked to tow the burning boat away from neighboring houseboats. The fire broke out about 9:45 p.m. and ended 45 minutes later with the houseboat sinking on the mudflats between Gate 5 and Strawberry Point. (Photo by Sandra Jahns)

Fire Destroys Gate 5 Houseboat

A spectacular fire swept through a Gate 5 houseboat last night, destroying it before it sank in the mudflats between Strawberry Point and Gate 5. No one was injured.

The blazing boat also dam- $3,000 to the structure and $200 fore neighbors cut it loose and towed it away from the thickly populated area, Marin County Fire Chief Louis J. Bloom reported.

Bloom said the fire call came at 9:43 p.m. When the first unit arrived a few minutes later the houseboat already was being towed away.

Neighbors told Bloom they heard a sound like someone blowing a horn, looked out and saw the houseboat afire. An explosion followed, he said.

The cause of the fire is being investigated.

Bloom said the boat was owned by John Steinert and Dennis Samson. Neither was at home at the time of the fire.

A boat owned by Eric Morris had 14 windows broken and the side was scorched — $400 damage. The boat on the other side, owned by Pat Petteruti, had $100 damage, Bloom reported.

Assisting the county fire department was the City of Sausalito and the Coast Guard. The Coast Guard was called in as the boat was being towed out but as two Coast Guard boats arrived, the houseboat burned to the water and sank.

Bloom said major assistance also came from neighbors.

The area is one which has worried county officials for some time, Bloom said. There are no hydrants and water has to be hauled in.

The fire followed by three days a statement on national television by John F. McInnis, chairman of the board of supervisors, on the health and safety problems of the houseboat colony.

They've never had a fire so they don't think there will be one, McInnis said.

Marin Republicans Name Two New Representatives

Two new district representatives were named to the Marin County Republican Central Committee last night, chairman Charles Michals reported.

Sterling Hilen of Novato was named fifth district representative to succeed J. Wallis Madocks, and Susan Schwab of San Rafael was named first district representative to succeed Morton R. Colvin. Both former members have moved from their districts.

The committee also appointed Beth Rowen of San Rafael chairman of the resolutions committee, repiacing Colvin, and announced she will head "Operation Research and Response," which will study state and national issues, bills, candidates and officials to provide information and expertise to the central committee, Michals said.

The committee passed a resolution opposing Assembly Bill 325 on conflict of interest, contending it goes too far, and sent a telegram to Gov. Ronald Reagan stating the committee's position.

The Marin County Republican Central Committee also:

PRECINCTS — Appointed Ruby Streiff precinct director to succeed Mrs. Rowen.

FUND-RAISING — Announced a new finance program, "Operation Outrage," aimed at broadening the committee's support among the county's 45,000 Republicans, Michals said.

DINNER — Announced a "party-to-people" dinner will be held Oct. 28 at the Holiday Inn with guest speaker State Sen. George Dukmejian, R- Long Beach, the Senate majority leader.

Fourth Wife Sues Builder For Divorce

San Rafael builder Edward W. Burgar has been sued for divorce by his bride of nine months, his fourth wife.

Dolores J. Burgar, 40, for whom this was the third marriage, charged cruelty and asked $850 a month temporary support pending the settlement of the case.

According to a suit filed Monday in Marin Superior Court, the Burgars were married Nov. 27, 1968 and separated Monday. Their home is at 73 Corte Precita, Greenbrae.

In June, 1968, Burgar was divorced from his third wife, Betty, and she was awarded a house in Greenbrae, $20,000 cash, alimony of $1,000 a month and a promissory note for $122,250.

A previous wife, Edna G. Burgar, won an estimated $500,000 worth of property and cash in a divorce settlement approved in Superior Court in 1961.

Two Injured When Car Hits Railing

Two Torrance residents were injured yesterday at 5 p.m. when their car struck a concrete bridge railing on Highway 101 north of Washington Street, Petaluma.

The driver, Walter E. McGahuey, 34, was reported in good condition at Hillcrest Hospital with head cuts. His passenger, Betty Hanson, 40, was reported in good condition with chest injuries. The California Highway Patrol said the car drifted off the right side of the road striking a guardrail and then crossed the roadway, striking the bridge railing.

Apartment Addition Unit Ordered Removed

A building addition under construction on a three-unit apartment at 20 Walnut Avenue should be removed, the Larkspur Planning Commission recommended last night.

The commission denied a use permit sought by Robert Busse for the addition and recommended the city council start abatement proceedings to have it removed.

According to a staff report, Busse has violated five city ordinances by failing to take out building, electrical, plumbing and heating permits and by failing to get the use permit before starting the addition.

The staff report also recommended denial of the use permit because the lot is below standard size for the existing three units, and because no additional parking is available.

Architectural supervision of remodeling of a Standard Oil service station at Eliseo Drive and Sir Francis Drake Boulevard was postponed to the Sept. 23 meeting at the applicant's request.

The commission adjourned to Sept. 23, agreeing to omit the scheduled Sept. 9 meeting for lack of business, secretary Barbara Bruton reported.

Play At Church

The Black Arts Drama group production of "Soul Survival" will be presented Friday, Sunday and Monday nights at 8:30 p.m. in the St. Andrew United Presbyterian Church in Marin City rather than in the Manzanita as orginally scheduled, the group announced today.

MEAT PIES shaped like turnovers are the traditional Welsh pasties. But this recipe adds a half cup wheat germ to the pastry and a bit also to the spicy meat filling.

Wheat Germ Goes Into Welsh Pasties

Pasties, actually meat pies shaped like turnovers, were first cooked up by the wives of Welsh coal miners for inclusion in dad's lunch pail. But now they are enjoyed universally.

You may like this recipe for pasties, particularly, because:

1. They can be made ahead of time, frozen and cooked just before serving.

2. They're great for youngsters, either at lunch or as the piece de resistance at a teenage party.

3. Or, they can be nutritious, nicely spiced, hearty fare for the family at dinner, when served with a cole slaw or a tossed salad.

The meat filling and the wheat germ pastry are easy to make and economical. Pasties can be eaten with a fork, or out of hand. The recipe yields 12 to 14 pasties.

WHEAT GERM PASTIES

Meat Filling

½ cup chopped onion
1 small clove garlic, minced
2 tsp. cooking oil
1 cup (½ lb.) ground beef
1 cup (¼ lb.) finely chopped hard salami
2 tbsp. wheat germ
1 tbsp. unsifted flour
½ tsp. salt
½ tsp. oregano
⅛ tsp. pepper
½ cup water
⅛ cup catsup

Saute onion and garlic in oil until onion is tender. Add beef and salami. Cook over medium heat until beef is lightly browned. Stir in remaining ingredients. Simmer 15 minutes.

Wheat Germ Pastry

1¾ cups unsifted flour
½ cup wheat germ
3 tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. salt
½ cup shortening
¾ cup milk

Measure flour, wheat germ, baking powder and salt into mixing bowl; stir well to blend. Cut in shortening with pastry blender until mixture resembles coarse meal. Add milk. Stir with fork until all ingredients are moistened. Turn out onto lightly floured cloth-covered board. Knead gently 10 to 12 times. Roll dough to ⅛-inch thickness. Cut into 4½-inch circles. Place about 2 tablespoons of Meat Filling on lower half of each circle. Moisten edges. Fold over. Press edges with tines of fork to seal. Place on ungreased baking sheets. Bake at 400° for 12-15 minutes. Yield: 12-14 pasties.

FLANK STEAK with an Italian dressing marinade is complemented with a green salad, fresh fruit and cheese dessert. Tuck onions, carrots and mushrooms alongside the meat on the serving platter to complete the main dish.

Celebrate Labor Day Weekend With Elegant Almond Tarts For Dessert

Nothing makes a menu say "party" like an elegant dessert. Almond Tarts with Fruit Sundae Sauce will conclude even the simplest of meals on a gala note. They are also splendid for dessert-and-coffee entertaining.

ALMOND TARTS WITH FRUIT SAUCE

1 cup blanched almonds
1 cup flaked coconut
¼ cup butter or margarine
¼ cup granulated sugar
1 pint vanilla ice cream
Fruit Sauce

Fruit Sauce

½ cup dates
½ teaspoon grated orange rind
½ cup orange juice
½ cup brown sugar, packed
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
3 tablespoons chopped maraschino cherries

Grind almonds medium-fine in food chopper and mix with coconut. Work in butter and sugar until crumbly. Cross 2 strips waxed paper in each of 6 or 7 greased shallow 3-inch custard cups, allowing paper to stick up over rims of cups. Press crumbly mixture firmly into bottoms and sides of cups. Bake at 375 degrees 10 to 12 minutes. Cool in cups. Loosen tart shells from cups and carefully lift out by paper tabs. Remove paper. Place scoop of ice cream in each shell. Top with spoonful warm Fruit Sauce.

Fruit Sauce: Cut dates into small pieces; combine with orange rind and juice, sugar and butter. Bring to boil, stirring until sugar is dissolved. Boil about 5 minutes, until thickened. Stir in cherries. Cool slightly.

Makes 6 or 7 tarts.

Flank Steak Tasty For Family Dinner

High in flavor, low in cost, beef dinner made with flank steak is a top favorite for family dining. The natural goodness of this flavorful meat is accented by a marinade of Italian dressing. Good with this, are mushrooms, onions and carrots. Add a tossed green salad, wine, and a dessert of fresh fruit and cheese, and you will have a satisfying balanced dinner.

Brush both sides of a two pound flank steak generously with Italian dressing. Let steak marinate in the refrigerator for several hours. Broil at high heat, 2 inches from the burner, allowing 5 to 7 minutes on each side. Carve on a board with a gravy well, or on a tray or deep platter. Slice thin diagonally against the grain. Serves 4 to 6.

Rotisserie

To speed browning when roasting meats in a rotisserie, add a teaspoon of sugar to the fat used for basting, during the last half hour of cooking.

It's Almost Time To Think About Filling Lunch Boxes

"School Days, School Days," are back again. The children are at school leaving mother time to do all those things she has planned all summer.

Along with all those projects, comes the task of providing nourishing lunch box meals for the youngsters. Mothers must make lunches that fit the tastes of each youngster while keeping variety and proper nutrition in each lunch.

Lunch should supply one-third of the daily nutritional requirements, and therefore should include servings from the four food groups: milk, vegetables and fruit, meat, and breads and cereals.

A typical lunch that will please youngsters while providing them with the foods they need is Swiss Cheese Spread on whole wheat bread, carrot sticks, an apple or orange or both, cookies and cold milk. At most schools, ice cold milk can be purchased under the special school milk program.

SWISS CHEESE SPREAD

2 cups Swiss Cheese (½ lb.), shredded
½ cup ripe or stuffed olives, chopped
½ teaspoon prepared mustard
¾ cup mayonnaise or yogurt

Combine ingredients; blend well. Makes 2 cups sandwich spread.

LUNCH BOX IDEAS

Home economists have come up with some ideas to help you make lunch-away-from-home as appetizing and appealing as possible.

Make homemade breads often and use in the lunch box menus. Find a recipe for a bread made with cottage cheese, it is sure to be moist and not to crumble.

Add Butter

Keep spaghetti or macaroni from boiling over while cooking by adding a tablespoon of butter or margarine in the cooking water.

Write your youngsters little notes and hide them among the lunch box packages.

When it gets cold, fill a thermos with the child's favorite hot cream soup. Include crackers or croutons to eat with the soup. Either send a spoon, or let the youngster drink the soup out of the thermos cup.

Butter both slices of sandwich bread completely to the edge. This moisture-proof sandwiches with a soft filling and gives additional moistness to sliced meat sandwiches.

Make a salad on a stick — place cherry tomatoes, celery slices, carrot slices, and cheese and bologna cubes on skewers or toothpicks. Wrap securely in a plastic wrap.

Make a dessert on a stick — place marshmallows, pineapple tidbits, mild cheese cubes, and prunes, dates, or dried apricots on skewers.

Obtain plastic containers that seal tightly and send pudding made with milk or canned fruit for dessert.

Dried Beef

Creamed dried beef, with toasted almond slivers on crisp waffles makes an unusually good luncheon dish—unless it is too salty. Saltiness can be corrected by stirring in a little sugar. Start with ⅛ teaspoon to 4 servings, and taste; add more sugar if necessary.

Blue Cheese Combined In A Meatloaf

Combine the taste of beef with the salt-and-pepper flavor of blue cheese for a pleasing family or party entree.

Entrees, hors d'oeuvres, snacks, salads and main dishes are just a few ways the flavor combination may be served.

ROLLED STUFFED MEAT LOAF

2 pounds ground beef
2 cups soft bread cubes
½ cup milk
¼ cup minced onion
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
1 egg

Soak bread cubes in milk. Combine all ingredients and mix thoroughly.

Pat meat into an 8 x 14 rectangle on double sheet of foil.

Filling

½ cup minced celery
½ cup mushroom pieces
½ cup minced onion
½ cup butter
4 cup soft bread cubes
½ cup chopped parsley

Saute celery, mushrooms, onion in butter. Add rest of ingredients and mix well. Spread over meat mixture. Roll up in foil, securing well. Freeze. Bake at 450 degrees for one hour and 15 minutes. Open foil for last 15 minutes to brown. If not frozen, bake at 450 degrees for 44 minutes. Open foil last 15 minutes.

Thoughts On Loneliness, Love

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Loneliness and confusion about love account for many people's personality problems today, both as individuals and in groups, says Dr. Erika Chance.

In an interview at her home in Sausalito Dr. Chance, who holds a Ph.D. in psychology from Stanford University, discussed a variety of family situations.

An authority on child psychology and family relationships and a specialist in group psychotherapy, she is an associate clinical professor in the department of psychiatry in the California Medical School. She is also a consultant to the San Francisco school system and previously was a consultant for psychologists in the San Rafael schools.

"I AM CONSTANTLY impressed with the extent to which the family keeps coming into the problems of individuals," says the Vienna-born psychologist, adding that she is not "a red-hot Freudian."

"I feel it is important for each individual to work out what the important relationships are with family members and other important people in his life.

"In marriage people think love will make everything all right, but they haven't thought through what love is. Parents constantly look for some way of manupulating the kids, and this is why so many cry 'phony!' It isn't love. It's manipulation. On the other hand, the kids under-estimate how hard parents are trying to do what is right. They keep looking for gimmicks."

Part of the difficulty for parents, she explains, is that they are afraid to look into themselves. They can't love themselves, and it is very hard to love other people if they don't like themselves. They are also very unsure of themselves.

"VALUES HAVE changed so much that they find it difficult to know what they really believe from what they have read in newspapers or books," she says.

"If they know what they believe, even if it is against what the children believe, they will have something to offer."

A large part of the youth rebellion is just "Take notice!" she maintains.

Dr. Chance believes that loneliness is at the bottom of many of the problems experienced by both adults and children. The reasons for this, she says, include the looser organization and mobility of families, breakdown of marriage, impersonality of communities and decreasing importance of the church.

"PEOPLE PLACE so much importance on 'am I well liked?' when the really important thing is that they must first be able to like themselves," she stresses.

In their efforts to know themselves and escape loneliness many people are joining groups established for this purpose.

As a specialist in group psychotherapy Dr. Chance approves of this approach, but she has some very strong reservations about certain kinds of groups.

"The group approach is less expensive than the individual," she says, "but I'm not in favor of it for this reason, but because one of its great advantages is that the person is less lonely and feels less isolated in a group. He is less dependent on the therapist, and it is often easier for him to accept suggestions from his peers than from an expert.

"THE BIG QUESTION is how well is the group selected and conducted. It is very important that each person be interviewed first, and sufficient time must be allowed.

"There are strong differences between group psychotherapy and sensitivity training," Dr. Chance emphasizes. "One of the major differences is that in group therapy you have someone who is responsible — a professional person adequately trained. If he doesn't do the job right, he can be blamed. There is a professional contract for care of a person by that or other techniques.

"IN SENSITIVITY training there is neither a therapist nor a patient and no clear contract as to who is responsible, it seems to me."

"Many troubled people are intrigued by the help that sensitivity training promises. They think they will be less lonely if they take it, but there is not necessarily any attempt by the leaders to select and evaluate who is in these groups nor who takes responsibility for what happens to the people afterward.

"It attracts so many weak or disturbed people, giving them the illusion that it is just a matter of using the right techniques and that they don't have to look for the real trouble within themselves. So-called frank criticism by group members in meetings can be nothing more than hostility practice sessions, and this can mean disaster for the individual with inferiority feelings.

"Anyone thinking of going into such a group," Dr. Chance recommends, "should first decide how seriously he wants to work on himself. He should not go anywhere where he is not seen individually first before going into a treatment group.

"THE BEST procedure when looking into any psychological service would be to make a contract for two or three individual appointments with a professionally qualified person," she urges, "who is then in a position to recommend whatever kind of service is best for the individual and his problems."

The psychologist says she decided on the general direction of her career when at the age of 13 in Vienna she helped with the psychological testing of some babies. She is the only member of her family not a physician. Her father was a professor of medicine; her mother is in general practice in San Francisco, and she has two brothers who are doctors.

Dr. Chance, who talks softly with a slight accent, went on to describe her background.

"I call myself a professional sandwich," she says, "because my B.A. honors degree from University College in London and my Ph.D. from Stanford University are both in psychology. In between I received a degree in psychiatric social work from the University of London.

"I came to the United States in 1949 to New York, where I worked as a group psychotherapist in the Child Guidance Institute under Sam Slavson, who is considered the father of the group psychotherapy technique.

"AFTER RECEIVING my Ph.D. I was a research director for a child guidance clinic in Philadelphia. Then I came back in 1956 to the Bay Area as research associate at Mt. Zion Hospital in San Francisco. I did this full time until 1962 and am still a member of its attending staff.

"In 1959 my book "Families in Treatment" was published, and while studying families in a child guidance clinic, I became interested in how the staff saw their patients, and this is what brought me to the teaching of clinicians."

Dr. Chance has been teaching full time since 1962. She also has a private practice in San Francisco and holds seminars at her home for colleagues. One interesting part of her work is with the social worker in charge of a marriage conciliation court in the Bay Area.

Her hobbies are music, swimming, walking and languages. In addition to English she speaks French, German and some Italian.

A Tea And Swim Party Next For Debutantes

By MOLLY MARIN

Although the Marin Ball debutantes are returning today after their charter flight to Beverly Hills for the party given last night by the Dewey Donnells at the Beverly Hills Hotel, things are by no means over. Mrs. Jordan L. Martinelli will be the hostess tomorrow afternoon for a tea honoring her deb granddaughter, Louisa Martinelli, at the former's home in San Rafael. Both the Marin debs and San Francisco debs have been invited with their mothers, as Wiki Martinelli will make her debut both at the Marin Ball and the Cotillion in December.

Mrs. Martinelli has asked Wiki's other grandmother, Mrs. Reginald D. Jenkins of San Francisco, and her aunt, Mrs. William J. P. Jackson of San Mateo, to pour tea. And assisting with the receiving of guests will be Mmes. Leon Smith, Thomas Kent, Fred Herrington, Wallace Scott, Kenneth Lowe, Russell Smith, John Kirkpatrick, Charles Pollock, William Haney, Roderic Martinelli, Charles Tuttle and Frank Baumgarten.

In the receiving line to greet their guests with Wiki will be her mother, Mrs. Jordan Martinelli Jr. of Ross, and the hostess. Guests have been invited from Marin, Sonoma, San Francisco, the East Bay and Woodland for the 4 o'clock tea.

THE MILL VALLEY Tennis Club will be the scene of an informal swimming, barbecue and dancing party Saturday for the Marin debs and their dates given by the parents of Phila Cousins and Debbie Bleicher.

Phila is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan R. Cousins Jr. of Sausalito, and Debbie's parents are Capt. and Mrs. A. L. Bleicher of Mill Valley.

The party will begin at 6:30 p.m. and continue through the evening with dancing to music provided by a Mill Valley band.

PRESS GUIDE IS AVAILABLE

A new guide for press chairmen of organizations which are interested in getting news to the Marin Women's Section of the Independent-Journal is now available at the San Rafael main office and the Novato, Mill Valley and Southern Sonoma I-J offices.

The booklet, "Getting News Into Your Newspaper," is issued as a service of the Independent-Journal Women's Section to assist press chairmen for women's organizations.

(AP wirephoto)

Why High Cost Of Eating Wrecks Their Food Budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — The cost of getting food from the farmer to the housewife has soared 160 per cent in two decades and now consumes two-thirds of America's grocery bill. The House Agriculture Committee cites these figures:

Twenty years ago, when Americans spent $45 billion a year for food, the farmer got about $20 billion and the middlemen $25 billion. Today, when the nation's annual food bill is about $90 billion, the farmer gets about $30 billion and the middlemen about $60 billion.

The recent upward trend—the Labor Department reported Friday that the cost of living advanced again in July and is going up at the fastest rate in 18 years—has been so steep that in some areas housewives are talking of boycotts in an attempt to bring down the cost of food.

" MY FOOD BILL averaged $135 a month in 1964 and the same stuff would cost me about $275 monthly in 1969. That hurts," said Mrs. Jan Stophlett, who is leading a protest movement in Cocoa Beach, Fla.

Similar complaints are being sounded elsewhere.

"We're supposed to be on a budget, but the money never lasts as long as it's supposed to," said Mrs. Judy Sidman, a Natick, Mass., mother of two.

"It's the prices of things like bread and milk that hurt, not the luxuries because we just don't buy that many luxuries."

The widening farm-to-consumer gap is clear in a comparison of Agriculture Department statistics showing what happened to the money a housewife paid for a loaf of bread 20 years ago and what happens to it today.

In 1949, the average price of a one-pound loaf of white bread was 13.5 cents. Today, the same loaf costs 22.9 cents.

In 1949, the retailer's slice of the bread price was 2.2 cents. Today it is 5 cents.

In 1949, the baker and wholesaler—the key middlemen—got 6.3 cents. Today they get 12.2 cents.

In 1949, 1.7 cents of the retail price went for milling, grain handling and transportation. Today the figure is 2.4 cents.

In 1949, the farmer received 3.3 cents for his wheat and other ingredients—such as lard, sugar and dried milk—that went into the loaf of bread. Today he gets the same 3.3 cents.

The staff of the House Agriculture Committee, in a report this year, pointed directly at the middlemen in discussing the reasons for rising prices.

"PROCESSORS AND marketing agencies—the middleman between farmers and consumers—experiencing higher costs, have been successful in adding greatly increased charges to farmers' products before they reach the consumer," the report said.

Middlemen bristle at the contention they're solely to blame for higher prices.

"It's inflation—pure and simple," said Clarence Adamy, president of the National Association of Food Chains.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Parent Cruelties To Children May Be Stopped With Legal Aid

Dear Helen:

I want to keep my brothers and sisters from the misery I had when I was home, but how? I've talked to the welfare people and they don't seem concerned. I guess a child has to be so battered he shows up in the hospital before they take action.

What happened to me is happening all over again with the younger kids. My brother called me (long distance, reverse charges) at 5 a.m. (so Mother wouldn't hear). He says the kids aren't allowed outside except to do the shopping she won't do. They have bruises all over where she hits them. She beats on Dad who just stands there and takes it, and the language she screams out is vile. He says she's sick and can't help it, but he could help his children — if he would!

Here are some of the things I took before I ran away for the last time at age 16: (Luckily I found a wonderful man and, at 20, I have a nice home and two children.)

I was beaten with a heavy piece of firewood for such little things as not getting home from the grocery store in 15 minutes. She never goes outside the house so the kids run all the errands.

Several times she tried to choke me. She has thrown me to the floor and kicked me. All the while my father stayed in the other room, mainly because she was so jealous of him that she accused him of incest if he took up for me. She wouldn't even let him look at me or be in the same room.

The first time I ran away I stayed with my beloved grandparents, but she threatened them with the law and made me come home. Then she took away all my bedclothes, even coats and robes, and made me stay in my room for two months, coming out only for school and food. It was November and very cold.

These are only a few of her actions. The one time Dad tried to arrange psychiatric help for her, she went wild and said if he ever tried that again she'd do something terrible to us kids. We lived in even more fear after that.

With Dad petrified of her, there's no one who can make the welfare people understand. My brothers and sisters are in danger: They're aged 9, 10, 12 and 13. If my husband and I took them away, she'd get them back, and make life Hell for all of us. She puts on a good show for the authorities.

What can we do? — FEARFUL SISTER

DEAR SISTER :

Consult a lawyer or your district attorney. Your father must be told that he is as guilty as your mother if he allows these cruelties. If he still refuses to ask help for his children — and his wife —then I believe you and your husband, with legal aid and neighbors' testimony, can make a case strong ecough to save your brothers and sisters. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

You asked for letters from happily married men, telling how it happened. Here's my formula:

1. Get up before her occasionally, and make breakfast for her. (Thanks for the many meals she prepares for you.)

2. When the kids aren't in school, surprise her at times by not waking her at all, but getting yourself off to work. (Thanks for the many sleepless nights she spent nursing you and the children through illnesses.)

3. Never forget her special days — anniversaries, Valentines Day, etc.

4. Do one of her jobs, like throwing a load into the washer or a professional kitchen waxing job. (Thanks for her uncomplaining performance of many dull tasks.)

5. Our nightcap is a cup of tea which I prepare and serve just before bedtime. (This ends her day by having something done for her, not by her.)

I believe the words of the song, "Try a Little Tenderness" should be the anthem of all married men. While marriage should be 50-50, try to give 70 and you'll find her doing the same! — HAPPY FATHER OF THREE TEEN-AGERS

DEAR HAPPY:

Congratulations on your 140-proof marriage! Your wife is a lucky gal — who I'm sure, deserves her luck. —H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

Food Prices Soar To The Benefits Of The Middleman

rising cost—labor costs up more than 100 per cent in 20 years, costs of containers and packaging material up 40 per cent, overhead cost such as went up 96 per cent.

HOUSEWIVES, THEY add, also are demanding foods that require more and more processing—canned chocolate pudding, for example, or frozen three-course dinners.

A commission set up by former President Johnson to study food marketing costs, however, was critical of "the substantial costs built into the price of food as a result of various forms of selling effort—advertising, sales promotion, expensive packaging, salesmen."

These costs, the commission concluded, "are an important form of inefficiency in the food industry." For example, the farmer gets 4.3 cents for the ingredients in a 41-cent box of cereal. The remaining "marketing margin" is distributed this way:

23 per cent went for labor,

22 per cent for advertising and promotion,

15 per cent for profits before income tax,

13 per cent for containers and supplies,

12 per cent for administrative and otherncosts,

10 per cent for buildings and equipment, and,

5 per cent for transportation.

S. KENT CHRISTENSEN, an economist for the food chain association, said supermarket chain industry profits have dwindled steadily, dropping from 1.41 cents per dollar of sales in 1964 to .99 of a cent last year. He cited these figures from an industry-financed study by Cornell University—a study which also disclosed that the average supermarket's annual sales have climbed for 12 consecutive years and now stand at $1.679,000.

Viewed another way, food chains had after-tax profits last year of 9.18 per cent of their net worth, the Cornell study said. The Agriculture Department, however, places the figure for 58 large chains at 11.5 per cent of net worth, up slightly from the previous year.

THE DEPARTMENT also listed profits for 149 food manufacturers at $1.1 billion last year, up 2.4 per cent from 1967. It said 14 baking firms had profits of $78.7 million, 13.7 per cent of net worth; 12 dairy product manufacturers $227.5 million, 11.4 per cent of net worth; and 34 meatpacking firms, $105 million, 8.2 per cent of net worth.

The increase in food manufacturers' profits "was due mostly to a strong rise in sales volume rather than an improvement in profit margins," department economists concluded.

Middlemen, added Christensen, "have not passed along their costs in the form of price increases as fast as they occur." But farmers who look at the middlemen's profit levels believe they have been left behind.

"Do you know that 100 years ago, on Aug. 1, 1869, wheat was selling for $1.10 a bushel? That's more than we're getting now," grumbled wheat farmer Harold Tonn of Haven, Kan.

Tonn was referring to the cash price for wheat, which dipped below $1 a bushel in Kansas during this summer's harvest. Actually, counting government support payments and subsidies, the farmer in Kansas averages $1.55 a bushel.

FARMERS LIKE Joe Stucky of Pretty Prairie, Kan., points out that the typical American family spends less than 17 per cent of its take-home pay on food, compared with 20 per cent in 1960 and 22 per cent in 1940.

There's a widely held belief among farmers that consumers should be paying more for their groceries.

"I think they should," said John Wagner, a Dane County, Wis., dairy farmer. "Compared with other countries they're living cheap—they're making high enough incomes to afford paying more for food."

HOUSEWIVES, OF course, don't agree.

"I used to buy steak frequently," said Mrs. Irene Berlin of Wilmette, Ill., "but now I have to settle for ground beef—which isn't cheap for a large family."

It's the recent upward surge in beef prices that has brought talk of housewife boycotts.

On Long Island, housewives staged a protest rally with chants like "Let the meat rot," and "Prices too high, we won't buy."

And in Florida, Mrs. Grover Morgan formed a boycott group, saying, "I've decided to grab the bull by the horns and fight the price of beef."

Leo Kaufman, manager of a Miami meatpacking firm, countered: "Nobody ever hears a word when prices sink. Then let 'em rise, and they scream."

BEEF PRICES shot up this spring and summer, analysts said, because production hadn't kept pace with America's awesome craving for beef — per capita consumption has nearly doubled since World War II to 110 pounds a year.

Cattlemen had been keeping the size of their herds in check, remembering past money-losing periods of overproduction. But now, spurred by higher prices, they are moving cautiously to enlarge their herds.

As more and more cattle reach market this fall, the slaughter price of choice beef is expected to drop. But industry officials predict that the wholesale and retail markups will be widened when live cattle prices drop. The net result for the housewife: Retail beef prices will stay about the same as now, or even climb higher.

"I don't think anybody in this country can expect to see $1 round steak again, and certainly not less than about $1.39 for sirloin," said Lyle Liggett of the National Independent Meat Packers Association.

IN ITS LAST quarterly report, the Agriculture Department said the farmer's share of the price paid for a pound of choice beef was 65 per cent. The wholesaler's share was 10 per cent and the retailer's share 25 per cent.

This summer, the average price nationwide for sirloin steak was $1.49 a pound—up 20 cents from six months earlier.

Grocers are just as unhappy as housewives.

From behind the counter of his Hutchinson, Kan., store, Gene Fitzgerald said, "These have been the most unprofitable six months I've ever seen in the meat business."

His costs for a side of beef have increased 25 per cent in a year, he said, but the price he collects from the housewife hasn't gone up as much.

About the only ones happy about rising meat prices are cattlemen.

ON THE AGENDA

Reed District Parent-Teacher Club To Hold Six Gatherings

Six units of the Reed District Parent-Teacher Club will host simultaneous luncheons at noon tomorrow to honor faculty, administrators, trustees, district personnel and members of the executive board.

The annual luncheons follow the first staff meeting after the summer vacation, which will be held Thursday morning.

The new principal of the Reed School, Edward Mosconi, will be introduced at the luncheon to be given by the Reed School unit at the home of Mrs. Stuart Pollack. Robert Gaw, district superintendent, will also attend this luncheon.

The Belvedere unit will give their party at the home of Mrs. Thomas Fleming Jr. in Belvedere. The Tiburon home of Mrs. William Ehrenfeld will be used for the Tiburon unit's function.

Bel Aire unit members will also greet a new principal, Robert Gowen, and Mrs. Gowen, at a luncheon at the home of Mrs. William Redfield in the Seafirth district of Tiburon. William Vanasen, assistant superintendent, will be a guest at this home.

The Granada School faculty will be entertained at the home of Mrs. Jack Coffin in Paradise Cay, Tiburon. The Del Mar unit will give "an old-fashioned picnic" at the home of Mrs. William Di Grazia, district P-TC president, who is also a member of the Del Mar unit.

Chairmen of the various parties are the P-TC unit presidents, Mmes. Raymond Groo, Reed; Allen Mitchell, Belvedere; Bruce Ross, Tiburon; Philip Bass, Bel Aire; Walter Wellinger, Granada, and Kelly Wheeler, Del Mar.

A DAY OF family activities is planned at the Tiburon Peninsula Club on Labor Day.

The program calls for 2 p.m. games and relays for children; baseball for adults and teenagers; 3 p.m., watermelon feast; 4 p.m. pool games, and 5 p.m. barbecue. Members will pack their own picnic baskets, and share the club charcoal broilers, joining forces for a big family supper on the lawn.

Mrs. Douglas Scott is chairman.

THE COTATI Women's Club has scheduled its annual potluck luncheon for Sept. 3. Mrs. Carl Webber will be the hostess at her home in Cotati.

Child Health Unit Appoints Advisors

"Many of the ills of society, including alcoholism, drug abuse, child neglect, and the increasing number of unwed mothers stem from basic emotional needs. In children emotional disturbances often lead to behavioral problems, emotional blocks to learning, disabling tensions and inability to get along with others."

So says Mrs. Malcolm H. Finley of San Rafael, chairman of the Children's Emotional Health committee of the California Parent-Teacher Association, state branch of the National P-TA continuing project whose aim is prevention of children's emotional disturbances.

Mrs. Finley announces the following people, representatives of professional organizations and those especially trained in related fields, have consented to serve as an advisory board for the committee: Herbert Bauer, M.D., Yolo County Mental Health Director; William B. Beach, M.D., State Department of Mental Hygiene; Dr. Eli M. Bower, University of California, School of Education; Allen F. Breed, State Department of Youth Authority; Martin A. Cabalzar, County School Superintendents Association; F. J. Clark, Association of Classroom Teachers; Leonard J. Dalton, Home Health and Counseling Services, Inc.; Dale C. Garell, M.D., Children's Hospital of Los Angeles; Miss Margaret Helton, California School Nurses; Stewart Herriott, California Teachers Association; Theodore A. Montgomery, M.D., State Department of Public Health; Stanley Sworder, State Department of Education, and Wallace C. Young, California Association for Mental Health.

This advisory board will assist the committee in providing essential training and supportive services for P-TA councils and units.

The role of the local P-TA is to increase parents' and teachers' understanding of the importance of the family and the school in safeguarding mental health, and to initiate, cooperate with, and participate in any kind of community action necessary to secure, expand, or improve community mental health resources.

The committee will meet Sept. 9 at Sheraton Palace Hotel, San Francisco. It is now conducting a state-wide survey of mental health facilities and services available and local activities now under way.

Vibrations

A foot massager that doubles as a leg, thigh, waist and back massager is a new personal care product. Designed with a high and low speed vibration switch, the unit has a built-in damper base that prevents the vibration from being transmitted to the floor. A magnetic shield eliminates electrical interference with radio and television reception.

Day Off

Don't over-exert yourself on your day off just because it's a fine summer day. Extra rounds of golf or extra tennis matches can be exhausting, sometimes fatal, the Health Insurance Institute cautions.

ARTS FESTIVAL

Even Lying Down Is Going Euphoric

Bob Ellison yearns to be the total artist, to touch all senses with light, sound sensation, pushing the outside viewer into participation in the art.

Ellison is head gardener of the Garden of Delights, a light show troupe which has glowed at the great rock palaces in San Francisco.

The Garden of Delights will connect with Inner Space Environments and its water bed to create the most total sensation that ingenuity, electricity and carpentry can devise.

Inner Space Environments is made up of Charles Hall and Bruce Harlow, both of Sausalito, who are promoting the water bed that Hall invented. A definition of a water bed, in a welter of euphoric names and artistic nomenclature is directly simple: it's a strong vinyl mattress filled with water.

Put it in a plain frame to keep the water mattress from too much slithering, lie on it and feel the relaxation which can be compared to nothing less than weightlessness.

Twitch a toe. The bed undulates, gurgling pleasantly beneath you as waves run through it and under you.

The combination of talents encompassed in the two otherworldly named operations will result in something approximately like this at the Festival: A few participants at a time enter a darkened room, recline or sit on the gently rolling water bed.

Surrounding them will be depthless waving lights, sometimes moving over persons on the water bed, sometimes on the mobile suspended overhead. Sound will surround the room.

Ellison, now living in a truck in Sausalito, says he visualizes it as "an integrated event so no one does his thing at the expense of someone else. It's based on the structure of a balloon that expands evenly."

At this stage, ideas are still as unstable as the water bed, with ideas popping from the heads of Inner Space and the Gardens. No one has yet mentioned the possibility of some fragrance to further the sense involvement.

What has this got to do with an arts festival, not noted for its gravity, but still traditionally devoted to painting, sculpture, ceramics, wood, leather, photography, weaving and jewelry? None of the artists who have tried the water bed has yet asked "but is it art?"

This environment and another depicting not the enjoyment of the senses but the daily assaults upon them, a tunnel devoted to the smell of herbs and contemplation, plus more traditional arts will be open to the senses from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. during the three-day Labor Day holiday at the arts center on Nevada Street, just off Bridgeway on the north side of Sausalito.

Aretha Franklin Cancels Bookings

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Singer Aretha Franklin, the "queen of soul," has canceled the rest of her bookings for 1969 on the advice of her doctor.

A spokesman for Miss Franklin, 27, said she was suffering from the effects of overwork and needed a rest.

Judy Garland Died In Debt

LONDON (UPI)—Judy Garland was $1 million in debt when she died June 22, her fifth husband said today.

Mickey Deans, who married Miss Garland in London last March, said his wife earned $10.8 million in her lifetime. He said she owed half the debt to the U.S. Internal Revenue Service.

"She should have been a millionairess," Deans said. "But there was no estate. Too many sharks in the business used her as a pawn to their own ends."

Shirley Temple To U.N. Post?

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Richard M. Nixon is expected to name former child actress Shirley Temple Black as the next U.S. ambassador to the United Nations Educational Scientific and Cultural Organization, the Washington Post reported today.

It was reported that Clare Boothe Duce, former ambassador to Italy and widow of publisher Henry Luce, was offered the Paris post but suddenly decided against it.

Mrs. Black was an unsuccessful Republican candidate for Congress last year in California.

Youth Commission Screen Panel Named

A five-member committee to screen candidates for the Marin County Youth Commission was appointed yesterday by the Marin County Board of supervisors.

Supervisors asked that the committee propose three candidates in each of the county's five supervisorial districts.

The screening committee members were suggested by Chris Harris, summer coordinator for the commission. Listed by supervisorial district, they are:

FIRST DISTRICT — John Oliver, 40 Marine Drive, San Rafael, a teacher and former Peace Corps volunteer.

SECOND DISTRICT — Guy Bachelis, 79 San Rafael Avenue, San Anselmo, a director of Switchboard of Marin and a member of the Juvenile Delinquency Prevention Commission.

THIRD DISTRICT — Horace White, 59 Cole Drive, Marin City, a youth worker with the Marin County Human Rights Commission.

FOURTH DISTRICT — Rev. John J. O'Connor, 29 Paloma Drive, Corte Madera, director of the Catholic Social Services Agency and member of the Governor's Youth Conference Committee.

San Anselmo's Robson Park Denied To Art Foundation

Use of Robson Memorial Park as headquarters for Atheneum Arts Foundation was unanimously denied last night by the San Anselmo City Council. (Another San Anselmo City Council story, page 1).

The action was based on an opinion of City Atty. John G. Buresh who said the request could not be legally granted without subjecting the city to liability.

Buresh said a dedicated park is "for the use of all people" and no part of it may be set aside for use of any particular persons or class of persons."

He said that any breach of the park use as spelled out by agreement and court order could result in a reversion of the lands to the Robson Estate.

The San Anselmo City Council Also:

BATHROOMS — Continued to their next regular meeting at 8 p.m., Sept. 16, discussion of two proposed bathrooms at Robson Memorial Park.

TOT LOT — Approved phase A of the tot lot in Memorial Park. Mayor Woodrow Capurro said the plan includes two ground circles with sprinklers for children to play in but no wading pool. Total cost is $2,200.

REZONING — Voted to rezone lots at 58 and 72 Magnolia Avenue, owned by Sidney Alexander and Edward Wicander, from single family to multiple use for housing for senior citizens. Conditions attached are that the lots be combined as one, with a third lot at 37 Magnolia Avenue; that Magnolia Avenue be considered the frontage road, and that seven-and-one-half feet of setback be added to the normal setback on Magnolia.

CREEKSIDE PARKING—Approved the preliminary plan of the creekside parking lot at the Hub with 49 parking spaces and landscaping.

DRAINAGE WORK — Agreed to retain Hoffman and Albritton, engineers, to prepare plans for Melville and Austin avenues storm drains and for Holstein Road street work at a total cost of $17,890. The council also voted to call for bids on the projects with the Holstein Road project to be an alternate.

HUMAN RIGHTS — Heard an invitation from Capurro that anyone who is interested in serving on the human right commission mini board should write to the council and arrangements will be made for an interview with the council. The miniboard is now two persons short of its seven-man complement, since Richard Kientz and Dr. Festus Adebonojo have resigned.

POLICE OFFICERS — Agreed to hire two new police officers, John W. Tegtmeyer, to start Sept. 1, and Joseph R. Mendez, to start Sept. 16, both men to receive $693 monthly.

STREET OPENINGS—Agreed to discuss at its next meeting on Sept. 16 the present right of utility companies to open up streets at will for maintenance or new installations.

PUBLICITY — Adopted an ordinance to allow the San Anselmo Chamber of Commerce to do advertising and publicity on behalf of San Anselmo, Councilman James E. Reed abstaining.

BACK HOE LOADER—Granted permission to advertise for bids for a new back hoe loader, approved in the 1969-70 budget at $14,000.

UNDERGROUNDING — Set 8 p.m., Oct. 14 for a public hearing to discuss undergrounding utilities at the Hub.

CREEK WALK — Set 10 a.m., Sept. 7 as the date to walk the San Anselmo Creek to check for violations on creek property.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned to 8 p.m., Sept. 4, to discuss waste disposal problems created by the backyard burning ban.

$6 Million Suit In Heart Case

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A widow's $6 million suit contends her husband died because of the deterioration of an artificial aortic valve placed in his heart.

The suit was filed in Superior Court yesterday for Mrs. Osiride Kliegl and her three children, Linda, 19; Randy, 16; and Kevin, 12.

Defendants are American Hospital Supply Corp., Edwards Laboratories and Dow-Corning Corp., the valve's manufacturers and suppliers.

The suit says Harold Kliegl, 45, who died Dec. 1, suffered from a rheumatic heart disease and that the operation was performed at Veterans Hospital in Los Angeles. He had been a butcher and a former Marine.

Mrs. Kliegl contends it had been claimed the valve "would last for at least 41 years without wear or fatigue."

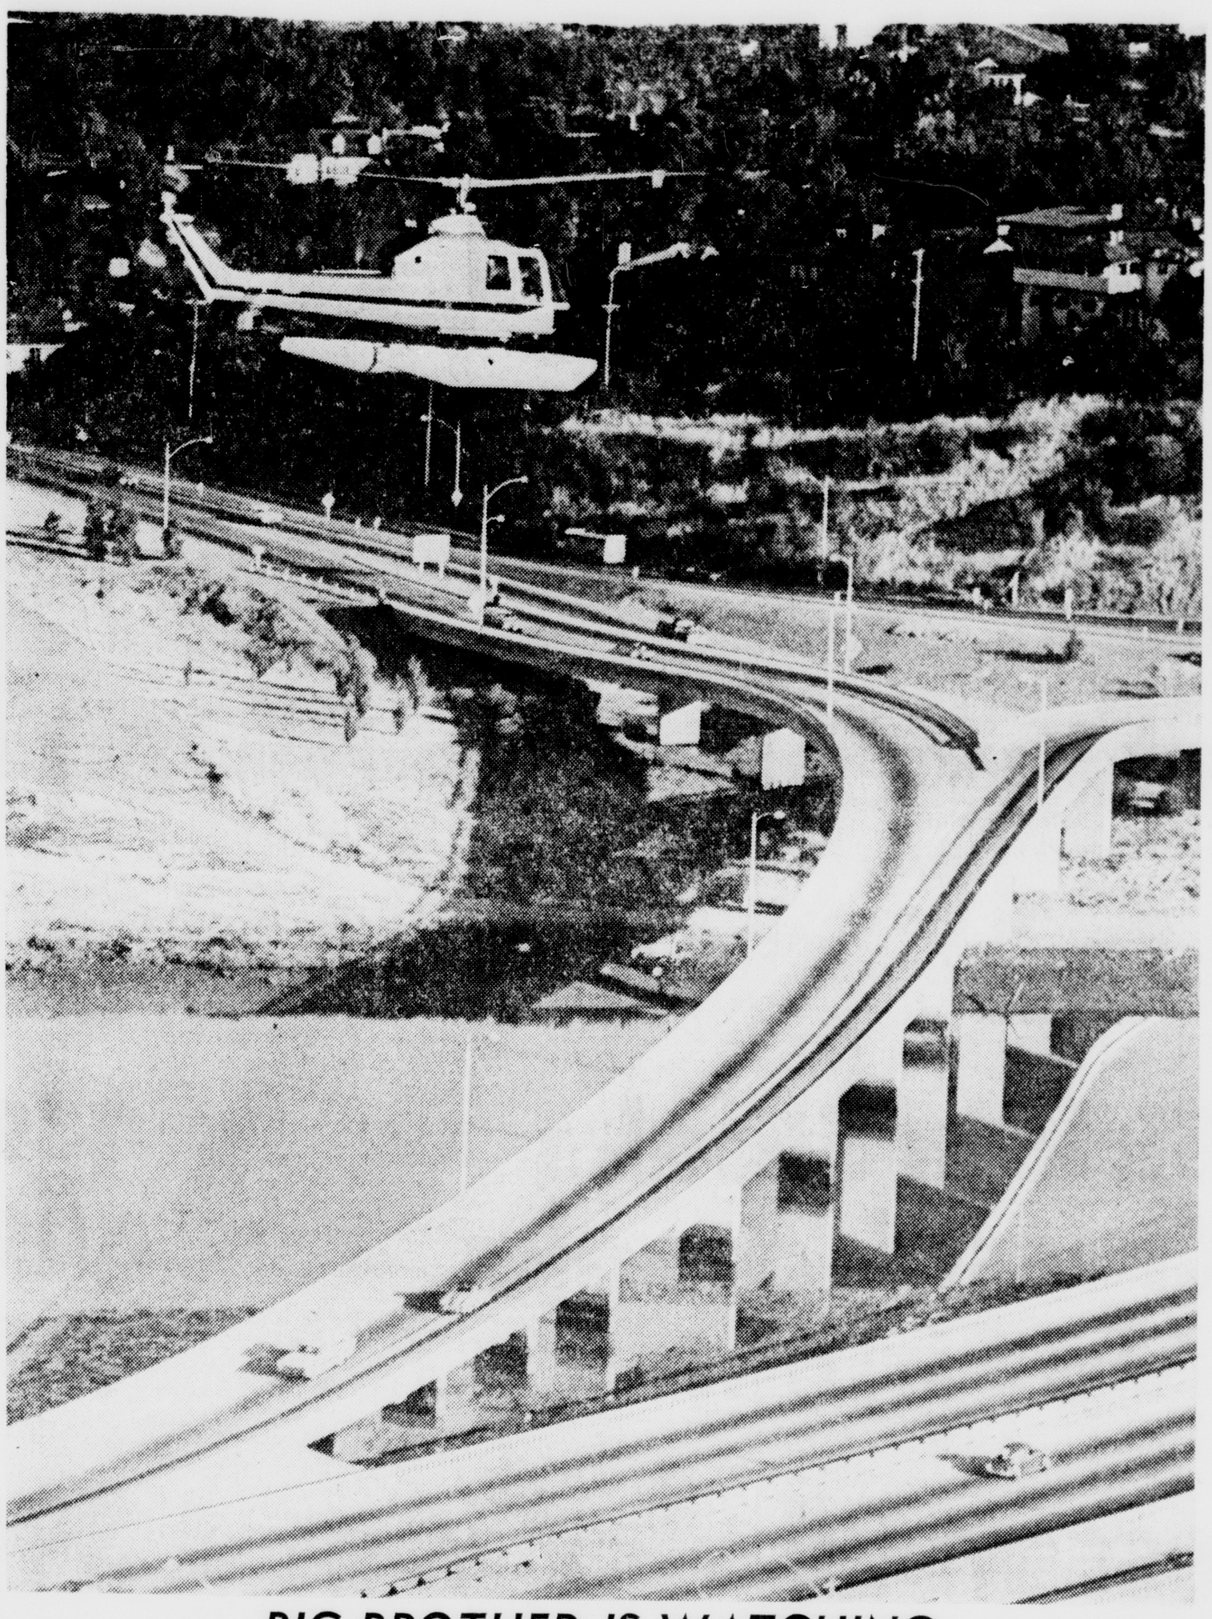
SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

THIRD SECTION SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 27, 1969 23



BIG BROTHER IS WATCHING

Newest addition to Marin skies, a blue and gold California Highway Patrol helicopter, hovers over Sir Francis Drake Boulevard at the Greenbrae interchange watching for potential traffic situations. The chopper, which went into service Monday on a year long experiment, will be used for traffic surveillance, service to motorists and law enforcement, the patrol said. Gate Bridge Role Measure Is Signed

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District has two years to prepare a study on what it should do when it gets out of debt.

Gov. Ronald Reagan has signed into law a bill by Assemblyman John F. Foran, D-San Francisco, which directs the district to study its role after it pays off its bonds in 1971.

The law requires the district to hold public hearings as it studies alternate means of moving people and vehicles between San Francisco and Marin County.

Also, the district "may study, construct, acquire, improve, maintain and operate any and all modes of transportation within the district" but it may not until late in 1971 start any action designed to add a second deck to the bridge.

The law speaks specifically of water transportation by allowing the district to use up to 30 per cent of its net revenue for the next two years "for water transportation services."

Dixie School District Board Chops Pupil Bus Service

Bus service for 60 to 80 pupils in the Nova Albion Way and Lea Drive areas to Don Timoteo and Nova Albion schools will be eliminated late this fall, Dixie School District trustees agreed last night.

Asst. Supt. Joseph B. Goff reported that a 1960 board policy limited bus service to pupils living more than one mile from school, if they are in kindergarten through second grade, and to more than two miles if they are in third through eighth grades.

The special bus service from these two areas was authorized several years ago by the trustees, pending completion of sidewalks to the schools. The work is expected to be completed in October, Goff said.

The only pupils living more than one mile from Don Timoteo School are those in the upper Butternut Drive area, Goff reported. No Nova Albion School pupils will get bus service after the sidewalk project is completed, he said.

In other business, trustees agreed to set up a citizens' advisory group to assess the district's future building program, and asked Goff to propose candidates for the group at the board's Sept. 9 meeting.

But a proposal that an advisory group be formed to review instructional goals was referred back to the staff for more detail on how such a group would work.

Trustees also approved a request by Lucas Valley School Principal William Van Winkle that he be allowed to organize team teaching to avoid the necessity of combining pupils from more than one grade in any single class.

Resignations were accepted from Ronald Davis and Mrs. Roberta Williamson, teachers at Mary Silveira School, from Bernard Hoffman School teacher Neil Fitzpatrick, and from Miller Creek School teacher Gay Guthrie. Trustees hired four teachers: Harland Bartholomew, at $8,140 a year; Mrs. Mary Brenner, at $8,650 a year; James Licklider, at $10,690, and Ronald Weiss, at $8,650. Mrs. Annette Gaskin was hired as a librarian at $7,930 a year.

Trustees also accepted $3,000 in damages from W. H. Chapman, contractor on the AK View School project, for failing to complete the project within the time in the contract.

Subdivision Map Advances

The four hillside lots would have frontages of 90 feet. Nielsen said the anticipated construction of home above average in cost.

The commission, reviewing a referral from the Sonoma County Planning Commission, recommended denial of the use permit application of Elmer Cornelius for a mobile home at 504 Railroad Avenue. The commission said that one mobile home is already at the location and that another would not benefit the area.

SAUSALITO INTEGRATION

Drop In Student Count Continues

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

(Third of five articles.)

While most school districts in California wrestle with problems of growth, the Sausalito district is plagued with a declining school population.

The decline was sharpest during the period when population of Marin City was reduced by removal of wartime housing in preparation for redevelopment. But it has continued each year, with a single exception. There was a very slight rise in enrollment in the 1965-66 school year — the first for the district's integration plan.

The 1960 census showed 2,519 residents in Marin City, in 815 households. A Marin County Housing Authority report in 1964 showed only 449 households, indicating a reduction of nearly half. During the interim, average daily attendance in Sausalito schools declined from 1,245 in 1959-60 to 931 in 1964-65, despite a slow growth of population in Sausalito itself.

The attendance recovered slightly to an average of 934 in 1965-66. Since then, the decline has continued: 885 in 1966-67, then 860 in 1967-68, and 820 last school year. During the last five years, Sausalito population has grown and that of Marin City and the forts has changed little.

Wilson C. Riles, director of the California Department of Education's Commission on Equal Opportunities, commented in a pessimistic 1964 report on the possibilities of integrating the district: "There are an unusual number of youngsters in this district going to private schools. I am not going to say they are going there because they are unhappy with Richardson Bay, because I have no way of determining this. It may be they just like private schools.'

There are many requests for transfer from Sausalito schools to other public schools, besides those children sent to private schools. Applications for transfer by inter-district agreement come from both white and black parents. Sausalito school officials, concerned over this trend, discourage such transfers. Except in cases covered by the exchange agreement between Sausalito and Mill Valley school districts, most of them are denied. Reasons for the requests seldom come to light, since the Sausalito board's practice is to consider them behind closed doors.

The decline in school population has been accompanied by considerable increase in costs. In 1959-60, the Sausalito School District's budget was $559,140. Last year, it was $1,476,217. It has been reduced slightly for this year, to $1,469,959.

Virtually all school budgets have escalated sharply during the decade. It is in cost per pupil that Sausalito's has outstripped others in the area.

The cost for each of the 1,245 pupils in average daily attendance in Sausalito schools in 1959-60 was $481. That for each of the 820 in average daily attendance last year was $1,800.

By way of comparison, cost per pupil in neighboring Reed School District (which has introduced many rather expensive innovations) during the same period rose from $468 to $1,019. In more conservative Fairfax School District (with school population now not quite equal to Sausalito's in 1959-60), it rose from $414 to $794. Kentfield School District spend $482 per pupil in 1959-60 — almost exactly the same amount as Sausalito. Last year its per-pupil cost was $963.

Integration increased the Sausalito school budget from $786,000 in 1964-65 to $989,085 in 1965-66, due in large part to additional busing and personnel. The biggest increase, however, was from $1,172,230 in 1967-68 to $1,476,217 last fiscal year.

Reduction of class sizes has been cited as a principal reason for increases, with Sausalito schools attempting to keep classes down to 20 pupils. There have been other contributing factors, of course.

Special programs have added much to the cost. These have included, among others, a special mathematics program which was largely funded by the state until this year; expansion of the number of teachers' aides; hiring of additional special subject and "resource" teachers; inauguration of a counseling center (an unusual feature for an elementary school district), and numerous field trips for pupils (the district in the last fiscal year paid $8,000 to Kenneth Pratt of Mill Valley, who arranges many of these trips and provides transportation). The field trips became the subject of controversy this year, with some Marin City parents complaining because their youngsters were taken to Black Panther headquarters in San Francisco.

Residents who have complained about the schools contend the added spending has not produced accompanying improvements in learning. The response of school officials has been that more time is needed for the results to become evident to outsiders.

(Tomorrow: School lunches and breakfasts.)

AWOL GI Wounded In Marin City

The victim was identified as Daniel Hayden Jr., 22, of 115 Drake Avenue. He was reported in good condition today at Letterman General Hospital where he underwent surgery last night for damage to an arm artery. Authorities said he would be turned over to military police.

Deputies said Hayden's sister told them the soldier was in Hayden's Market in Marin City when he got into an argument with two men who allegedly had stolen $1,500 from Hayden's father. The sister did not give details of the alleged theft, deputies said.

Deputies said the shooting is still under investigation.

Innocent Plea To Drug Charge

Thomas Hugh Harris, 20, of Larkspur pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to possessing marijuana when arrested Sunday in Larkspur. A preliminary hearing was set for Aug. 28.

Harris, a passenger in a car stopped by police because of a loud muffler and lack of a license plate light, was discovered to be AWOL from the Army when police noted his extremely short hair cut.

Dental Care Plan For Hospital Staff

A dental care plan for Marin General Hospital employees was approved last night by the Marin Hospital District Board,in a 3-1 vote.

The board agreed to accept a Blue Cross plan in which the hospital will pay $4.45 a month for each employee's dental care. Employees can pay for dependents' dental care at a cost of $5 a month for husband or wife and $3.10 a month for all children.

Board President George E. Croke voted against the plan but directors Marion C. Ibach, Thomas K. Procter and George H. Folsom voted for it. Dr. Gwendolyn W. Campion was absent.

The board was told that that 200-pace parking lot across Bon Air Road will be completed Sept. 5 and authorized bid opening at the Sept. 23 meeting for repair and resurfacing of the main parking lot.

The board also authorized opening bids Sept. 23 for remodeling and expanding the emergency department.

The Marin Hospital District Board also:

DIET — Was told the hospital will now offer patients the choice of a low-fat "prudent diet."

BUDGET — Was told the Marin County supervisors have approved the district's 1969-70 tax lefy of $190,760.

RADIOLOGY — Approved buying a film processor for the radiology department for $5,377 from Picker X-Ray Company of San Francisco, low bidder. Other bids were $6,105 from General Electric and $6,945 from the Siemens Company.

Melvin Randolph Not At Meeting

The Independent-Journal erred yesterday in identifying Melvin Randolph as a speaker during a discussion of the breakfast program at a meeting of the Sausalito School District Board Monday night and in identifying him as a Black Panther. Melvin Randolph, an employee of the Marin County Housing Authority, is not a Black Panther and was not at the meeting.

The remarks attributed to him were actually made by another man who said his name was Randolph and identified himself as a Black Panther. His first name was not available today.

Arraignment In Drug Case

Michael Brand Galvin, 22, of 130 Francis Drive, San Anselmo, was arraigned Monday in Marin Municipal Court on a charge of possessing marijuana after an arrest earlier in the day.

Two drug agents said they saw Galvin and another man walking down San Anselmo Avenue in San Anselmo apparently sharing a marijuana cigarette. The other man swallowed the cigarette, they said, but Galvin had two other hand-rolled cigarettes with him.

Judge Hadden W. Roth yesterday ordered the sheriff's department to return $322 taken from Galvin returned to him. Deputies had intended to turn the money over to the Internal Revenue Service.

Galvin was ordered to return to court Sept. 5 to plead to the charge. The other man was not arrested.

Gas Station Burgled In Corte Madera

An employee of the Union 76 service station at Paradise Drive and Highway 101, Corte Madera, arriving at work Monday morning discovered the station's safe had been opened and about $350 had been taken, sheriff's deputies said today.

The burglar apparently knew where a key to the safe was hidden, officers said.

Meningitis Case Not Deadly Kind

A case of meningitis was reported in Larkspur last week, but the case was caused by a bacterium and is not the deadly kind which has caused epidemics on California military posts, Marin County Public Health officer Carolyn B. Albrecht said yesterday.

The illness is not serious and not communicable, she said, although the case was initially reported as a communicable disease.

The public health department also reported 34 cases of gonorrhea in Marin during the week which ended Saturday, and 27 cases of streptococcal infections.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Ringworms Not Always Guilty For Rashes On Toes And Feet

Ringworm should not be blamed for every rash between the toes or on the soles of the feet. The lesions may be due to excessive perspiration or to sensitivity to one of the plastics in shoes. There are other causes of dermatitis and it is foolish to start treatment before a positive diagnosis is made.

Our feet take a beating during the summer when sweating is profuse, particularly if nylon socks or nonventilated or rubber-soled shoes are worn. The affected skin becomes moist, white, and dead-appearing, unless dried and exposed to the air periodically.

VAN DELLEN

MACERATION, blisters, and cracks develop and may look like ringworm. But this diagnosis cannot be confirmed unless scrapings of the tissues are sent to the laboratory and the fungus is found in this material. If the causative microorganism is not present, ringworm treatment is of no value — in fact, it may be worse than the disease.

On the other hand, in susceptible persons, warm, moist skin is made to order for the ringworm organism. Invasion of the toes is followed by a blister, and when it ruptures, the skin becomes scaly, cracked, and red. Scaliness is the most consistent finding and usually is noted unless the tissues are not severely macerated.

FUNGAL INFECTIONS of the skin rarely are confined to one spot. When the nails are involved, they become discolored, thickened, and brittle. They may separate from the toes along the outer edge. If the soles of the feet are affected, there are fine scales, with or without blisters.

Athlete's foot is easy to treat, but there is no guarantee that results will be lasting. The most widely used remedies are griseofolvin tablets by mouth, tolnaftate solution or powder, Desenex, Timofax, Sopronal, and Whitfield's ointment.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

TONSILITIS

REPLY

Not in the strict sense. Rheumatic fever may be preceded by tonsilitis, but those destined to develop rheumatic fever have an inherent susceptibility to certain streptococci. When members of this select group develop tonsilitis or sore throat caused by strep organisms, rheumatic fever may be the outcome. These children usually benefit from tonsilectomy.

INFECTION

D. D. writes: Could infection somewhere in the body raise the blood pressure?

REPLY

Yes, especially if the infection is located in the urinary tract and affects the kidneys. On the other hand, the most common forms of high blood pressure are of vascular origin and are associated with stress and strain rather than infection.

CHEEK-TO-CHEEK CHAT

C. C. writes: Is it safe for me to carry on a cheek-to-cheek conversation with a person who has a collapsed lung due to tuberculosis?

REPLY

This depends upon whether his sputum contains the tubercle bacilli. Why the cheek-to-cheek conversation? Are you deaf? Or, are you in love?

RATING MILK

P. B. writes: How does milk rate calorically?

REPLY

An 8 ounce glass of whole milk contains 165 calories; skim milk has a 90 calorie value and buttermilk (if it is made from skimmed milk) contains 90 calories.

Extremists Hit Sex Education In Maryland

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Maryland is one of four states where right-wing extremists are waging their "most intense" campaigns against sex education in public schools, a National Education Association official said yesterday.

Paul Putnam of the NEA testified that the intensity of the anti-sex education effort in Maryland is matched only by campaigns in California, Oregon and Washington.

Putnam appeared before a special panel appointed by the Maryland Board of Education to review the board's controversial requirement that sex courses be taught in public schools.

Part of the quickness of the anti-sex education movement in Maryland is because "the leadership of many right wing groups is located in Washington, D.C.," Putnam said.

79 Evening Courses Offered To Southern Sonoma Residents

Southern Sonoma residents will have the opportunity to choose from among 79 adult education evening courses this year with classes scheduled to be held in Petaluma, Rohnert Park and Cotati.

Classes will open Tuesday and will continue through June 3. Registration may be made Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at either Petaluma Senior High School or Rohnert Park Junior High School from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. or at the high school district administration building, Fifth and B streets, Petaluma, from noon to 4:30 p.m.

Class schedules have been mailed to most Southern Sonoma homes or can be obtained at any high school in the district. Most registration fees will be $2.50.

Robert Chapman, director of adult education, said additional courses may be added if enough interest is shown. Most classes have a minimum of 15 members.

One of the new classes to be added this year is a discussion of great books planned on Mondays from 9 a.m. to noon at the Petaluma Boy's Club library. No fee will be charged to persons taking the course for high school credit.

Innocent Plea To Taking Funds

A former San Rafael man who now lives in Chico pleaded inocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a charge that he embezzled about $600 from his former employer, Western Union, last year.

A preliminary hearing was set for Sept. 18 for James Ray Purcell, 23.

He has just completed a jail term in Butte County for failing to support his children, according to his attorney.

Theft Of Speakers

Gary V. Locklin of 240 A Scenic Road, Fairfax, reported yesterday his home had been entered and two speakers worth $200 taken, police said. Entry was gained by prying a padlock on sliding glass doors, police said.

Camp Meeting In Marin City

Plans for a two-week religious camp meeting in a tent at the entrance to Marin City were announced today by Rev. Fred Small, pastor of the Marin City Church of God.

Small said members of Crusade '69, an interdenominational group organized by his church, will call throughout the county during the next few weeks to raise funds to cover the cost of erecting the tent and putting on the program.

Special Meeting 48

Andersen Trust Fund Launched

Participating, besides Patterson, are Louis H. Baar, Robert Blue, Milton Schwartz, Bruce B. Bales, Emile Bugna and Peter Lenaras.

Patterson said anyone wishing to contribute to the fund should send checks to Crocker-Citizens National Bank, Montecito Branch, San Rafael.

Nathan Hare To Publish Magazine

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — One of the leading figures in disruptions at San Francisco State College last spring announced yesterday he is abandoning his controversial demand to head the school's black studies department in the fall.

Dr. Nathan Hare, militant interim head of the black studies unit, who once shouted down college President Dr. S. I. Hayakawa, said he will work instead on a new black intellectual magazine.

The magazine, Black Scholar, will be a journal of black studies and research.

He said he was "tempted to continue the struggle" at the college but feels that as publisher of the new magazine he will be playing "a more significant role" in the militant black movement.

Dr. Hayakawa refused to renew Hare's contract for the coming year.

Sausalito Burglary

Experimental Project For Ghetto School

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Raphael Weill Elementary School will begin a three-year experiment next week with an individualized, nongraded approach to education and with parents as teacher-assistants.

It was pressure from parents dissatisfied with the education at Raphael Weill that led to a one-day boycott last February and also led to the new program, named Project Learn Well.

The program is one of the first in the country. There are similar ones in New York City and Harlingen, Tex.

Dr. Robert E. Jenkins, San Francisco superintendent of schools, announced the $159,000 program at a news conference yesterday.

Instead of classes divided into kindergarten through sixth grade, as in the past, the 680 pupils will be grouped roughly by age into four learning blocks.

The blocks will be language arts, mathematics and science, social studies and arts and crafts. Youngsters will work at their own pace, and there will be one adult to guide each group of 10 to 15 children.

Provision has been made to hire three guidance teachers and 32 parents being trained as teacher assistants, Jenkins said.

Pupil enrollment is 75 per cent black, 15 per cent Oriental and 10 per cent white.

Mrs. Joella Moon, chairman of the parent-community council of the school, called the new approach a "welcome change."

Behavioral Research Laboratories of Palo Alto is coordinating Project Learn programs and supplying materials. A staff member, LeRoy Bolden, is consulting director of the project.

Jenkins called Project Learn Well "ideal for the inner-city child since the learning process can be fitted to the student, instead of fitting the students to one program."

Sonoma State Is Full For Fall

The Sonoma State College admissions office has been deluged with calls from prospective students for the fall term while applications have been closed for months.

H. J. Soeters, dean of admissions and records, said that fall undergraduate openings have been filled at all state colleges and that inquires should be made only for the spring semester beginning in February.

Sonoma State expects to open with an enrollment of 3,375 on, Sept. 10.

Dumke Sees Less Turmoil On Campus

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The head of California's 19-campus state college system says "there's a good chance the era of massive turbulence may be over."

But Chancellor Glenn S. Dumke said in an interview yesterday that "if it is true that massive confrontations are coming to an end, then obviously militants will resort to other tactics more in the nature of guerrilla techniques."

Dumke spoke on the telephone from his Los Angeles office about the 180,000-student system, the nation's largest higher education facility. Violent demonstrations broke out during the last school year at San Francisco and San Fernando Valley campuses.

Both disturbance involve demands for more programs for minority group students.

"I certainly don't think tensions and pressures are over," Dumke said.

He explained possible campus guerrilla techniques as "hit and run tactics," such as harassment of individual administrators.

He said massive demonstrations may not occur in the coming school year because the college system has "learned much better how to cope with problems of this sort, and the goals of militants may change on campus as well as in the cities.

"The nation has been quieter this summer than anybody has had a right to expect," Dumke said.

The legislature and state college trustees have adopted new rules and attempted to clarify existing laws governing campus conduct. A series of college regulations outlined last spring give college presidents emergency powers during campus crises.

"I approach this year with some reasonable optimism," Dumke said. But he added the tensions probably will exist as long as students are concerned about the Vietnam war and as long as there is pressure for reforms for ethnic groups on campus.

Tax Exemption Date Extended

Gov. Ronald Reagan today signed two bills extending until next Monday the deadline for filing for homeowners' tax exemptions, Marin County Assessor Bert W. Broemmel was informed from Sacramento.

AB 1726 extends to Sept. 1 the deadline for filing for the $70 refund from last year's taxes or $750 exemption on this year's taxes for those who filed for only one of these last spring.

AB 2349 extends to Sept. 1 the deadline for those who were denied veterans' tax exemption last spring to file for the $750 homeowners' exemption.

Teague Will Attend World Scout Meeting

Lt. Harvey Teague, chief of the juvenile division of the Marin County Sheriff's office, will leave next Wednesday for a three-day scouting conference in England.

Teague is one of five men from the U. S. who will attend a golden jubilee reunion of persons in scouting's Wood Badge outdoor training program at Gilwell Park in Epping Forest in London.

Gilwell is the base for the world Wood Badge training program which was established by Lord Baden-Powell, who also founded the scouting movement, Teague said.

In 1919 Powell trained a group of men in scoutmaster leadership as the beginning of the program. Teague is a director for the training program in the United States.

Following the London meeting, Teague will tour Europe including the French Surete and Scotland Yard. He also plans to devote some time to collecting recipes for his cooking hobby.

Two Injured In Separate Car Crashes

Two persons received minor injuries in two separate multiple-car accidents Monday involving seven cars, two of which burned.

The two vehicles burned in a four-car wreck on northbound Highway 101 near the Civic Center at 11:05 p.m., the California Highway Patrol reported. The patrol said a car driven by Francis Ogle Davis, 58, of San Francisco hit the side of a car driven by Howard Charles Crowell, 68, of 111 Silver Drive, Cotati, while changing lanes.

The Davis car then careened to the right and hit the rear of a car driven by Valerie Harlan, 17, of 463 Nova Albion Way, San Rafael, pushing her car into one driven by Walter Henry Lethbridge, 61, of Palm Springs.

Crowell's car caught fire and the fire spread to Davis's car, the patrol said. Davis was injured slightly, but did not require hospital treatment.

The other accident, a three-car rear-ender on the Golden Gate Bridge, was at 8:20 a.m.

Sandy L. Hendershot, of 7 Merrydale Road, Apt. 8, San Rafael, a passenger in one of the cars, received minor injuries and went to her own physician, the patrol said.

The patrol said a car, driven by Clarence Edward Bostock, 50, of San Francisco, slammed into the rear of one driven by Michael Jan Pratt, 24, of 7 Merrydale Road, San Rafael, knocking his car into the third one driven by Joseph Patterson Harris, 23, of 627 Magnolia Avenue, Larkspur.

THEY'RE OFF AND SWIMMING IN MARIN LEAGUE MEET

JIM GILMARTIN

Norman Bright Isn't Just A Dipsea Myth

Sunday was my 24th Dipsea Race. No, silly, not as a runner. I couldn't drive over the 6.8-mile mountainous course let along run it. I mean as a spectator.

When I first covered Marin's famed distance race back in 1946 I heard the name of Norman Bright for the first time. He was listed as holder of the Dipsea record, running from Mill Valley to Stinson Beach in 47 minutes, 22 seconds in 1937.

Each year since then the name has come up as the record holder, but in name only. The body was missing. He was the p h a n t o m of the Dipsea. A myth. Everyone connected with the Dipsea, of course, new the name but nobody new anything about him. Was he killed in the war? Did Skid Row claim this former distant runner? Questions were answered with shrugs.

Well, I am happy to report, Norman Bright is alive and well and surprisingly turned up in Mill Valley last weekend for Sunday's 59th running of the foot race. But, like me, as a spectator. It was his first visit to the Dipsea since 1937.

"We didn't know he was coming," said a member of the Mill Valley Junior Chamber of Commerce. "He just turned up Saturday and said 'Here I am.' Of course we were delighted."

He Remembers Record Run Well

Bright handed out trophies at Stinson Beach Sunday. An affable chap now employed as a guidance counsellor in the Seattle school system, working with r e t a r d e d children, he remembered his record run well.

"Look here," he enthusiastically greeted reporters, "I still have the track shoes I wore that day. The course was in awful shape — slick from rain — so the Tamalpais High School track coach gave them to me for better footing. I forget the coach's name, but he helped me file down the spikes.

"I'd come here from Sunnyvale where I was teaching school at the time and was really out to break the record which was 47:56 set in 1912. But the course was in such awful shape from the rains that my coach told me I didn't have a chance. In fact, he didn't even come to the race that day; he stayed in his hotel room."

You Have To Prepare For Race

Bright said he was surprised that his record has remained unbroken for all these 32 years but added: "No one will break it unless they thoroughly study the course and prepare for it as I did. I camped out here at Stinson Beach for two weeks prior to the race and trained daily. The first two times over the trail I got lost and had to knock on a door to ask directions. But I finally learned the Dipsea — every foot of it. For example, I carried a stop watch with me and timed every section of the trail. I timed myself running up the (400) steps in Mill Valley and then timed myself walking up. I found out I could walk up them just as fast as I could run, so that was important information. To beat this course you must learn to pace yourself. You just don't simply overpower it.

Now 59 years old, wearing cheaters and sporting snow on the roof, Bright couldn't resist the temptation of retracing his steps along what is considered by many to be America's ruggedest footrace course. "It took me 47 minutes and 22 seconds in 1937, and 155 minutes Saturday," he laughed.

Incidentally, Bright was slightly amazed at the turnout of 775 runners Sunday. "In 1937 I beleive there were about 70 runners. I finished second in setting my record." (The Dipsea is a handicap race and scratch runners seldom finish first.)

Well, now we know there really is a Norman Bright and not just 12 letters printed indelibly in the record book. It was fun to see and meet the Phantom Sunday.

Circus Air As Oakland A's Gains Split With Tigers

DETROIT (AP)—There were brass bands, and clowns, and an Arabian Horse Troop at the sixth annual Shrine Night at Tiger Stadium yesterday.

So, in keeping with the carnival atmosphere, the Oakland Athletics and Detroit Tigers sandwiched each side of the halftime entertainment by turning the baseball diamond into a merry-go-round.

They scored 29 runs in splitting a twi-night doubleheader, with Oakland winning the first game 8-6 and Detroit taking the nightcap 9-8.

Mike Kilkenny, 3-4, was scheduled to pitch today for Detroit against the Oakland's Jim Hunter, 9-11.

Mickey Stanley drove in six runs, three in each game, and Al Kaline drove in three runs in the nightcap with a pair of home runs to pace Detroit.

Tito Francona, recently acquired from Atlanta, knocked in two runs in the opener and a run in the second game as he collected three singles, a double, and a homer in the A's well balanced attacks.

Oakland took advantage of a sore-armed Denny McLain in the first game, but the Tigers took advantage of a mental lapse by A's second baseman Ted Kubiak in the second.

"It cost us four runs, but whose to say what the outcome would have been if it didn't happen," said Oakland Manager Hank Bauer.

The mental miscue came in the second inning when Jim Price hit into what should have been an inning-ending play. But Kubiak failed to relay shortstop Bert Campaneris' throw to first and just stood on the infield grass while Price slid into second.

Bonds Bat Booms From Fifth Spot

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The surging Giants' season-long search for a No. 5 batter apparently has ended, thanks to the robust slugging of Bobby Bonds.

Taking some of the pressure off cleanup batter Willie McCovey, Bonds cracked two homers and drove in five runs yesterday, helping the Giants crush the Philadelphia Phillies 13-4 for their sixth straight win.

The only thing Bonds didn't do was overshadow McCovey who collected six RBIs on a grand-slam homer a single and a sacrifice fly as San Francisco maintained its half-game edge in the National League West.

McCovey and Bonds, batting back-to-back, have been a terrifying twosome since Manager Clyde King decided on the new alignment Thursday in New York.

The Giants have yet to lose with Bonds batting fifth. The same lineup was to face Rick Wise, 11-10, when the two clubs continued their three-game series today. Mike McCormick, 9-7, was to be the Giant starter.

Almost overlooked in Tuesday's power show was a five-hitter by Gaylord Perry, 15-10, who allowed baserunners in only three innings, striking out eight and allowing two earned runs.

STICK WITH IT

"I plan to stick with this lineup for a while," said King. "I decided to bat Bobby fifth when it looked like Jim Hart wouldn't come back to his old form.

"I talked with Bonds about it, and he said he was willing to try," the manager added.

The move was an instant success. Bonds has five homers and 13 RBI in the six games, boosting his homer total to 27.

McCovey has 15 RBIs over the same span, zooming his total to a career-high of 106. That is only one less than league-leader Ron Santo. McCovey tops the senior circuit with 40 homers.

Bonds' switch from the lead-off spot also has thrust rookie Don Mason into the limelight. Mason has batted leadoff in the last five games, reaching base 16 times and getting nine hits in his last 12 at-bats.

Foreman Planning No Barry Meeting

OAKLAND (AP) — Attorney Earl Foreman, who has a $2.6 million deal to buy the Oakland Oaks and move them to Washington, talked yesterday with staff members of the American Basketball Association club, including Coach Alex Hannum.

Foreman met all questions with "no comment" except one, to which he replied: "There are no present plans to meet Rick again."

Superstar Rick Barry and Foreman met in Los Angeles Monday. Foreman later announced the Oaks' forward said he didn't want to leave the San Francisco Bay Area and felt his contract did not require to him to leave.

Barry was unavailable yesterday for further comment, amid reports he was ready to sign a new contract with the San Francisco Warriors of the National Basketball Association—the team he left two years ago.

Warriors' owner Frank Mieuli was not available to add to his Monday comment that he was "more optimistic than I've been in 2½ years" about the possibility of getting Rick back to San Francisco."

Foreman contends Barry and Coach Hannum, who led the Philadelphia 76ers to a world championship in 1967, are included in the franchise purchase.

Hannum, an Oaks stockholder like Barry, said yesterday, he met last weekend with a group of Albuquerque, N.M., businessmen there on the possibility of an ABA franchise for that city.

"I personally am very optimistic. It has been confirmed to me what everybody has been telling me—what a truly great basketball area this is," Hannum said.

Ira Harge, an Oaks player who lives in Albuquerque, said that if Hannum should get a franchise there, he would play out his option then play in New Mexico.

Classy Fellow Shows Up For Six At Meadow Club

Newly-crowned Professional Golf Association tournament king Ray Floyd dropped in Friday afternoon to squeeze in six rounds of golf on a Bay Area stopover.

Seems Floyd, who lives in Fairfax when he's not on the tour, lost most of his clothes in Dayton and had to come to see his San Francisco tailor for a new set. And that's why he didn't play in the Avco Golf Classic in Sutton, Mass., this weekend, which he explained to PGA officials in a phone call from the Meadow Club.

ROHNERT PARK held its first tournament of champions at its more or less spanking new golf course, but the local golfers couldn't buy a high place finish for a million bucks.

McClaren Park Golf Club won the team trophy with a 123 net score, followed by Antioch/Petaluma at 129.

Individual low gross honors went to Charles Creecy of Antioch with a nice two-day total of 75-69-144. He was followed by teammate Bob Olds at 74-72-146.

Incidentally, Rohnert Park will be forming a ladies golf club, by popular demand.

Charter memberships will be available for a limited time only at a special fee of five dollars. First club meeting is set for Monday, Sept. 8.

THE MARIN COUNTRY Club held a father and son tournament last Sunday with low net and low gross champions named in five different age groups.

Here's the results:

Sons Ages 7-9 — Low Gross, Ken and Mike Harais 44; Low Net, Al Cueva and Phil Janney 33. Ages 10-11 — Low Gross Mike and Bill Dougherty 43; Low Net, Bob Proett and Bret Bauer 36. Ages 12-14 (18 holes) — Low Gross, Stan and John Mertel 86; Low Net, Jim and Jeff Henricks 73. Ages 15-16 — Low Gross, Milt Morley and Jim Rich 75; Low Net, Lloyd Ferguson and Phil Van Dyke 70. Over 16 — Low Gross, Bernard and Mike Ahern 78; Low Net, Art and Craig Ballantine 74.

Schultz Is Still Manager

SEATTLE (AP) — "I've never said Joe Schultz was fired," Marvin Milkes said yesterday in objecting to reports that he was ousting the field manager of the Seattle Pilots.

Such reports are humiliating to Joe and to us," said the general manager of the American League expansion team.

"Joe is our manager until we make up our minds at the end of the season in October.

NO LOVE-IN

"The whole thing has been blown up out of proportion."

Milkes said Monday that some people believed a manager who is loved by players and fans alike should be retained, adding:

"I'm not conducting a love-in; I'm running a major league baseball team."

"Understand," he added, referring to the team's current 10-game losing streak, before last night's victory over Baltimore, "I'm not blaming Joe for what has happened.

"I feel Joe has made some mistakes, but so have I. Mistakes are bound to happen in the first year of an expansion club. I have not put pressure on Joe and I am not now trying to create a cloud of mystery."

NO COMPLAINTS

Milkes reiterated that Schultz, who was hired off the coaching staff of the St. Louis Cardinals to manage the Pilots, was under a one-year contract.

Durocher Pressure Wish Comes True

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

For a while, it looked as if Leo Durocher wasn't going to get his wish, but the way his Chicago Cubs keep throwing away games and the New York Mets keep picking them up, Leo might get it after all.

Just last weekend, Durocher was saying how curious he was to find out how his players would react to pennant pressure. But the way the Cubs had been winning, it didn't appear as if there would be much pressure to react to.

However, all that has suddenly changed and after the Cubs lost again to Cincinnati 8-7 yesterday afternoon, and the Mets swept a twi-night doubleheader from San Diego 8-4 and 3-0, the pressure is on.

The results left the Mets only three games behind Chicago in the Nationl League East and only one in the important loss column, quite a drop from the 9½-game lead the Cubs had only 14 days ago.

St. Louis and Pittsburgh missed golden opportunities to add still more pressure when the Cardinals split a twi-nighter against Houston, winning 1-0 and then losing 4-2, and the Pirates lost to Atlanta 6-4.

The third-place Cardinals thus picked up only a half game and stand 7½ back, while the Pirates are eight behind.

The West Division needs no added pressure with one game still separating the first four teams after all won.

San Francisco clung to its half game, three percentage point lead over Cincinnati by clubbing Philadelphia 13-4, and Atlanta remained two points behind the Reds. Los Angeles is one game and seven points behind after bouncing Montreal 6-0. Fifth-place Houston is three games back.

FAR BEHIND

For the second day in a row, the Cubs fell far behind and then fell just short with a ninth inning rally that ended with a relief pitcher coming on to get the last out with the tying run on third base.

It marked the sixth defeat in eight games for the Cubs and their third in succession.

Cincinnati piled up seven runs in the first two innings on a flurry of singles, but the Cubs pecked away at Jim Merritt, 15-5, with homers by Don Young, Glenn Beckert and Ernie Banks and Ken Rudolph's two-run pinch single in the seventh.

The Reds scored the winning run in the ninth for an 8-6 lead on Lee May's double, but a walk, Beckert's double and a sacrifice fly drove out Merritt in the bottom of the ninth.

The Mets took full advantage later as Tom Seaver, 18-7, became the league's first 18-game winner with a four-hit first game victory and Jim McAndrew, 6-5, followed with a five hitter, running the Mets' winning streak to five games and 11 in their last 12 outings.

Money Talks In Pro Circles

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

To paraphrase Vince Lombardi: Money isn't everything ... it's the only thing. Ask Jerry Wolman and Leroy Keyes.

Wolman, making another "gold line stand", has come up th a new scheme to buy back the Philadelphia Eagles, and Leroy Keyes is considering a "substantial contract offer" to play in the Canadian Football League.

Wolman's latest plan was presented to federal bankruptcy referee Joseph O. Kaiser in U.S. District Court in Baltimore Tuesday. It involves a new partner, Washington financeer Thomas Shaheen, and a few Wolman businesses—the Yellow Cab companies of Philadelphia and Camden and the Yellow Limousine Service.

Hyman Tatelbaum, Wolman's lawyer, said Wolman hopes to repay $3 million to creditors over a 10-year period with the latest plan. But, he said, the exact method of financing the repayment plan has not been determined.

FIRM REVENUES

He explained the $3 million could be raised from revenues of the firms; from a refinancing of the debts using the companies as security, or through a merger of the businesses with a prominent, yet unspecified company that is listed on the American Stock Exchange.

The availability of the National Football League team for purchase, however, is a matter of debate between Tose and Wolman. Wolman insists he's still able to execute a buy-back clause in the sale agreement—but Tose disagrees, saying any such clause has been voided.

Meanwhile, the British Columbia Lions of the Canadian Football League say they have made a "substantial contract offer" to Keyes, the Eagles' No. 1 draft choice.

Danny Veitch, Lions' general manager, said the club has been dealing with Keyes' agent, Arthur Morse, and a final decision is expected from the Purdue star Thursday.

Griffith To Head Bay Knarr Skippers

Dick Griffith of San Francisco will head a pack of 10 Bay Area skippers who will compete in the week-long International championship Knarr Regatta that will help the San Francsico Yacht Club celebrate its Centennial beginning Saturday on San Francisco Bay.

Griffith was the top finisher in the qualificatons for the ten Bay Area spots in the Knarr part of the regatta. There will also be action in the International One Design and the Folkboat divisions. The other five Knarr spots will be filled by the top five skippers in the Royal Danish Yacht Club of Copenhagen giving the week-long series of races a truly international flavor.

Bob York of Belvedere was runnerup in the Bay Area Knarr qualifications, followed by Clyde Jacobs of San Anselmo, Bob Fisher of Belvedere, Knud Wibroe of Sausalito, Grant Settlemier, Terry Anderlini, Wynn Oliver and Barney Barnett, all of San Francisco, and Ted McKown of Sausalito.

Flag raising and other official opening day ceremonies will be held Saturday at the San Francisco Yacht Club. There will be a one-day break in the regatta on Sept. 3 to allow for repairs and refurbishings.

Semi-Pro Baseball World: Oddities Small Things In A Long Summer

By GARY TISCHLER

Small things, odd places, weird names. (What's a Bellingham Bell, a Eureka Crab, a Seaside Bomber?) Postcards from towns with a gas station, a grocery store, one church, three bars and a ballpark.

The very name semi-pro conjures up a team of men a step or three and a bag of money away from the bigs, an emotion away from a pickup game on a weekday summer afternoon.

HAVE BEENS

The players have been, are sometimes, could have been, could be or may never be pros and there is your definition of semi. The older guys envy the promising youngsters their legs and stamina; the kids are still naked, minus all the bits of information, bags of trick and sheer manhours that make a pro and keep him one.

This semi-pro world is full of trips to outlandish places in station wagons, buses and campers. It isn't a place to get rich, but people become friends, pass the summer, and come out telling stories, smelling of glove leather and resin. It is one way, a good and tough way, to learn and to play baseball.

Take a trip with the San Rafael Braves, their last trip of another successful summer.

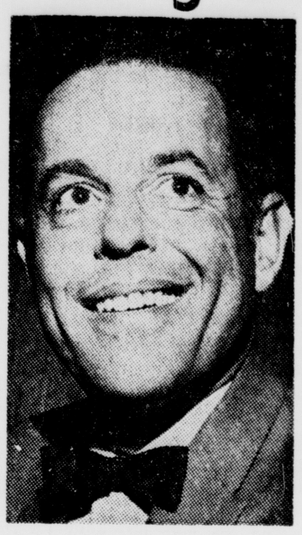
Meet Joe Anselmo, their gruff and articulate manager, who has seen more baseball players than a 100-year-old fan. Joe isn't 100, but sometimes he feels like it.

Take this trip with the San Rafael Braves, who will need a sweep of a doubleheader 120 some miles away to win the San Jose Travel League title all by themselves.

EARLY START

Start early, when most people are just beginning to feel the first twinge of regret about Saturday night. You're packed in a station wagon, with Anselmo at the wheel, his two daughters and their friend in the front, young ballplayers Dave Edson and Dave Lee, Terra Linda High School grads both, in the back and bulky John Burnett asleep in the way back with a ton of equipment.

You whiz through San Jose, take a giddy morning mountain ride over to Santa Cruz, bypass beautiful downtown Salinas, slide by the rifle ranges and barracks of Fort Ord and pop into Monterey.



JOE ANSELMO
Veteran manager

The town is besieged by motor nuts. It's one huge STP patch, everybody wearing sunglasses in the fog, ready for the Lagunua Seca. Even the gas station flunkies give you directions to the race track before you can say fill 'er up.

You wind up at this ballpark, which is surrounded by a Dennis the Menace playground, a picnic area, a pond and a cemetery.

"Okay, boys, it's all left-handed hitters," he says, then goes running round the field, warming up his legs, scaring the hell out of the seagulls who seem to have been living here for at least a week.

There are cobwebs at the lockerroom entrance but the shower works, hot and cold. It's not the Astrodome, but it's home.

As the early hours pass by, the rest of the Braves arrive, some of them with family in tow. The entire Corder clan of Novato, headed by player Tom, is here for the game. So are the parents of Ben Burch. It seems a lot of Marin has moved to Monterey.

END OF SUMMER

You can tell it's the end of summer by the state of the equipment. Baseballs that players have been hoarding for the past few weeks pop up for batting practice. Some of the leggings on the pants are tattered and some of the shoes have holes on the side.

Jess Jacinto, the wily elder statesman of the club, pitches batting practice in a continual stream of banter. The sun comes out. The opposition shows up.

The local heroes are the Seaside Bombers, ensconced somewhere in the middle of the league standings. Their pitcher is a fellow named Muddy Rivers, who looks on the distant side of 30. Years old, that is.

His pitches look about the same way, but this man has been somewhere a few times. They come in slow, then slower, outside to the lefties, jammed up to the righthanders. He pitches smart and wily and the Braves look at the fat ones and pop up.

COSTLY MISTAKES

It gets frustrating. They know they ought to be beating his brains out, but they're losing 4-1 instead. Russ Dillon, the youngster from Novato, is blazing his fast ball, but he makes mistakes and in this kind of park, it costs.

The umpires, those bogeymen of road games, don't help. You never expect them to. If it's close, forget it. That's a fact of road life. And it could be worse. One of them could be the catcher's father, which he was in a game against the Crabs in Eureka last summer.

Art Blunt, the muscleman of the Braves, gets called out on a dipping curve that almost cleans off the plate. Disgusted he sits on the bench murmuring soft choice words while chewing sunflower seeds. They lose anyway.

MAKE MERRY

The Braves make merry, scoring 11 runs on 14 hits while Burch, a nice-looking kid with big white teeth and a shock of bright-blond hair, hums them by the Bombers.

Meanwhile, in the stands, a local fan, equipped with a public address system and a bottle, is happily announcing the game.

"And now, ladies and gentlemen, it's time for a pause for the cause," he drawls. "Jim Beam, that is."

PASS THE HAT

It's that kind of afternoon, lazy, meandering. They pass the hat, boys sell peanut brittle, jets pass by overhead, foul balls dent cars and gravestones, it goes by.

By now, the Braves know for sure that it's practically a tie.

Which, as you know, is like kissing your sister, and that leaves a bad taste all the way through the bumper-to-bumper tuna-tight traffic jam home.

Pit stops for ice-cream, all-you-can-eat dinner where they're breaking some kind of child labor law with 12-year-old waitresses, watch all the blown radiators looking like Poland after the blitz.

It will stay a tie and that's that—but half a championship ain't bad.

It's still hot the next morning, but the summer is over for the Braves.

JACK HANLEY

Guess Who Recommended Don McMahon To Giants

It seems incredible that the Giants finally got Don McMahon. Desperation can drive even ball clubs to do the unexpected. And the Giants were desperate for bullpen help after giving up on Joe Gibbon and later Ronnie Kline for whom they traded Gibbon back to the Pirates.

During the years that McMahon was being traded around both major leagues, the Giants, of course, knew he was available but repeatedly passed him over.

AL DAVIS urged the Giants to sign McMahon some years ago when they slipped into perennial second place finishes. Davis is the bright fellow who built the Oakland Raiders into an American Football League powerhouse.

Davis's knowledge isn't confined to football and his knowledge of McMahon dates back to the days when they were high school classmates in Brooklyn. The Giants felt Davis was just putting in a good word for McMahon who, incidentally, is a Raider football scout during baseball's off-season.

McMAHON WAS shocked and surprised when the Giants purchased his contract Aug. 8 from the Detroit Tigers.

The shock was due to the fact that despite an overall 3-5 record for Detroit this season with an unimpressive 3.89 ERA. Detroit sold him just when he had put together a string of 11 scoreless relief innings during which he allowed only two hits.

THE SURPRISE was due to the fact that he was well aware of Davis' efforts several years ago in his behalf with the Giants. McMahon felt the Giants were the last team that would give him a second look.

McMahon is a 39-year-old campaigner with plenty of pressure experience, the kind acquired in three successful pennant drives (1957-58) with the Braves and last year with the Tigers.

LESS THEN 24 hours after he reported to the Giants in Candlestick Park, MacMahon made his first appearance for them Aug. 10 against the Cardinals. He came on in the ninth inning because Juan Marichal's shoulder had tightened at the end of the eighth with the Giants in front 4-3.

McMahon struck out the first batter. The next, Mike Shannon, hit him for a homer that tied it 4-4 after which McMahon was belted for three more runs and a 7-4 loss.

THOSE GIANT executives who had dinged Davis' recommendations years back wore sour "I-told-you-so-looks."

But last Thursday in New York when the Mets belted Frank Linzy and tied the score 6-6 in the ninth, McMahon came on once again. This time he pitched like he did when he was the premier relief ace of the Braves a decade ago. He stopped the rally and he stopped the Mets 1-2-3 in the 10th and 11th.

NOT ONLY that, he got a single in the 11th and scored the winning run on a triple by Ken Henderson.

Now it was time to ask: "On whose recommendation was McMahon acquired?" Nobody seemed to know. One thing, however, was certain. Horace Stoneham had to approve purchase of McMahon's contract. Maybe Stoneham has secret scouts who report directly to the president of the ball club.

Stars Shunted To Net Sideline

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — The world's richest tennis tournament, the $137,000 U.S. Championship, broke with tradition and opened a 12-day stand with the name players shunted from the spotlight.

Defending champion Arthur Ashe, hoping to break out of a service slump, and second-seeded John Newcombe, runnerup at Wimbledon, were among other stars relegated to field courts.

MARKED BREAK

"This is a marked break with tradition that we are not starting with the defending champion," said referee Mike Gibson of Britain. "But we feel it's more important to give the public at Forest Hills the most attractive possible matches rather than those featuring the name players."

At Wimbledon and elsewhere, the defending champion opens on the center court, regardless of the status of his opponent.

Although Laver, with Australian, French, and Wimbledon Open victories behind him, is one of the most-talked about players here, the outcome of the feature match between third-seeded Tony Roche of Australia and unseeded Bob Lutz of Pasadena, Calif., could provide a barometer for the entire tournament which officials hope will put tennis on the road to commercial success.

RESTS SHOULDER

Lutz lost to Stan Smith, his Davis Cup doubles partner, last weekend in the U.S. Grass Courts Championship while Roche skipped a pro tournament in Newport, R. I. to rest an ailing shoulder.

The preliminary match on the cushy grass center court pitted fifth-seeded Tom Okker of Holland, runnerup here last year, against unseeded Mark Cox, a British Davis Cupper. Rumania, the United States' Davis Cup Challenge Round adversary, will be featured on the center court with Ilie Nastase playing Ian Crookenden of New Zealand.

Although he is seeded 12th, Smith is expected to be very much in contention for the $16,000 first prize which has lured an elite field of 128. The 22-year-old 6-foot-4 Smith, like Lutz a product of the University of Southern California, is billed in many quarters as America's star of tomorrow. He drew Patricio Rodriguez of California as a first round opponent, also on a field court.

The women, shooting for a first prize pot of $6,000, begin singles play Thursday.

Little Action For McNeil If He Signs

SANTA BARBARA, (AP) — Even if pass catcher Clifton McNeil comes to terms with the San Francisco 49ers before Sunday's game, he will play very little, coach Dick Nolan predicts.

"He might go in for a play or two, but nothing more, and that's only because he knows the system," Nolan said yesterday.

McNeil, the National Football League's most successful pass receiver last season, has been holding out for more money.

The 49ers play the Oakland Raiders next, but Nolan refused to take the cross-bay rivalry seriously at this time. "We figure it as just another game in the exhibition season and I'm sure John Madden feels the same way," he said. Madden is the Raider coach.

The Raiders, put 10 men on waivers yesterday, but didn't name them.

Players put on waivers now can be withdrawn from the list if claimed. If they get through the waiver season without being claimed, they can be kept on the Raider taxi squad. Consequently the club does not advertise the men on waivers.

Putting the 10 on waivers cut the squad to 49. It must be trimmed to 40 before the American Football League season starts.

Leo Hints Umpire Conspiracy

CHICAGO (AP) — Manager Leo Durocher of the Chicago Cubs feels there's a conspiracy against him among National League umpires.

As a result Durocher was tossed out of yesterday's 8-7 loss to the Cincinnati Reds following a blowup with umpire Shag Crawford which nearly resulted in a swinging match.

Crawford thumbed Durocher out of the game in the second inning. During the fracas Crawford clenched his fist and Durocher dared the umpire to swing.

"I dared him," said Durocher after the game "and told him I'd spot him the first shot. Then I kicked dirt on him."

HE'S A LIAR

"He's a liar if he says I kicked him," said Durocher.

"He's a liar if he says he didn't kick me," said Crawford.

"I've only kicked two umpires in my life," said Durocher, "once I kicked the late Bill Stewart and then I got into the kicking battle with Jocko Conlon. Conlon and I were kicking each other in the shins until I realized I was getting the worst of it because he was wearing shin guards."

NO CHANCE

"Walker no sooner got to the foul line when the umpires started for the mound," said Durocher. "That's when I jumped off the bench and started for the mound myself.

"All I want to know is why when I or one of my coaches go to the mound, the umpires immediately converge upon my pitcher? They never give us a chance.

"Yesterday when Dave Bristol went out to talk to his pitcher his whole infield was out there and there were the umpires, all at their positions for two minutes before anyone made a move.

Billy Ray Key Takes Fourth In Nationals

The youngster finished fourth in the 40-lap main event in a field of 45 in the single suspended class of the Grand National Quarter Midget Auto Championships here Sunday.

He also qualified fourth-fastest in the qualifications for a berth in the ten-car grand final.

Dream Come True After Ocean Jaunt

Cox was relaxing in his Honolulu hotel room after completing a 2,200-mile sailing trip alone in a 26-foot Columbia sloop from Santa Monica, Calif. to Honolulu. After 41 days at sea, the 63-year-old retired construction worked arrived here Saturday.

"The hardest part of the trip came three days after I left California," Cox said. "I hit a storm which drove me about 100 miles off course and wiped my wind vane off."

Cox said without the wind vane, an automatic steering device, he was left with the choice of returning home and starting again or continuing and doing all the steering by hand.

"I thought if I go back now, I may never try again," Cox said, "and so I headed on to Honolulu, steering by hand all the way. When I wanted to sleep, I'd elt the sails down and let it roll.

"I wasn't lonely," he said "I didn't have time."

Cox said the lack of a wind vane resulted in the trip taking a longer time than the 30 to 35 days he originally expected.

Share Repurchase Could Be Bearish

By ARNOLD SPEAR

Q. I own shares of U.S. Industries which made an offer to buy back shares. What does this mean for the stock's price action? — F. N.

A. Wall Street has interpreted a company purchase of its shares as being bullish, indicating advance knowledge of some favorable development. But a recent study by Allan Young, assistant professor of finance at Syracuse University, reveals that the reverse may be true. A block of 227 NYSE companies which had bought 1 per cent or more of their own shares in any year from 1960 through 1967 was compared with 227 control companies selected at random. A significant difference in the two groups was noted in earnings performance just prior to repurchase, indicating that reacquisition was used as a diversionary tactic. Price earnings ratio in the two years following repurchase tended to be lower, primarily reflecting poor price performance, since per share earnings are increased by reacquisition. Companies with a lower leverage factor and a declining capital base tended to use share purchase to adjust this balance. A company may utilize market weakness to acquire shares for later acquisitions. These purchases frequently serve as an immediate prop to the price.

U.S. Industries' recent tender offer for 300,000 shares is an excellent example of this. The original offer at $24 was amended to $26.50 because of strong price action. Confirming Young's findings on leverage, USI's long-term debt is only 30 per cent of total capitalization. Earnings have shown rapid growth, as have sales. But profit margins, after rising sharply in 1965 and 1966, widened only slightly last year and have remained unchanged this year.

This sluggishness might be misinterpreted as corroborating the study's conclusions on the relationship between earnings and repurchase. If price action should follow the presumed pattern, USI could lag behind the market, near term. Since the effects of repurchase are transitory depending on the company involved, I see no reason to disturb holdings.

Picture Brightens For Stock Market

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks turned higher today in what analysts described as "a technical readjustment after two dismal performances."

In the news budget was a prediction from a top government economist that inflation will plague the nation for the balance of the year despite Washington's efforts to put a clamp on the price spiral.

The government's index of leading economic indicators showed a drop of four-tenths of 1 per cent last month, but it was attributed chiefly to a sag in the housing industry.

Active issues included Jim Walter, Cities Service, Benguet, City Investing, Natomas and Litton.

Oils and electronics were among the widest moving issues. Oils moved in both directions, while electronics generally traded higher.

Airlines showed scattered strength after drifting easier in recent sessions. Aircrafts and rails traded on both sides of previous closings.

Motors, steels and chemicals traded in fractions, as did most gold mining shares, all of which lacked a definite pattern.

Kentucky Claims One Million Heads Of Beef

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI)— Kentucky farmers ranked 10th in the nation in the number of beef cattle and calves on farms as of the first of this year, with slightly more than 1 million head.

The state also was 10th in the number of milk cows two years old and over, with 400,000 head. Once a major sheep producing state, Kentucky dropped to 29th spot with 112,000 head. The state placed 13th in the number of pigs with 2.3 million.

Petrochemical Plant

WILMINGTON, Del. (UPI) — DuPont Co. has announced it will build a petrochemical plant at its Sabine River works at Orange, Tex., to make adiponitrile, an intermediate chemical used in making nylon. The plant will employ 200.

Trust Suit Settled

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (UPI) — R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. has settled its four-year-old anti-trust dispute with the Justice Department over the acquisition of Penick and Ford, Ltd., through a consent decree. The Reynolds group agreed to divest itself of Pennick and Ford's corn milling and potato starch business but will retain the molasses and other food businesses of Penick and Ford.

Price Sign At Station Protested

The Marin Independent Service Station Association last night opposed an application by a station operator to attach a price sign to his free-standing identification sign.

About a half-dozen association members appeared before the San Rafael Planning Commission to protest, but based their arguments on sign clutter, not price listing.

Edward Simas who applied for architectural approval of a three-by-four-foot price sign for a service station at 1103 Third Street, then asked that the matter be postponed until Sept. 10.

Edward C. Bendel, association president, said the association has cooperated with the city "to clean up signs," and he felt the sign regulations could still be strengthened.

If the Simas application were approved "it would end up in a real mess of signs again," he said.

The San Rafael Planning Commission also:

HANDICAPPED SCHOOL — Granted architectural approval for a school for handicapped minors on Dominican College property at 2 Watt Avenue to be operated by the Marin County Schools Office, a 4,600 square foot, prefabricated building with redwood batten. Access will be from Grand Avenue and there will be 23 off-street parking spaces.

Commissioners Jorgen V. Lunding and John J. Adams were absent.

Firestone Sued For $3.1 Million

FAIRFIELD (UPI) — The parents and sister of a 19-year-old sailor killed when his newly repaired car went out of control in 1966 have filed a $3.1 million damage suit against the Firestone Tire and Rubber Co.

The suit filed by Mr. and Mrs. William Faren of Torrance and Mrs. Gloria Root alleges the victim, William J. Faren, had his car repaired at a Firestone Service station three days before the accident on a county road.

The suit alleges the brake shoes were found to be improperly fitted and there was a hole in one tire, despite the fact repair work had been done on the brakes, springs and shock absorbers.

The younger Faren was a sailor on the USS Wiltsie, which was docked at Mare Island at the time.

Louisiana still calls its counties "parishes", preserving names given them when they were church units.

Use Permits To Two Auto Agencies

San Rafael Planning Commission last night granted use permits and architectural approval for two auto agencies on former city corporation yard property along Francisco Boulevard.

Hercules Viglienzone was granted a permit to locate his Marin Bay Lincoln Mercury agency on a two-acre parcel at 475 Francisco Boulevard.

The city recently sold the property to the two auto dealers for $523,896 but retained about three acres at the rear of the parcel along San Rafael Canal.

Along the east end of the Viglienzone property there will be a roadway providing access to the city property along the canal, and both owners will be required to install curbs, gutters and sidewalks along Francisco Boulevard.

Viglienzone was granted architectural approval for three free-standing signs, one 42-feet high and two 25-feet high, while Dexter's sign plan is to be submitted at a later meeting.

Senior planner Charles J. Linthicum recommended redwood slats in a chain link fence at the rear side of the property for the sake of appearance since the rear would be the view from the canal.

Contractor William H. McDevitt, representing Dexter, said there has been auto stripping at car lots and the fencing should be open so police officers could view inside while patroling. Commissioners then agreed to drop the requirement that there be redwood slats inserted in the fencing.

The city, planning to move its corporation yard to a city-owned lot at Second and Lincoln streets, will take space now used by Western Grayhound Lines for parking commuter buses.

Thus, last night commissioners received an application from the bus company to establish a new parking lot on Northwestern Pacific Railroad Co. property at 166 DuBois Street.

Commissioners approved the permit with one of the conditions that the lot be paved.

Ross Valley Flood Board Minor Flap

A routine appointment to the Ross Valley Flood Control Zone Advisory Board ran into some static yesterday before the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

At issue was the appointment of someone to replace Ann H. McCorry, who resigned three weeks ago without explanation.

The advisory board had nominated attorney Aaron E. Rucker of 230 Hillside Drive, Kentfield, but Supervisor Peter H. Arrigoni yesterday nominated Fred B. Graham of 7 Upland Road, Kentfield, a management consultant.

"I want another viewpoint on the advisory board as it relates to the aesthetics of the Ross Valley," Arrigoni said.

Supervisor Michael Wornum agreed, adding, "I'm not sure self-perpetuating boards are a good thing."

Noting that Graham was not among the four persons considered for the nomination by the advisory board, the supervisors referred the nomination back to the board for its opinion on Graham.

Arrigoni said that the advisory board had not interviewed the four candidates, but merely discussed them on the basis of how well they were known to the other members of the board.

Lagoon Transfer Due In November

Legislation signed Monday by Gov. Ronald Reagan to transfer jurisdiction over Bolinas Lagoon from Bolinas Harbor District to Marin County will be effective 61 days after the final adjournment of the Legislature, not 61 days after the Aug. 8 close of the regular legislative session as reported incorrectly yesterday by the Independent-Journal.

The legislature opens its constitutionally required five-day veto session next month, so the bill will become law probably by early November, depending upon the date of the adjournment at the end of the veto session.

Foreman Hassle In Novato Council

Novato's public works chief drew harsh words at the city council meeting last night when demontion of a maintenance crew foreman was proposed. (Another Novato City Council Story, Page 1).

The council agreed to hear complaints from the maintenance crew at a special closed meeting at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the council chambers.

Councilman Babe Silva led the attack on Public Works Director Clifford E. Temps's proposal.

"You may be a good engineer but you're a poor personnel manager," Silva said.

Silva said Temps was creating four bosses out of 10 men — one boss for every two men.

"Wade Lackey (maintenance foreman), who's worked for the city for eight years, is getting a bum shuffle from you," Silva charged.

Temps had asked for creation of a position of maintenance superintendent with a salary of $941 to $1.90 and the elimination of the foreman, whose salary range is $738 to $813. The foreman would be reduced in pay to lead man, range $607 to $670, and there would be four lead men.

"The superintendent could do some of the planning of street work," Temps said. This would relieve a junior engineer of the work.

City Mgr. Charles A. Brown said he approved Temps's plan. Tempers finally cooled and the matter set for Tuesday.

"I idin't you would bring that up in an open meeting," Mayor Harley A. McAskill later told Silva.

Cooler Contract

A $107,693 contract for more water chillers and related equipment at Sonoma State College, Rohnert Park, has been awarded to Frank M. Booth, Inc., of Marysville, the state Department of General Services announced yesterday.

Dominican Offers Weaving Course

Classes in primitive and loom weaving, spinning and dyeing will be offered during the fall semester at Dominican College by Mill Valley weaver Ida Dean Grae.

Sponsored by the college art department, the classes will meet from 2 to 4 p.m. Monday and Wednesday at the college. Registration will be held at the college Sept. 2 or in class during the first two weeks.

Grant Avenue Closing Time

Grant Avenue in Novato from Highway 101 to Seventh Street will be closed from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Sept. 7 for resurfacing, according to Public Works Director Clifford E. Temps.

This is a part of the city's Fall Street resurfacing program and will be done on Sunday so that as little traffic as possible will be diverted from the avenue.

Texas is the only state that was an independent republic, recognized by the United States before annexation.

Parallel Parking Proponents See Cause Die Without Formal Vote

The question of angle versus parallel parking on the south side of Grant Avenue, west of Highway 101 in Novato, died last night without even a vote by the Novato City Council.

At its meeting on Aug. 12, the council split 2-2 on whether or not to eliminate angle parking on the south side of the street from Second to Fifth . It postponed the matter until last night when the fifth councilman J. Wayne Womack, would be present.

"All of the arguments which would be presented tonight would be for my benefit alone, and I have read all of the minutes, so there is no reason to repeat them," Womack told the audience, containing many businessmen opposed to parallel parking.

Womack said he had interviewed six women drivers with five of them favoring angle over parallel parking. He then went on to say the main bottleneck on Grant Avenue was not angle parking, but in crossing Highway 101.

"Until the freeway is relocated, I do not feel that we should change the parking," Womack said.

With that, the council voted to go on to the next item without taking a formal vote.

The Novato City Council also:

WATER AGREEMENT — Approved an agreement with the North Marin County Water District by which the city pays $1,263 for water service to Pioneer Memorial Park instead of the regular $2,438 fee, saving $1,175 for the city.

Higher Court Drug Hearing

Monte Leon Miller, 20, of San Rafael yesterday was bound over to Marin Superior Court on a charge of possessing amphetamine Aug. 14 when arrested on a warrant for having narcotics paraphernalia.

He was told to appear in court Tuesday for arraignment on the felony charge.

A jury trial was set in Municipal Court for the paraphernalia case for Sept. 22.

RELENTLESS BATTLE

Erosion Ruining Beaches

WELLFLEET, Mass. (UPI)—The spot where Marconi pressed a key 66 years ago and sent the first transatlantic cable message crackling across the ocean from President Theodore Roosevelt to England's King Edward VII is more than 170 feet out in the water, a casualty of the sea's relentless battle with the land.

Along these sand and gravel cliffs formed by the glaciers, conservationists are losing their battle to preserve one of the most magnificent beaches in the United States—the Great Outer Beach of Cape Cod, 60 miles of wild beauty watched over by the U.S. Interior Department's National Park Service.

Erosion, a fact of life wherever the sea meets the land, is often a dramatic phenomenon here where even one lashing northeast storm can lop up to 20 feet or more off the beaches and cliffs.

The forces of erosion are wind, wave and current, and as James H. Bowman, a civil engineer charged with maintaining the nearly 27,000 acre Cape Cod National Seashore, says, "once the sea attacks you're done."

MAJOR FACTOR

Another significant factor contributing to the erosion of the nation's beaches, according to Joseph Caldwell of the Army's Coastal Engineering Research Center in Washington, is that "practically no streams or rivers are contributing new sand to our beaches.

"We are working with the same supply of sand that has been there for thousands of years," Caldwell said. "It is a loss which is not being replenished unless man comes along."

Caldwell, top research specialist for the center, said "everything is working against the beaches and nothing is working in their favor." Surveying the huge number of eroding beaches along the east coast, Caldwell added, "most of our beaches would be eroding even if man never put a foot on them."

While the sea's attack on the Cape's Outer Beach is spectacular and sometimes devastating, few sandy areas along the Eastern Seaboard have gone unscathed.

KNOWN EROSION

Of the known serious erosion sites along the coast, Florida alone has 33, North Carolina 10, including perhaps the most severe problem area at Cape Hatteras; South Carolina 8; New Jersey 7; Georgia 5 and Delaware 1. The Maryland coast also is eroding at a rapid pace.

New England's rocky northern face virtually is indestructible, but moving south toward the Cape are several problem areas, such as the overworked beaches around the Boston metropolitan area, the Connecticut shore and, in New York, the barrier beach of Long Island Sound, which has many seriously eroded areas.

The Army Corps of Engineers is the federal agency which tackles beach erosion. Steven Onysko, project engineer with the Crops' New England Division at Waltham, Mass., explained: "We can't fully prevent erosion; what we can do is retard it—and we are finding more and more that we have to work with nature rather than bucking it."

The problem on Cape Cod is symptomatic. When Marconi set up his first wireless telegraph station in 1902, he built four large transmitting towers. With new technology the station has been dismantled, and the sea has carved its way inland more than 170 feet.

At points along Nauset Beach, the magnificent barrier beach at the elbow of the Cape, the average erosion loss per year has been measured at 5.5 feet.

TWO-SIDED PROBLEM

And erosion is only one part of a two-sided problem. Sand washed from one beach often piles up, or accretes, in bays and estuaries forcing men once again to step in with dredges or jetties to allow continued navigation and recreation.

Here on the Cape's outer beach, offshore currents carry sand stripped from Nauset Beach south and threaten to block the entrance to Pleasant Bay. The same currents carry loose sand north around the tip of the Cape, and in the Provincelands area, accretion measures up to 6 feet a year.

What can be done to prevent erosion and accretion? "What we have been able to do thus far is very little," said Bowman. "You can't stop all erosion, so you ask yourself how much. We have to consider the practical values—as for the theoretical values—beauty and space—nobody's put a price tag on that yet."

Onysko, sitting in the Army's Waltham office where beach and harbor erosion studies abound, admitted there was little that could be done for the Cape seashore under present regulations. However, a $15 million federal-state project for the Cape's Pleasant Bay, which will improve navigation and recreation, has been readied for government approval. Here the economic benefits can be spelled out.

The questions still arise:

Will Cape Cod disappear or the beach at Cape Hatteras be battered away? Will New Yorkers have to retreat from their comfortable homes near the shore of Long Island Sound or the happy new homeowner at Cocoa Beach, Fla., have to do battle with the sea to keep his life time savings?

The answer seems to be, no—or at least, not yet. The beaches will continue to disintegrate before the relentless forces of nature, but man is busily at work to preserve what he can along the thousands of miles of the East Coast.

Red China Gearing For New Educational System

HONG KONG (AP) — For the first time in China's 3,000-year history a system of rural compulsory free education goes into effect this fall. In some respects it may be a system of compulsory labor.

The new school system is mostly Mao Tse-tung's idea, Western analysts of Chinese affairs say. They think it may be one of the biggest gamble China's 76-year-old leader has taken since coming to power in 1949.

The "old" school system was built largely along European lines with doses of Mao thought grafted on. Its destruction was one major goal of Chairman Mao's cultural revolution purges. This summer the purges were finally extended to elementary schoolteachers and staff.

Now that Mao's men run the classrooms, they can put into effect the kind of education plans opposed by deposed President Liu Shao-chi and his followers.

These are the major outlines of the new school system as related by the Chinese press:

All children 6-13 will go to school in September.

Courses have been shortened from 12 to 7 years, and almost no children from the countryside will ever go to a technical institute, college or univerity.

Children will spend the seven years in "productive labor," the study of Mao's writings, and in learning better farming methods and in the use of farm machinery.

All schools will be administered and financed locally, instead of from Peking's Ministry of Education.

Mao apparently is saying that to develop its economy China needs fewer physicists and more good farmers, fewer well-educated bureaucrats and more literate welders.

Including "productive labor" in the curriculum will give the country's leaders a ready reserve of flexible labor. Shortening the course to seven years will speed people into the work force.

Experts here say Mao may be right. Developing nations don't have many jobs for highly trained professionals. Mao evidently thinks China has been wasting manpower resources and needs to concentrate training and skills in the lower levels of the country's labor force.

"Essentially Mao is saying that the old way of developing a country by emphasizing experts and heavy industry hasn't worked in China despite 20 years of trying," one analyst says.

Execution Dates For Quentin Pair

Execution dates have been set for two more inmates on San Quentin Prison's Death Row, Associate Warden James W. L. Park has announced.

Charles Robert Coogler is scheduled to go to the gas chamber Oct. 8 and Robert Lee Nye is to be executed Nov. 5. Both were sentenced in Los Angeles County courts.

Four of the 75 men on death row now have execution dates set. Tony Montoya Lara is to die Sept. 3 and Gus Tolbert is scheduled for execution Sept. 24. The other men have appeals or further court actions pending.

A MENTAL PRICE

How To Invent An Obnoxious Noise

NEW YORK (UPI)—The purpose of this scientific experiment with people was to find out if they pay a mental price for adapting themselves to obnoxious noises.

They do adapt to them. Of that there can be no doubt. If a mind-price is involved, city people must be putting out for it constantly —assuming at least some elements in their rising noise pollution are obnoxious to them.

Of that there is doubt and this required the New York scientists, Drs. David C. Glass, Jerome E. Singer and Lucy N. Friedman to find a truly obnoxious noise.

Commonplace city noises, such as the roar of traffic and of jet planes, wouldn't do. Many city people aren't really aware of them. Invention was needed and Glass, Singer and Miss Friedman invented as follows:

They made separate tape recordings of (1) two persons conversing in Spanish; (2) one person speaking in Armenian; (3) a mimeograph machine mimeographing; (4) a desk calculator calculating; (5) a typewriter pounding away.

These tapes they superimposed on one another on another tape and when it was played the noise could be guaranteed to jar any ear. No element, whether voice or machine, was distinguishable. Babel couldn't have sounded the way it did.

This tape they played individually, repeatedly, and under varying conditions to 45 college girls who were paid $3.40 each to sit still for it. They heard it amplified to an ear-splitting 110 decibels and again at the moderate 56-decibel level.

They heard it at both levels when it was regularly spaced among intervals of silence. While they adapted they knew when it would come on and go off. And they also heard it when it broke into their consciousness at random and there could be no anticipating.

While subject to all this, they performed simple mind-tasks, such as adding two digit figures, picking out the a's in a list of words and, at the end, taking tests that assessed what mind-prices they were paying, if any.

When the girls adapted while able to anticipate when the noise would come on and go off, they paid no measurable mind-price, even when the volume was at 110 decibels.

Only Part Of Defense Iceberg Under Attack

Congress and public are paying close attention, for the first time in many years, to the spending of the military services.

Some pretty loud criticism has been voiced of late over disclosures such as 120 C5A jet transports that will cost $1.8 billion more than the $3.4 billion originally contracted, that potential brake failure in the A7D attack plane was concealed from the government, that tanks were bought which were incapable of operating with the firing system they were supposed to mount, etc., etc.

MILIARY SPENDING certainly needs to be watched closely. Many billions that might have been used for permanent benefits for the nation have been wasted by the military over the last two decades. But the concentration on contracts ignores the submerged part of the iceberg.

"Of the total annual defense budget of $80 billion, only about $20 billion goes for actual weapons procurement. In the remaining $60 billion unnecessary overhead bulks large, and it is this sector which should be attacked by economizers rather than the building of the weapons themselves, according to one outstanding defense company president."

IT IS RELATIVELY easy to detect waste when an airplane costs twice what was estimated or when a missile is declared obsolete before its launching facilities are completed. It is much harder to track down the waste in needless proliferation of bookkeeping, in antiquated organizational systems, in inefficient assignment of manpower, etc. But the waste is there.

This applies not only to the Defense Department, of course. Other governmental operations—federal, state and local—suffer from many of the same ills.

The trouble with attempts to make government operate more efficiently is that each such effort seems to add another layer to the bureaucratic paper shuffling. Parkinson's Law operates here with a vengeance.

Neither can man depend on computers to create more efficiency. We have in our own county an example of how introduction of computers inaugurated a spiral of rising costs in operating the data processing department itself, which are only now being brought under control after a long period of wasteful operation.

THE PLAIN FACT is that the only way to root out waste is to get out in the field and investigate personally to find where it is occurring. This is an unpleasant task from which both politicians and high-priced administrators shrink. But any smart bureaucrat can turn out reports of time, labor and material usage that will look good when run through a computer.

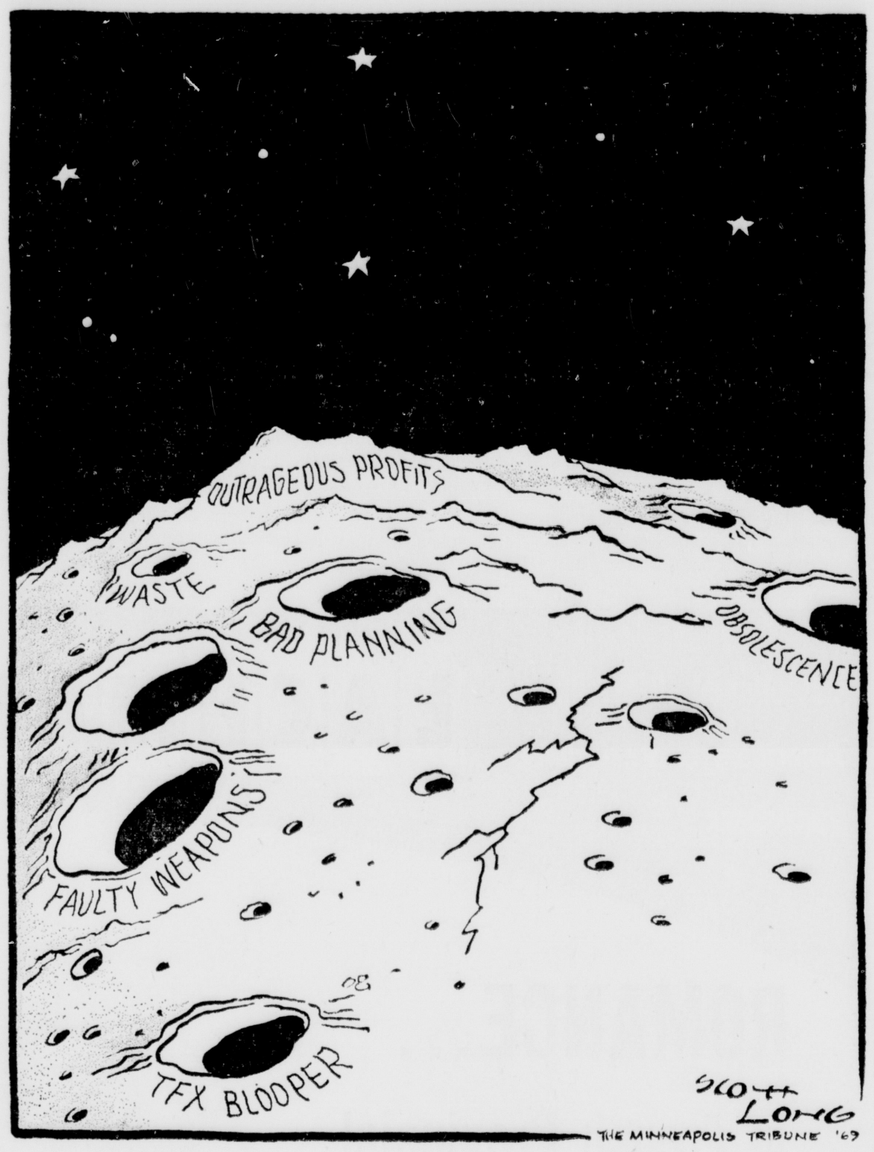
That $60 billion part of the defense budget that is submerged under the surface may require a lot of sonar soundings. In the meantime, attacking the visible part that is represented by contracts for weapons and supplies at least promises some needed savings.

Try Gopher Plant

If you are much troubled with gophers making a mess of your garden, a friend of ours claims to have the answer. It is a distant cousin of the poinsettia and is called gopher plant, also caper spurge, mole plant and compass plant.

There is no doubt that it is poisonous, as it sometimes poisons cattle. An annual or biennial, one to three feet tall with very attractive foliage, gopher plant is a native of the Mediterranean region, but now grows wild in Marin. It is usually found in moist situations.

We hadn't heard of it before, but if it lives up to its billing, the neighbors will have our share of gophers next year. Gophers are said to avoid any small portion of land where gopher plants are growing.



The Far Side of the Defense Budget

THE DRUMMONDS

No Time For 'Patch And Wait' In Defense Dept. Procurement

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

They are assuming that, because the horrible and costly inefficiencies in Pentagon procurement occurred during previous administrations, they can take their own good time setting things straight.

They can't.

EVERY DAY that goes by without massive surgery to carve out the gross incompetencies in defense procurement is eroding the nation's respect for the military and is imperiling the security of the United States in a world where serious war is in the air — on the Sino-Soviet border, in the Middle East, in Eastern Europe.

The administration simply can't go about trying to cope with this Pentagon virus with a penknife and an eraser. And it can't expect the country or the congress to smile benignly at it because the worst horrors of mismanagement took place under other administrations.

Richard Nixon didn't get us into Vietnam, but he's saddled with it and now it is his responsibility.

Laird didn't preside over loose contracting, mounting cost overruns and immoral coverups, but he's saddled with them and now they are his.

BECAUSE THE worst Pentagon blundering took place under Presidents Johnson and Kennedy, the Nixon administration seems to think it can proceed with all deliberate slowness to do what needs to be done.

It can't.

Public patience is wearing thin.

Congressional patience is wearing thin.

Rightly so.

And there is grave danger that since the only effective sanction congress has to compel reform is to cut the defense budget deeply until adequate reform is forthcoming, it will do just that. And the end result would be to leave the United States militarily weak at a period of great uncertainty in the world.

SECRETARY LAIRD believes that the $3-billion cut in current defense spending required by congress is beginning to do just that.

Congress has been criticized for nit-picking at the defense budget, hacking off money indiscriminately without ever taking a total view of the nation's defense commitment and its defense needs in order to determine its total defense requirements.

But it is no more intelligent and no more justified for the Nixon administration to expend precious time just patching up Pentagon procurement.

It is true that Secretary Laird has talked of taking a more skeptical attitude toward eager-beaver new-weapons enthusiasts. The President has directed the Budget Bureau to look with suspicion at the military budget and has named a committee to study Defense Department procedures.

But none of this is good enough, nor is it moving fast and far enough, to restore the stern, practical discipline the Defense Department so urgently needs.

HOW DO WE know enough is not being done? Everybody would know it if it were. But now, one top Pentagon official is blurting out the truth. He is Dr. John S. Foster Jr., director of defense research and engineering. He knows the facts and is telling them:

"Our past and present methods of acquiring weapons have lost us the confidence of the public and are threatening our country's future security. Unless we change our practices drastically, our future ability to deter war and to fight can be seriously jeopardized.

"The country, until recently, has been patient with us. We have assumed that we had time to do better. But the country's patience has run out. The signs are all around us."

What needs to be done? No routine checkup will be adequate, says Dr. Foster. The need is for "major surgery."

Shakespeare Festival Appreciates Help

The Marin Shakespeare Festival is enjoying a very successful season. This is due to the hard work and gracious assistance of many, many people, civic organizations, and community spirited businesses.

Outstanding among those who have helped to make our ninth season such a success (and, indeed, to give us the necessary impetus to be able to continue the festival) has been the Independent-Journal.

Because the I-J does publicize so very many youth, cultural, and civic groups, we find it especially gratifying that you have helped us to such a great extent. And your Mr. Ray Rogers has been wonderful with his assistance and expertise.

The Marin Shakespeare Festival provides clutural, entertainment, and visitor attraction benefits for Marin. Your very generous support certainly deserves the thanks of our community.

On behalf of the hundreds of people involved in putting on the festival, may I convey our sincere thanks for your wonderful support.

Obscenity Not In 4-Letter Words

Eldridge Cleaver and LeRoi Jones certainly do have obscenity in their books. It has nothing to do with Dr. Max Rafferty's four-letter words, however. It has to do with the obscene way that this society has treated black men. Is it not much more obscene for us to tolerate undernourished children being bitten by rats—or any other manifestation of discrimination and poverty in this affluent society—than it is to use a few four-letter words?

Maybe the real reason that Dr. Rafferty wishes to suppress those books is because they "tell it like it is." He wants the children of this state to grow up with the assumption that all is right with America, and Cleaver and Jones angrily and sharply challenge that assumption. Therefore he, like so many affluent whites, prefers not to listen.

I dislike the entire idea of state approval for textbooks; it allows no professional confidence in a teacher to bring meaningful materials to students. But banning books is even more ridiculous.

Banks Get Challenge To Face Responsibility

(Reprinted from Oakland Tribune)

Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Robert Finch has offered the challenge to the nation's bankers in clear and unmistakable terms:

They can continue making federally guaranteed loans to needy college students despite a tight money situation that would bring them slightly less than the maximum profit.

Or they can be steadfastly firm in grasping for the highest possible gains at the expense of some 200,000 students who could thus be denied entry to the nation's colleges in the next few weeks.

THE PROBLEM is not the doing of the Nixon administration nor of the bankers, but mostly can be attributed to a "tight money" situation and a foot-dragging Congress.

Banks have been increasingly hesitant to make loans to college students, even when they are government-guaranteed, because present law permits only a 7 per cent interest rate while they can easily get 8½ per cent elsewhere and thus make a greater profit. Banks are themselves paying 6¼ per cent interest on corporate funds placed by corporations in certificates of deposit of $100,000 or more for six months.

THE SENATE overwhelmingly passed a bill to permit interest rates on such loans as high as 10 per cent, but the House of Representatives failed to act before the current three-week congressional recess started. There is every reason to expect the 10 per cent rate will eventually be approved, probably on a retroactive basis so the banks won't suffer any dollar loss.

In calling on the bankers for an "enlightened response" to his plea that the loans be continued, Secreatry Finch focused on a vital issue:

He was asking, in effect, if the banks can recognize that they have a special obligation to the thousands of young people of this nation who want to further their careers but whose parents don't have the financial means to match spiraling college costs.

TO DATE, just one lending institution, New York's Chase Manhattan Bank, has been reported meeting that obligation by not limiting approval of student loan applications.

If other major banks would step in to "share the load," the students' needs would be met without appreciable financial sacrifice on anyone's part, particularly in view of the expected congressional action on the interest rate.

The "paper losses" would be more than made up by the good will acquired and the improved image for the bankers who all too often are viewed by the public as heartless, unfeeling creatures.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

That $524 Million 'Surplus' Turns Out To Be All Spent

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO, — (CNS) — Perhaps there should be some different method of explaining the financial situation of the state to the public. The figures handed out by the state's financial experts are somewhat difficult to understand.

Ordinarily, when a business comes up with a surplus, it means that the business at the end of a year has taken in more money than it has spent.

But with the state, it is not quite that simple. In fact, it is not simple at all, as the list of "conditions" attached to the state's surplus for a fiscal year creates a situation in which the taxpaying public wonders where it actually stands.

FOR INSTANCE, State Controller Houston I. Flournoy happily announces California wound up fiscal 1968-69 with a "free surplus of $524 million."

But this generous figure, it is found, is not a surplus at all, as $194 million is deducted for "working capital" necessary to be on hand to assure operations during the 1969-70 fiscal year.

Further, the 1969 state legislature already has appropriated funds from this mythical surplus for various purposes for the current fiscal year, primarily for support of education.

After one makes his way through the maze of figures connected with the so-called $524 million surplus, one comes up with the fact that out of this figure, there is an additional $9 million surplus, which the governor says will go to support of education.

BUT THE $9 MILLION can't be spent this year, and will have to wait until next year, before the educationists can get their hands on this excess amount of tax the citizens of California have contributed to the state general fund.

All of which means when a layman figures it out, there actually isn't any surplus at all, for the simple reason the $524 million has been spent in one way or another prior even to the computation date used to describe the mythical "surplus" of state funds.

THIS IS the first time in history, the department of finance says, that the state has ever come up with that much of a paper surplus in state funds.

It might also be called to the attention of the public that this year is the first time in the financial history of California that taxpayers have been beleagured with such high taxes.

In other words, the state is collecting more money that it needs to run the government, in the amount of $524 million, and at the same time, committing this excess for future expenditures, instead of returning it to the taxpayers where it belongs.

IF ONE overpays a bill with a private business organization, he usually gets a credit slip back showing how much the organization owes him for the over-payment.

Not so, however, with the state. It voraciously applies the over-payment to some future expenditures, and leaves the taxpayer holding the sack!

5 Per Cent Income Tax Cut Won't Apply To All

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — There is a lot less Santa Claus than claimed for taxpayers in the middle income brackets ($8,000 to $20,000) in the tax reform bill voted by the House.

Instead of the loudly fanfared 5 per cent cut in individual rates for the millions of taxpayers in these brackets — hurriedly written into the measure at the last minute by the ways and means committee — the actual reduction is from ½ of 1 per cent to 1½ per cent.

This is revealed in an analysis of the House-passed bill made by staff experts of the Senate Finance Committee — where the legislation is now pending. The committee study states the measure does cut individual tax rates 5 per cent. But it points out that percentage is an overall figure that includes all income brackets — from $500 to $400,000 and over.

In other words, 5 per cent is a blanket reduction that, as it works out, benefits those with incomes of $64,000 and over.

FOR — "The reduction is justified on the ground that present rates are unrealistic and have been instrumental in encouraging the development of tax avoidance devices and tax shelters. Lower rates reduce the incentive to use and devise methods of avoiding tax and reduce the disproportion-tion on economic decisions, both socially desirable goals."

AGAINST — "Tax rates should not be reduced during a period when inflation is so strong, and further extension of the income tax surcharge rates is being considered to combat it. Also the reduction all rates is highly questionable because of the huge loss of revenue — $4.5 billion. The amount unbalances the reform and relief program in contrast to the rate schedule in the bills as reported by the Ways and Means Committee. Tthat rate schedule roughly balanced the revenue gain from tax reform and revenue loss from tax relief."

THE HOUSE measure is certain to be considerably changed by the Senate Finance Committee.

Both Republican and Democratic committeemen disagree with many of its provisions. Also, members want to incorporate additional items. Foremost among them is an increase in old age Social Security benefits.

Two amendments already are pending on that. One by Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., would raise these payments by 7½ per cent; the other by Sen. George Aiken, R-Vt., by 10 per cent.

Hartke contends an immediate 7½ per cent hike is feasible without increasing Social Security taxes. He bases this on the ground the Social Security reserve has some $3.5 billion in surplus funds to finance such a hike — which both he and Aiken vigorously argue is necessary because of the inflationary increase in the cost of living.

THE PEOPLE'S SCHOOLS

Schmitz Bill Won't End 'Family Life' Arguments

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Opponents of early sex education have scored a victory with the passage and signing into law of Sen. John G. Schmitz's SB 413, but the measure cannot be expected to end the arguments over "family life education."

Schmitz's measure, which passed the state Senate 23-0, forbids sex instruction in the schools without parental permission. It also gives parents the right to examine materials to be used in such classes before deciding whether to let their children attend.

The measure was opposed by the California Teachers Association in a battle in which the issue became submerged in charges of "right wing support" and "left wing opposition." The CTA made much of Senator Schmitz's membership in the John Birch Society.

The act is likely to result in redesign of the "family life education" courses in those school districts where there has been considerable opposition to sex instruction — of which there are quite a few. It may result in abandonment of the program in some districts, at least in primary grades.

THE FURORE over "family life education" is reminiscent of earlier fights over sex education — but with a difference.

In 1957, Editorial Research Reports prepared a resume of the status of sex education in the schools, and the controversy surrounding it at that time. Here is an excerpt from it:

"Sex education of the young is undertake primarily to guide boys and girls toward acceptance of the attitudes and behavior patterns which accord with the prevailing moral standards of the society in which they live. . . .

"Virtually every statement of purpose of sex education enunciated by agencies engaged in it reflects the fundamental motive of helping young people to adapt their primitive impulses to the demands of a social idea, the monogamous family unit."

THE CURRENT view is expressed in an article by Don Speich, education writer of the Sacramento Bee, which appeared this month. Speich wrote:

"Whose sexual guidelines and morals will the teacher impart to the students? The answer is no one's. Ideally, the instruction is of an amoral nature, with the teacher presenting all sides of the coin to the pupils."

This lack of moral instruction in the sex courses is what caused George Romney, then governor of Michigan, to veto a bill for sex classes in that state's schools last year.

UNDOUBTEDLY, much of the opposition to sex courses is from parents opposed to sex education per se. But their ranks are swelled by those who (1) object to the lack of moral teaching, or (2) oppose introduction in the lower grades of material which in former sex courses was offered at about junior high level.

Typical of the latter is a comment by Hardin B. Jones, professor of medical physics and physiology at University of California, Berkeley. Wrote Professor Jones:

"The fuss is about the rightful concern of parents and educators when SIECUS (Sex Information and Education Council of the U.S.) and others urge that tots and preadolescents should be introduced to the mechanics of sex and the concepts of sexuality long before there is physiological and mental development for such understanding."

EVEN IN THOSE districts where its sex education approach has been accepted, "family life education" may not have a smooth road ahead. A citizen advisory committee in Hillsborough School District in San Mateo County recently went on record against the program for its inclusion of "sensitivity training." Other groups have attacked it on the basis of invasion of privacy.

Trumpeter Swan Gets Fresh Hope

WASHINGTON (AP) — The humpback chub may swim to oblivion and the whooping crane may give up its struggle for survival but there's fresh hope for the trumpeter swan.

In a new report, the Interior Department is reminding Americans that 90 species of fish and wildlife are in danger of disappearing but it reports conservation efforts and the discovery of new breeding populations in Alaska have assured the trumpeter swan will be around for a while.

The report—titled "The Right to Exist"—lists the black-footed ferret, the ivory-billed woodpecker, Attawater's prairie chicken, the California condor and the Florida Key deer among the species in danger of passing from the scene. The great auk, the passenger pigeon, the Carolina parakeet, the plains grizzly bears and the giant sea mink have ceased to exist.

The endangered species—such as the humpback chub, a distinctive little minnow in the Green and Colorado Rivers north of the Grand Canyon—must have help or extinction probably will soon follow, says the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife.

The bureau adds: "As the numbers of our wildlife grow fewer, their true individual value grows greater, for in the few are concentrated all the worth of one small but valuable part of our whole world."

The report says that of all the continents, North America has seen the most drastic changes in abundance of wildlife and the greatest number of extinctions in historic times.

"This is undoubtedly because of its sudden transition from primitive to highly civilized conditions," it says.

Laser Beam Branding Iron For Cattlemen?

DALLAS (UPI) — The laser beam, a space-age tool used by scientists on the earth and the moon, may be a boon to the nation's cattlemen .

Engineers in Dallas, blasting away with a laser at an array of green steer hides, believe they have perfected a laser branding iron. They believe it may end the use of hot irons and chemicals to brand cattle.

Clifford G. Stilwell, vice president of Veterinary Research Institute, said his engineers now are building a laser branding unit for field tests on live steers. Stilwell hopes to have the unit ready for tests in six months.

Stilwell said laser branding is so fast-in the time span of microseconds —than an animal is branded before it knows it. Stilwell thinks the pain will be less, laser branding will be cheapern it will be permanent and hides will be less damaged.

Laser stands for "light amplification by stimulated emission radiation." There are some differences between the laser used in space work and the one used in the VRI laboratories.

The astronomers use a ruby to get a radar beam that starts out half an inch across and is not wider than half a mile when it hits the moon. VRI engineers use carbon dioxide in a long tube in place of the ruby. It generates laser beams in the infrared frequency.

But Stilwell said their branding laser achieves temperatures of t,000 degrees Centigrade. He and the engineers are making a study to determine whether to put on the brand with a stencil or by moving the beam.

Whatever method will be used, the animal will be stopped in a chute and in the merest fraction of a second the brand will be applied.

"It now costs 25 to 40 cents to put a brand on an animal," Stilwell said. "We hope we can get this down to 12 or 15 cents."

A laser branding machinen of course, would cost a good deal more than a metal branding iron and a mesquite wood fire.

Stilwell expects that the government will require identification marks on all cattle and hogs within five years and that laser branding will be the answer to the problem.

He and his engineers also have been trying their beams on a collection of cow and steer skulls and find that they do an instant job of dehorningm The speed of the process would lessen the shock of the operation.

Stillwell said VRI in its laboratory is trying "to bring all technology to bear on the animal health industry," and to th's end also will try to adapt radar to castrating animals.

Novato Gets Downtown Study Pact

The City of Novato has received its contract with the state for its $45,690 federally assisted downtown study, Planning Director Brian W. Mattson reported yesterday.

This is the first step in unraveling the red tape which has delayed the contract for more than four months.

The Department of Housing and Urban Development last spring changed its method of handling 701 grants and Novato was the first city affected, Matson said.

In the past, the state and the city's planning consultant took care of everything from the formation of the contract to handling the money. Under the new system, Novato must do everything, with the result that the city had to get a contract approved by the California Council on Intergovernmental Relations, the contract was received today.

Now the city must contract with its planning consultant, In this casee is Sedway and Cooke of San Francisco, who in turn must make a contract for the consulting services of Arthur D. Little and Co. of San Francisco which will make the financial portion of the study.

Under the new system, Novato will pay bills for the study and then bill the state for the federal share $30,460. The city will pay $15,230, $1.600 has been donated to date by the merchants who will benefit.

The delay has not stopped work on the project, begun April 15 by Sedway and Cooke. The study is scheduled for completion on July 14, 1969.

Today is Wednesday, Aug. 27, the 239th day of 1969 with 126 to follow.

The moon is full. The morning stars are Venus and Saturn. The evening stars are Mercury, Mars and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1859 the first oil well in the United States was drilled near Titusville, Pennsylvania.

In 1928 the Kellog-Briand Pact to outlaw war was signed by 15 nations in Paris.

In 1939 Adolf Hitler served notice on England and France that Germany wanted Danzig and the Polish corridor.

In 1963 miners David Fellin and Henry Throne were rescued after being trapped for 14 days in a mine at Shepptron, Pa.

A thought for the day: David Crockett said, "I leave this rule for others when I am dead: Be always sure you're right . . . and then go ahead."

Missouri Struck By Physician Shortage

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—Physician shortages mean "illness neglected and remedies delayed, leading to poor health and human suffering," witnesses told a Missouri legislative committee seeking to find a way to train more Missouri young people to study medicine.

In 1965 the state had 149 physicians per 100,000 population, and it was estimated that by 1975 Missouri would have only 139 medical doctors per 100,000 population. The lawmakers were told doctor shortages were felt most severely in small towns, rural areas and in poorer sections of the state.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

If You Have To Lose Trick, Give It To The Safe Opponent

You were probably a beautiful child, and everybody loved you. But then you took up bridge, and you found that one person at your left and another at your right were forever trying to do you in. When the shock of this discovery wears off, comfort yourself with the thought that some opponents are less harmful then others.

Opening lead -- ♠ 10

When today's hand was played East put up the queen of spades, and South won with the king. Declarer led the king of diamonds next, and West shrewdly dropped the queen.

This was a very neat play since if West had played his low diamond, South would have continued diamonds and would have allowed West to win the second diamond trick with the queen. South would be safe if West had the lead, and declarer would easily win at least 10 tricks.

CONTINUES DIAMONDS

After the actual play of the queen of diamonds, declarer led another diamond to dummy's ace. He tried three rounds of clubs, but the suit didn't break.

Since West had discarded a heart on the third round of clubs, declarer took the ace and king of hearts. But West dropped the queen of hearts on South's king.

Now there was no way to keep East out of the lead. East was sure to get in and could then lead a spade through South's jack. Down one.

South could have made the contract by a very simple play. After winning the first trick with the king of spades, he gets to dummy with a club and then leads the first diamond from dummy instead of from his own hand. East must play low, and South takes a deep finesse with the nine of diamonds.

West wins with the queen of diamonds, but West is the safe opponent. If West leads another spade, South gets a trick with the jack of spades. If West leads anything else, South is ready to run the rest of the diamonds for a total of 10 tricks.

Teen Rumble Ends In Chase, Crash

An 18-year-old San Rafael youth was arrested last night after a fight and then a high speed chase — by teen-agers trying to get even — which ended in a car crash at 632 Belle Avenue, police reported. Two teen-agers were injured.

Booked into Marin County Jail was Edwin Wesley Cadra of 260 Canal Street, apt. 222, on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon, felony hit-and-run and felony drunken driving.

Police said that apparently Cadra was involved in a fight at 10:05 p.m. with Michael Joseph Smith, 16, of Boardwalk 1, Larkspur. Cadra, police reported, threatened Smith with a hammer, then kicked Smith who was lying on the ground fixing his car on Fourth Street between D and E streets.

Following the fight, Cadra drove off and was chased by Smith's friends apparently in an attempt to repay Cadra for Smith's injuries, officers said.

Cadra's car, estimated to be traveling at more than 65 miles per hour, screeched to a halt against a tree on Belle Avenue, police reported.

Witnesses told police that both cars attempted to leave the accident scene and, on police arrival, only Cadra's car was there. The other car was still unidentified today, police said.

Hanoi Cutting Back Infiltrators In South

Major Drop Is Seen In Casualty Replacements

WASHINGTON (AP) — The North Vietnamese have reduced their infiltration into South Vietnam below their casualty rate, and thus enemy forces in the South may be getting smaller in number, a State Department spokesman said today.

The spokesman, press officer Robert J. McCloskey, reaffirmed the State Department's view that the infiltration cutback is "significant" but added that the United States still seeks a mutual U.S.-North Vietnamese withdrawal deal.

While North Vietnamese combat losses in excess of replacements "will eventually have the same effect as a withdrawal by North Vietnamese forces," he said, it would be a slow process and "we prefer to end the conflict by negotiation" leading to a pullout of all non-South Vietnamese troops.

State Department officials said the infiltration drop may be a factor in President Richard M. Nixon's still-pending decision on the next withdrawal of American forces. But they cautioned

Leader Of Sausalito's Parents' Club Resigns

By LARRY D. HATFIELD

Margaret Lester, deeply troubled over the tense racial relations in the Sausalito School District, has quit her post as president of the Sausalito Parents Club with a charge that some black educators in the district are creating an atmosphere of "polarization and fear."

(See page 23 for the third in a series of articles on the integration of the Sausalito School District).

Mrs. Lester, a long-time activist in Sausalito's school system and a founder of the parents group, made her decision to quit after Monday night's school board meeting during which the controversy over Sidney F. Walton Jr.'s hiring as principal of Martin Luther King School was discussed.

Mrs. Lester today said, "I have been trying for two years to work for human understand-

Novato Increases Tax 6 Cents

The Novato City Council last night set the tax rate at 81 cents per $100 assessed valuation for the 1969-70 fiscal year, 6 cents more than last year.

The tax rate was broken down into 54 cents for general fund, 25 cents for recreation and 2 cents for bond redemption.

The additional tax rates for three assessment districts also were set. These were: Scottsdale Maintenance District, $1.50; San Marin Park Maintenance District, 10 cents, and Lynwood Park Maintenance District, 32 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

The council adopted the final budget of $1,906,730 up $216,659 from last year.

The tax rate was based on an assessed valuation of $54.3 million, up 6.8 per cent from last year.

San Anselmo Taxes Remain At $2.255

A tax rate of $2.255 per $100 assessed valuation, the same as last year's was adopted last night by the San Anselmo City Council for 1969-70. (Another San Anselmo City Council story, page 22).

The council voted 4-1 to approve the rate, Councilman Robert M. Scott dissenting. He said that, during budget hearings, he opposed certain items, including $21,000 for Hub planning. "I'm going to have to stick to no," he said.

Mayor Woodrow V. Capurro said he had previously voted "no" because he thought there would be an increase but since the rate remains the same as last year, he would go along with the vote.

The increased 1969-70 budget of $1,376,850, already approved, compares with $1,070,614 for last year.

The tax rate breakdown is general fund, $1.27; library, 20 cents; parks, 21 cents; recreation, 9 cents; retirement, 27 cents; capital improvements, 13 cents and storm drains, 5 cents.

Johnson Welcomed By Nixon

The President and his wife, Pat, were beside the helicopter landing pad to greet the former chief executive as he arrived from El Toro Marine Air Station with his wife, Lady Bird, and their two daughters and their husbands, Maj. and Mrs. Charles S. Robb and Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Nugent.

Later today the families were to fly to the Redwood National Forest near the town of Orick in Humboldt County for dedication of the "Lady Bird Johnson Grove."

Rec Center Idea For Courthouse

By JOANNE GRANT

Convinced that a little man with a suitcase full of hundred dollar bills isn't going to appear and create an exciting Courthouse Square development, San Rafael architect Robert W. F. Severin has come up with a plan to put the community recreation center on the site.

His proposal was aired at a meeting of the courthouse committee of the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce yesterday and received support, though members also obviously preferred something more spectacular.

More Property Tax Rates Are Set

Property tax rates for 40 special districts and 21 school districts were set yesterday by the Marin County Board of Supervisors. (Other board of supervisors stories, page 6)

Combined with various city, county and regional taxes, a grand total of 295 separate tax rates will be spread on the tax roll, County Auditor Michael Mitchell reported.

About half of the school districts had decreases in their tax rates, and about half increases.

Mitchell said his office had been unable to receive budget and tax rate data from Sonoma County applicable to Lincoln, Union and Laguna School districts, which are part of the Petaluma and Santa Rosa Junior College districts. But on Mitchell's advice, the supervisors set rates for these districts based on his estimates.

Korean Reds Mum

PANMUNJOB, Korea (AP) — North Korea again refused today to tell the United States what happened to the three men aboard a U.S. Army helicopter shot down Aug. 17 north of the demilitarized zone in Communist territory.

During another meeting of the Korean Military Armistice Commission, the Communists again accused the U.N. Command of sending the craft over North Korean territory. The United States said the pilot of the OH23 helicopter strayed after becoming disoriented during a training mission.

It is not known whether the three Army men aboard survived the crash.

10 Years For Killing

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — An American helicopter pilot from the Vietnam war has been sentenced to 10 years in prison for killing a Sydney model who fought off his attempt to have sexual intercourse with her.

Lawrence James Hull, 20, of Enfield, Conn., was convicted of manslaughter in Central Criminal Court yesterday. The jury acquitted him of a charge of murdering Josephine Dunphy, 18.

Hull was on leave from Vietnam when the girl was killed in his motel room on Dec. 16. She stabbed and the body mutilated with a hunting knife.

Hull testified that he hoped to have intercourse with the girl. He said when he tried to kiss her, her elbow came toward him and everything went black.

Hungarian Bomber

VIENNA (AP) — Police say a 47-year-old Hungarian migrant to Canada has admitted the fire bombing of the Canadian Embassy that killed two of the embassy's Austrian employees.

A man threw several gasoline-filled bottles against a bookcase in the embassy library yesterday. Police said that at the height of the blaze, Colman Losonczy walked up to a policeman and said: "I started the fire."

Rickover Warning On Soviet Subs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Navy nuclear chief Hyman G. Rickover says the Soviets—determined never again to have to back down as they did during the Cuban missile crisis—rapidly are overtaking the U.S. submarine fleet.

The Soviet Union is likely to have more nuclear submarines than the United States by the end of next year, the vice admiral told a House Appropriations Subcommittee, and they already have 230 more submarines of all types.

He said the Soviets could catch up with the U.S. missile-firing Polaris submarines by 1973 or 1974.

A censored transcript of Rickover's testimony May 20 in support of the Navy's $1.16 billion request for nuclear ship development and procurement was released today by the public works subcommittee.

Rickover linked the rapid Soviet submarine buildup to the 1962 Cuban missile crisis when asked about the danger of the United States being overtaken.

"I would put it this way: I believe that after the Cuban confrontation—which resulted ultimately in Mr. Kruschchev being kicked out of office—they made up their minds that they would never again be faced with a similar situation," Rickover said.

Industry Defends Old Truck Policy

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp. said today it is industry practice to change the model year identifications of trucks carried over by dealers at the end of a model year and sell them as current models.

General Motors Corp. conceded it does so with heavy duty trucks.

Ford Motor Co. said it "is attempting to obtain clarification of the problem discussed" by the Federal Trade Commission, which reported yesterday that at least seven manufacturers change model year identifications on unsold vehicles.

In some instances, after the date change, the FTC said vehicles are sold as new, even though they were manufactured two or more years previously.

The FTC said its investigation was initiated because of complaints from consumers concerning five domestic manufacturers and two subsidiaries of foreign manufacturers. It declined to name the companies.

The FTC said it had taken no action against the manufacturers, but that it would do so if the practices are continued.

It said similar practices were followed by some trailer manufacturers and makers of other vehicles.

The FTC said what it termed a deceptive practice involved the recall and reissue of the so-called "manufacturer's statement of origin" sent to dealers.

There is little doubt," the FTC said, "that an unused motor vehicle, no matter how carefully it may be maintained, will be subject to deterioration during a long period of storage following its manufacturer."

Atlantic Storm Cools

MIAMI (AP) — Its fury softened by a cooling atmosphere, tropical storm Eve drifted slowly toward the open sea today more than 300 miles east of the North Carolina coastline.

Eve's winds dropped to 50 miles an hour yesterday after the storm broke away from the warmer weather system off Florida where it was born.

Defense Buying Off First Half Of Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense purchases in the first half of this year constituted a smaller part of the nation's Gross National Product than for any time since the end of 1966, the Commerce Department said today.

Asst. Secretary William H. Chartener in a broad review of trade and defense spending, said the defense purchases indicate "a diminishing impact of defense spending on the total economy."

Chartener also reported that the nation, as of the end of July, has "now had 102 consecutive months of increase in economic activity," and said he did not see any sign that inflation will ease over the rest of this year.

Chartener, a Democratic holdover who is leaving the government at the end of this month to return to private business, said the nation's merchandise trade balance in July was in surplus, that is, exports over imports, by a seasonally adjusted $105.2 million. The figure was up from the June surplus of $25.3 million, but was about the same as the average monthly surplus of $116 million during 1968.

"It now seems unlikely that our trade surplus will be significantly better than it was last year," when it was $837 million, Chartener said.

During July, exports including military shipments totaled $3.17 billion, and imports were $3.07 billion.

Chartener said the Commerce Department's composite index of 12 leading economic indicators declined slightly in July to 147.6. But without a 10 per cent declined in building permits, he said, the composite index would have shown an increase.

"Housing clearly is showing the impact of monetary stringency and high interest rates," he said.

On defense activity, Chartener said defense purchases of goods and services declined in each of the first two quarters of 1969, the first decline since 1964.

However, the GNP has risen steadily, so that defense purchases as a proportion of the GNP fell from 9.3 per cent a year ago to 8:5 per cent in April, May and June of this year.

"This ratio is at its lowest level since the fourth quarter of 1966, and lower than for any quarter" from the second quarter of 1951 through the third quarter of 1963, Chartener said.

He said the Defense Department spending in fiscal 1969 was $78.7 billion, less than one per cent more than was spent in fiscal 1968 and "by far the smallest annual increase in defense outlays during the Vietnam War period."

Marchers Force Way Into Steel Firm, Get Conference

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A small group of demonstrators demanding more jobs for Negroes in the construction industry forced their way into U.S. Steel Corp.'s headquarters today, demanded, and got, a meeting with U.S. Steel executives.

But Michael Dismond, a march leader and one of a delegation of 11 demonstrators at the meeting, said U.S. Steel refused to meet the marchers demand that the big steel company halt construction of its 65-story skyscraper only two blocks away.

The announcement was greeted with hisses and booes from the 500 demonstrators who were marching around the building, clapping their hands and chanting. It is the third straight day of protests for more construction jobs.

Dismond, speaking to the demonstrators from atop a wall, said the demonstrators would stop construction.

"We're going over to the U.S. Steel building and we're going to shut it down," he said. "We're going up with the intention of a peaceful settlement. However, we're going to protect ourselves and we're not going to be whipped like yesterday."

The crowd cheered Dismond's remarks and surged into the streets. Dismond called it back and told the demonstrators to walk in small groups and not tie up traffic.

When the demonstrators reached the construction site, they were held back by self-styled Negro policemen who said they were in the march to protect the demonstrators from city police. In front of them were Negro policemen from the city's force. Authorities said every available black policeman on the force was at the site.

As the crowd gathered beneath the structure, workers in the building's ironwork hurled down balloons and paper bags filled with water and other objects.

When one object struck a woman demonstrator, the crowd surged forward and tried to storm the building. Police held the marchers back and the crowd quieted down. Demonstrators carried the injured woman off.

Dismond and others got inside the building by rushing a revolving door opening into a lobby as a doorman was trying to lock it, pushed him aside and demanded to see U.S. Steel president Edwin A. Gott.

Told Gott was in New York, Dismond replied, "This is his problem, this is his town." Another demonstrator said, "Bring him in with a plane."

After a brief conference, the delegation boarded an elevator and was whisked away for the closed door meeting with U.S. Steel officials.

SQUARE

bert Park Lane to the Safeway store.

The council was aghast at the proposal which included estimates of $681,000 for the center; $382,265 for the fire station, and $300,000 for land acquisition. Council members, expecting to spend $200,000 to $300,000 for the center sent it back to the parks and recreation commission for study.

The $300,000 for land acquisition could be "saved" and applied to the purchase price of the courthouse property, Severin suggested yesterday.

Parking could be constructed through a parking district and there would be about 40,000 square feet of space available for retail shops. He noted there are about 35,000 square feet currently available.

The site could be developed to provide for future upward expansion, if the mythical man ever does appear, he said.

Severin estimated it would take about $12 million to do something spectacular with the site —$12 million he doesn't think will appear, based on Marin's population projections.

"It isn't what I dreamed of happening on this site," said Severin with a hint of regret. However, no one has risen to the "bait" that's been offered for more grandiose schemes.

The community center could generate the traffic which will be lost when the courts move to the Hall of Justice, he suggested.

"It's something for everyone, but not everything for everyone," he commented.

Committee members liked various aspects of the plan but worried about financing, particularly about the bond issue which would be inevitable.

Severin said one key to that could be the gold coin parking meter program. It involves raising meter prices in the shopping area from 5 cents to 10 cents an hour. When the dime is inserted, a gold coin would come out. The coin could be redeemed in stores.

Agreeing that this new approach was the only visable measure at this time, the committee recommended it to the chamber's executive board and also decided to notify the city the plan is being studied.

ing and I feel that when the effect of the actions of paid employees of the school district contribute to polarization and fear, my efforts at trying to create human understanding are not going to be very effective."

Although she declined to name them, Mrs. Lester indicated she was referring to the activities of James T. Toliver special assistant to Walton and the King faculty, and William (Chaka) Bradley.

Toliver and Chaka Monday night distributed a militant resolution passed by the Nation Association for African American Education at its Atlanta convention last week. The resolution attacked two Sausalito school board members as racists and solidly backed Walton, Toliver and Chaka.

The resolution, read by Chaka, described Trustee James E. Muldoon as "one white honky racist" and decried "white racism which is perpetuated by right-wing elements in our society such as Muldoon, a bigoted honky in Sausalito and misguided, ignorant Uncle Tom niggers such as Rev. Fred Small of Marin City."

Small has been critical of Walton's appointment.

The Atlanta resolution also condemned "the white racist attitudes expressed by ... (C. Gerald) Clear.' "

Mrs. Lester also was critical of a newsletter distributed in Marin City last week by Toliver which urged black parents to attend Monday night's meeting to "see democracy in action."

The newsletter suggested some members of the board may have held illegal secret meetings to discuss Walton and asked whether there is a "difference under the Constitution between the rights of a black man and a white man —witness the treatment of Bill Chaka and Sid Walton."

Mrs. Lester declined comment on Supt. Phillip . Schneider's role in the hiring of Walton and backing of Chaka, who does not have teaching credentials.

In her statement, Mrs. Lester said, "I also have resigned because I wish to be free to speak as an individual and to state my convictions. I feel that a parents club representing all communities in our school district has been and should continue to be an instrument of reconciliation and I hope that my resignation will not hurt it.

"However, I must speak against the hate and fear I see around me."

The biracial parents club, organized in 1967, has been active in pushing integration in the Sausalito district and heretofore has solidly backed Schneider.

Mrs. Ann Fisher of Sausalito will be acting president of the group until its 11-member board elects a new head. The board consists of three members each from Marin City and Sausalito, two from Forts Cronkhite and Baker, two from Mill Valley and one at large.

SOUTHERN SONOMA

Russ Debris In Space Makes Splash

Russian space debris, trailing a shower of sparks, streaked across the skies of three western states last night and touched off a flood of calls from ground observers in Marin.

Seen from various points in Marin and Southern Sonoma, the high-flying object created an illusion of a plane in trouble, giving rise to reports in North Marin that a plane was seen crashing toward Hamilton Air Force Base, and from yachtsmen off Sausalito that it was heading for a crash at San Francisco International Airport.

Hamilton reported about 30 calls on the then-unidentified flying object.

Local observers also called police and fire departments and described the object as a bright yellow ball of fire with a long tail traveling across the sky in a southerly direction.

Other observers said glowing, cherry-red lights appeared to be a swarm of meteors.

The North American Air Defense Command, which tracks all objects in space, said the lights were from a burning Soviet rocket body used by the Russinas to launch Cosmos 294 on Aug. 19.

The Air Force facility at Colorado Springs, Colo., reported observers had predicted the rocket breakup last night for almost the exact time it happened, 8:50 p.m.

An Air Force spokesman said it was unlikely that any parts of the rocket body would escape burning and fall to earth, but if so, the particles would come down in the Pacific Ocean about 600 miles off the coast of Mexico.

The debris, which was seen in California, Nevada and Arizona, was first believed to be a meteor by the Mount Wilson Observatory in Los Angeles.

Other observers thought it was a missile or a satelite reentry.

The Air Force said rocket debris usually disintegrates and burns in space without being sighted and seldom is it seen so clearly as the Cosmos "decay."

McCloskey gave no figures in saying "There has been a considerable reduction in North Vietnamese infiltration into South Vietnam."

Other sources had previously suggested that infiltration from the North had dropped, starting four or five months ago; from a monthly rate of around 8,000-10,000 to perhaps half that level.

Enemy casualties have been running upwards of 2,000 a week, by allied count, and about 70 per cent of enemy troops in South Vietnam are believed to be from the North.

"We believe that the infiltration figure is currently lower than the North Vietnamese casualty figures in the South," the spokesman said.

"This suggests that they are not replacing all of their casualties and that there may be a net reduction in enemy field forces that occurs as a result of attrition of the North Vietnamese component in these forces."

McCloskey declined to go as far as a statement attributed to former Secretary of State Dean Rusk last night. Rusk was quoted as telling a University of Wisconsin school group that there has recently been an almost total lack of infiltration from North Vietnam.

However, some Nixon administration officials had made similar remarks privately.

House Ransacked

John A. Bielefeldt of 706 Idylberry Road, Marinwood, reported to the sheriff's department Monday that the bedrooms in his home had been ransacked and $2.50 in change taken, sheriff's deputies said today.

found later, he said, "will have to be absorbed due to the extreme lateness in budgetary actions by Sonoma County."

Because of an increased spread between the statewide assessment average and Marin's average, Mitchell noted, the new countywide school equalization rate is 9.5 cents, a hike of 5.5 cents over last fiscal year. The increased spread required more local money due to decreased state aid.

Other special area-wide school taxes included 2 cents for mentally retarded minors (down 3 cents), 2.5 cents for physically handicapped (down 2.5 cents) and 2.5 cents for the handicapped development center (up 1.5 cents).

The 30-cent rate for the Bolinas Harbor District was also set, but the supervisors set a special meeting for 9 a.m. Friday in the Civic Center to cut the new rate if the harbor commissioners vote Thursday night to reduce their budget in light of the fact they will go out of business by early November. The rate last year was 36 cents.

Other special district rates were reported in detail on Saturday by the Independent-Journal, except for the Novato Sanitary District, which has a new rate of 31.5 cents (up 3 cents).

For elementary school districts, the new tax rates are Bolinas-Stinson, $2.325 (up 18.5 cents); Dixie, $3.995 (up 30.5 cents; Fairfax, $3 (down 1.5 cents); Kentfield, $3.33 (down 1 cent); Laguna Joint, $1.65 (up 6 cents); Lagunitas, $3.495 (up 21.5 cents); Larkspur, $3.45 (down 9.5 cents) Lincoln, $1.165 (down 2 cents); Mill Valley, $3.10 (down 3.5 cents); Nicasio, $2.14 (down 8.5 cents); Reed Union, $3.735 (up 20 cents).

Ross, $3.405 (up 69 cents); San Anselmo, $3.41 (up 11.5 cents); San Rafael, $3.275 (up 21.5 cents); Sausalito, $3.355 (up 31.5 cents); Tomales Bay (See Shoreline Unified, was $1.565 last fiscal year); Union Joint, $1.245 (down 47.5 cents), and West Marin Union (see Shoreline Unified, was $1.765 last fiscal year).

For unified school districts, the new tax rates are. Novato, $5.345 (up 19 cents), and Shoreline, $3.88 (new district).

For high school districts, the new tax rates are San Rafael, $2.29 (up 3 cents); Tamalpais, $2.29 (up 5 cents); and Tomales Union (see Shoreline Unified, was $2.115 last fiscal year); Petaluma for Laguna district, $2.28 (down 17 cents); Petaluma, for Lincoln and Union, $2.27 (down 17 cents).

For Marin Junior College District the new rate is 93 cents (up 10.5 cents); Santa Rosa Junior College District, which includes parts of Northern Marin, 42 cents (down 3 cents.)

Mitchell noted that these rates included not only general and override taxes, but also taxes for bonds, area-wide tax levies and special levies.

Teacher Lunch In Mill Valley

New teachers in the Mill Valley School District will be honored at a luncheon Sept. 4 hosted by the Mill Valley Chamber of Commerce at Sabella's restaurant.

Also attending the luncheon wilp be Mill Valley Mayor Dean N. Meyer, city councilmen, school trustees, school staff members and Parent-Teacher Association council officers.

Guest speaker will be Supervisor Michael Wornum.

Reservations are now available at the Chamber of Commerce office, 85 Throckmorton Avenue.

Environment Held Flood Control Key

The Ross Flood Control Advisory Board has moved to protect the town's environment when first phase flood control work begins next year on Corte Madera Creek through the town.

The board Monday approved a series of recommendations by Tokn Engineer Philip B. Lygren which he said would control the contractor's activities "so he doesn't range at will" in getting at the flood control work.

Among the limits recommended by the board:

Access to the project through the Ross Post Office parking lot limited to vehicles under five tons.

Construction rights-of-way cannot be used for storage or staging areas.

A line of cypress trees and two walnut trees along the creek are to be preserved. The southerly part of a line of acacia trees is to be preserved. Growth along the northeast bank of existing Corte Madera Creek is not to be cleared except for three access openings.

Where the new channel will deviate from the existing creek, the old creek bed is to be preserved and provided with drainage.

The Ross Town Council will meet at 8 p.m. today at town hall to discuss the board's recommendations.

Pope Shifts Two Bishops In California

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Two Catholic bishops were transferred from Santa Rosa to in California today by Pope Paul VI.

The Pope announced that Bishop Leo Maher would be transferred to new assignments San Diego and Bishop Hugh A. Donohoe from Stockton to Fresno. He did not announce their successors.

Both bishops assumed their present posts in 1962 when the Stockton Diocese was created out of the San Francisco-Sacramento Diocese and the Santa Rosa Diocese was made separate from the Archdiocese of San Francisco.

Bishop Maher, 59, held various positions under the late San Francisco Archbishop John J. Mitty and served as assistant pastor of Holy Name and St. Mary's churches, both San Francisco.

Bishop Donohoe, 63, was ordained in 1930 and was administrator of the San Francisco Archdiocese following the death of Archbishop Mitty.

Petaluma Studies Month Of Crime

Petaluma police investigated nine burglaries for the minth of July along with four auto thefts and 15 thefts valued at more than $50 and 60 thefts under $50.

Chief Larry D. Higgins said 91 felony and theft reports were received and 346 reports of misdemeanors. A total of 283 moving citations were issued and 18 injury accidents investigated.

Not A Niece

Maria Loreta Pacheco, retired San Rafael school teacher who died yesterday, was a granddaughter of the late Ygnacio Pacheco, not a niece as reported yesterday in the Independent-Journal.

A HELPING HAND — A wounded soldier, head bandaged, gives a hand to troopers and medics tending a seriously wounded buddy in a battle zone south of Da Nang. The two were wounded this week when a search for a downed U.S. helicopter turned into a battle with North Vietnamese troops. (AP Wirephoto)

300 More GIs Leave Viet Combat

SAIGON (AP) — Three hundred more men of the U.S. Ninth Infantry Division flew from Vietnam to Hawaii today, virtually completing the withdrawal from the war of 25,000 U.S. troops ordered by President Richard M. Nixon.

The last numerically designated unit to leave under the current cutback program, Marine Corps Fighter Attack Squadron 334, will complete its transfer to Japan tomorrow. Redeployment of the squadron's 250 men and 14 F4J Phantom fighter-bombers began yesterday.

22,700 SO FAR

The U.S. Command said a total of 22,700 men have been moved out by units, while another 1,400 Army men, 400 Marines and 350 Navy men left in advance parties or as individuals. Departure of a Navy LST (landing ship tank) with a crew of 150 a week ago completed the total of 25,000 men which Nixon on June 8 said would be pulled out of Vietnam by the end of August.

Despite withdrawal of the 25,000 troops, U.S. forces in Vietnam last Thursday totaled 526,500 men, or only 10,500 less than the 537,000 in the country when Nixon made his announcement.

TERROR RAIDS

Meanwhile, South Vietnamese headquarters announced that 17 persons were killed and 99 were wounded last night in two terrorist attacks, one on the central coast and one in Da Nang. Both attacks were blamed on Viet Cong agents, and in both attacks the terrorists escaped.

Thirty miles southwest of Da Nang, a task force of American Marines and infantrymen clashed twice yesterday with North Vietnamese troops in the rolling foothills behind the populous coastal lowlands. Six North Vietnamese and one American were reported killed and 30 Americans wounded.

Army Stops Delivery Of M16 Rifle Output

WASHINGTON (AP) — Calling the weapons poorly made, the Army has stopped accepting M16 rifles produced by a Massachusetts company involved last year in a contract award that raised the ire of Congress.

The Army says in effect that the Harrington & Richardson Co., of Worcester, Mass., has been turning out shoddy rifles but it hopes the suspension of M16 acceptances will be temporary.

In response to questions, the Army said it had rejected five lots totaling 5,000 rifles before suspending further acceptances last July 25. The company is behind in deliveries by 12,866 weapons.

"The contractor was not complying with the contractually prescribed quality assurance program," the Army said. "Some rifles failed to pass function, endurance and targeting and accuracy tests."

Furthermore, H&R's M16s failed final examinations because of such flaws as defective barrels and bolt carriers and improper lubrication, the Army said.

The Defense Contracting Administration Service has been called into the situation and with the Army is trying to help H&R straighten out the quality problem, officers said.

In Worcester, H&R president C. Edward Rowe Jr., said he would have no comment.

The Army irritated Congress last year when it picked H&R and General Motors Corp. of Ypsilanti, Mich., to become second and third producers of the rapid-firing M16 even though two other companies said they could produce the rifles more cheaply.

On the initial contracts, H&R had a ceiling price of $41.5 million and GM $56.3 million for M16 production. By contrast, Maremont Corp. of Saco, Maine, indicated a ceiling price of $36.5 million and Cadillac Gage offered $36.8 million.

Neither Maremont's nor Cadillac's estimates were considered in the bidding because the Army doubted they could produce M16s fast enough.

A special Senate Armed Services subcommittee later blasted the Army for "a most inept performance" in choosing the costlier contracts.

Since World War II nearly 300,000 Army and Air National Guardsmen have been called to active duty—in the Korean war, the Berlin crisis and Vietnam.

Judge's Son Loses Appeal

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — U.S. Court of Appeals judges yesterday upheld the conviction and sentence of a jurist's son who refused hospital work in place of military service.

Vincent J. O'Connor, 27, son of the late Judge Raymond J. O'Connor of San Francisco, still may petition the U.S. Supreme Court for a rehearing and is free in $100 bail.

While classified as a conscientious objector, he argued during a U.S. District Court trial that the alternative service order was unconstitutional.

That court sentenced him to three years in prison.

O'Connor had told the district court that when he received the alternative service order he was working with the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee registering Negro voters in Arkansas.

New Fire Code Proposal Aired But Then Is Promptly Shelved

Tough new code requirements proposed to improve the fire resistance of structures got their first airing yesterday before the Marin County Board of Supervisors, and promptly were shelved. (Another board of supervisors story, page 1.)

The county public works department proposed the new standards in response to the 1969 Marin County Grand Jury's expression of concern about fire protection provisions of the building code, particularly in areas without structural fire protection.

The department's proposals included fire-resistant exterior finishes, restrictions on roofing materials, and a ban on shingle siding where one-hour exterior walls are required.

These and other technical changes proposed by the department, said Supervisor Michael Wornum, would mean that "stucco buildings virtually would be the only buildings you'll be able to build."

The proposed requirements "go too far," he said, and would "make a monster" of the building code. Wornum is an architect.

Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. said the answer to better protection of the citizenry from fire lay in enforcing the present building code. He said it would be ridiculous to have different codes in various parts of the county.

The supervisors, after brief discussion, agreed unanimously to refer the proposals back to the staff, and did not ask that they be returned to the board for further action.

The Marin County Board Of Supervisors Also:

ROADS — Approved plans to widen Novato Boulevard between San Miguel Way and San Marin Drive, and East Sir Francis Drake Boulevard on San Quentin Peninsula from Highway 17 west around San Quentin Prison.

TARRANT APARTMENTS — Upheld the county planning commission and denied an appeal of the Gallinas Village Improvement Association to reverse approval of the design review application of Tarrant Apartments. The apartments will be built at LaBrea Way, Point San Pedro and Adrian Street.

GRAND JURY — Approved a $2,000 reserve transfer requested by the grand jury to augment the budget for testimony transcription. The board was informed this was the jury's investigation of local government, not criminal activities.

CAMPERS — Passed an ordinance prohibiting the parking of campers, trailers and similar vehicles on sections of five streets in the Waldo Point area.

DIRECTOR — Reappointed Kenneth B. Brown as director of weights and measures for a four-year term. His salary for the 1969-70 fiscal year was set at $1,111 per month and will increase yearly to $1,286 per month during 1972-73.

PATROL — Approved the allocation of $315 to provide a mounted patrolman at Stinson and other beaches during weekends and holidays during the remainder of this month and early September.

Suspects Held In Burglaries

Two burglaries at the same San Anselmo house have been cleared up with the arrest of two Sleepy Hollow teen-age brothers, Police Chief Raymond R. Buchignani said today.

Joseph G. Cutrufelli, 14, and Sam J. Cutrufelli, Jr., 13, both of 164 Deer Hollow Drive, were cited to Juvenile Hall yesterday on suspicion of burgling the residence of Patricia J. Borup, 50 Ash Street, on Thursday and Monday.

Coins totaling $30 were taken in the first burglary and seven packs of cigarettes in the second, police said. A witness told police he saw one of the brothers climb a fence to enter the Borup property Monday.

Motorcycle Theft Charge Dismissed

A charge of motorcycle theft against Rodney John Arnold, 19, of Novato was dismissed yesterday in Marin Municipal Court by Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. because of insufficient evidence.

He had been accused of taking the cycle June 30 in Novato.

Dedication Set

SAN CLEMENTE (AP) — The Western White House says President Richard M. Nixon will join President Diaz Ordax of Mexico Sept. 8 in dedicating the newly completed Amistad Dam on the Rio Grande River near Del Rio, Tex.

Sounding Board Topic: Bridge Transit Policy

Whether the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District should go into the transit business will be discussed on radio KTIM's "Sounding Board" program at 9 a.m.

Speakers will be Margaret Azevedo, chairman of the Marin Council for Civic Affairs, Mill Valley Mayor Dean N. Meyer and attorney Joseph E. Sheeks of Belvedere, members of the bridge district board, and Theo Barron Jr. of Marin City, president of the newly organized Marin Transit System.

Questions from listeners will be answered during the program. Kitty Oppenheimer will moderate. The program will be rebroadcast by tape recording at 10:05 a.m. Sunday.

Dean Rusk's Car Stoned After Talk

About 50 persons who objected to Rusk's policies when he was in office surrounded the car as it left a parking lot. It was hit by half a dozen stones and a large stick.

Bolinas Lagoon Will Be First Marin Fill Target

An ordinance to strengthen county control of shoreline and bay filling with Bolinas Lagoon the first target, is in the works, the Marin County Board of Supervisors was told yesterday.

Donald R. Frost, county public works director, told the supervisors that the county planning commission on Sept. 29 would consider a countywide ordinance similar to the Richardson Bay ordinance, which prohibits any filling without a permit.

The only ordinance the county can presently use against bay fill is the grading ordinance, which allows a developer to place up to 1,000 yards of fill anywhere without a permit. Frost said this limit had already been reached in Bolinas Lagoon but that filling was now halted since his order Aug. 15 blocking developer George P. Leonard from further dumping of fill.

Leonard is now in the process of obtaining a permit, Frost said, and "there is no reason to withhold a permit under the grading ordinance."

"I think that lagoon's in trouble, we don't really have any real control and before long we'll lose it," declared Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni.

"We've lost half of it already," remarked Supervisor Louis H. Baar.

Unlike San Francisco Bay, Bolinas has no state or regional control on it.

Shell Explosion Kills Two Boys

APPLE VALLEY (AP) —Two boys were killed when a mortar shell war souvenir they were playing with exploded.

They were identified as Troy Dersch, 13, and Michael Bubash, 12, both of Apple Valley, San Bernardino County. The shell belonged to Michael's father, Michael J. Bubash.

The explosion occurred in the bedroom of the Bubash boy. It blew out the windows and sent shell fragments through the walls.

Walnut Clothing Just Not Enough

BERKELEY (AP) — Campus police arrested two young persons at the University of California, saying the scanty clothes they wore — made mostly of walnuts — weren't quite enough.

Released on $500 bail each after being booked for investigation of exhibitionism yesterday were Theodora Pauline Skipitares, 23, of Oakland, and George Paul Csicsery, 21, of Berkeley. The young woman said she was a university student.

Campus officers W.R. Jones and J.W. Davis said the pair appeared at Sproul Hall Plaza in the scanty garb for which officers had no immediate explanation.

Plane Crisis Remains Up In Air

A special hearing yesterday on a request to legalize the parking of seaplanes on Richardson Bay ended inconclusively with a prediction by county zoning administrator Thomas E. Cordill that his decision will be made sometime later this week.

The owner of the illegally parked planes, Chris Hansen of San Francisco, has asked for a variance to keep them there until the site opposite Marin City is needed for the public area envisioned in the plan for Richardson Bay.

Cordill said he would need a recommendation from the county health department on whether the chemical toilet on the site was adequate, and also must review the adequacy of fire protection.

There was no opposition to the variance application.

The base sprang up during the past two months, despite numerous notices by the county to Hansen that it was illegal without a variance.

Almost two-thirds of the nation's softwood timber is now on federal public lands.

Dissident Unit's Officer Relieved

SAIGON (AP) — The young American lieutenant who couldn't get his men back into battle last Sunday has been relieved of his command.

His battalion commander, Lt. Col. Robert C. Bacon of Falls Church, Va., said today that Lt. Eugene Shurtz Jr., 26, of Davenport, Iowa, had been relieved as commander of Alpha Company and would be given a new assignment with the 196th Light Infantry Brigade.

"I went out to relieve him personally," Bacon said in a telephone interview from his headquarters in the foothills southwest of Da Nang. "I wasn't satisfied with the progress the company was making."

Alpha Company suffered heavy casualties last week in five assaults on a labyrinth of North Vietnamese bunkers and trench lines on the slopes of Nui Lon Mountain. Ordered to move out again Sunday, Shurtz told Bacon over the field telephone: "I am sorry, sir, but my men refuse to go. We cannot move out."

Bacon said that Capt. Bernard F. Wolpers, a native of Germany who is now a U.S. citizen, had replaced Shurtz as company commander.

The colonel said the company's refusal to follow Shurtz's orders "was certainly a contributing factor" in his decision to change commanders, but that the action "was not solely based on that."

"I made the decision for a lot of reasons," he said. "I don't think he had the experience to handle the job . . . The company wasn't responsive; it was dragging its feet.

"It was slow getting its gear together. I didn't think the company moved when I wanted it to. I would tell them to move out at 6 a.m. and they would move out at 6:30."

A spokesman for the Americal Division said five enlisted men had questioned Shurtz's orders to move out, but that all five had finally gone with the rest of the company "and the company completed its mission." Both Bacon and the spokesman said no charges are pending against anyone and no formal investigation is being conducted.

"The matter is not being further pursued," the spokesman said. "The men are still in the company, and the company is still in the field."

Bacon said five enlisted men in the company had requested during the incident to see the Inspector General, but "they decided not to once they settled down and started moving. They decided they had no complaints at all."

He said the company is still operating in the field but has not been involved in any significant fighting since last Saturday.

Shurtz had been in Vietnam only a month and was commander of Alpha Company for three weeks. Bacon took command of the battalion last Thursday after his predecessor, Lt. Col. Eli P. Howard of Woodridge, Va., was killed in a helicopter crash.

Bacon said he did not consider the Alpha Company incident "a big problem."

"I've seen similar type things happen," he said.

18 Facing Camp Rioting Charge

CAMP LEJEUNE, N.C. (AP — The Marine Corps has charged 17 Marines and a Navy hospitalman with rioting in connection with a fatal racial fight at Camp Lejeune July 20.

Another nine Marines were restricted to the base on suspicion of rioting, the corps announced yesterday.

All had shipped out for the Mediterranean shortly after the fight but were returned for questioning. Two other Marines returned at the same time have been released without being charged.

Previously, five Marines had been charged with murder and rioting.

About 30 Negro and Puerto Rican Marines attacked 14 white Marines following a squabble at a service club.

One white Marine died a week after the fight.

Bolinas Man Pleads Innocent

Frank Emory Prewett, 29, of Bolinas entered a plea of innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court in a charge of possessing marijuana Thursday in Bolinas.

A preliminary hearing was set for tomorrow.

Innocent Plea To Fatal Crash

James Edward Gray Jr., 28, of Larkspur has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of felony drunken driving stemming from a head-on collision on Golden Gate Bridge July 15.

A preliminary hearing was set for Sept. 25.

The California Highway Patrol said that the accident occurred when Gray's car crossed the center line and hit a minibus. Gray and the occupants of the bus, Brian W. Beggs, 21, and Paul R. Healey, 18, both of Peterborough, Ontario, Canada, were hospitalized.

Blood Center Hours Change Next Week

Office hours at the Marin Blood Center, 506 Fourth Street, San Rafael, will be changed next week because of the Labor Day holiday.

The center usually is open on Monday, Wednesday and Friday. Next week the center will be closed Monday and Tuesday and open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Wednesday and Friday and from noon to 6 p.m. Thursday.

$50,000 Claim Goes To Militants

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — The National Student Association has climaxed its 22nd annual convention by approving a claim for $50,000 by a breakaway black student association.

Delegates to the convention, numbering about 500, acted late last night on the militants' demand after a riotous session the preceding night, during which black dissidents took control of the meeting.

A spokesman, Gwen Patton, said the new National Association of Black Students estimated the amount due to be $50,000. Miss Patton is coordinator of the Third World Conference, an organization of black separatists.

There was no indication of where the funds would come from, barring volunteer student contributions. Robert Powell, outgoing president, said NSA's annual budget, currently is $120,000 in the hole.

The NSA picked as its new president a 22-year-old graduate of the University of California at Berkeley, Charles Palmer of East Los Angeles, Calif.

Palmer told delegates he was looking forward to helping students work together as a means of preventing new campus violence.

The convention voted approval of a black resolution calling on the organization to recognize that racism is the most serious problem affecting American students. The resolution called on the NSA to combat racism as its first order of business in the coming year.

In addition, delegates adopted resolutions sought by Mexican-Americans, who call themselves "chicanos," for support of a California grapes boycott and a boycott of a Colorado beer company accused by the chicanos of hiring discrimination—an allegation the beer firm has denied.

The sun radiates more energy in one second than man has used since the beginning of civilization, says the National Geographic.

Christian Scientists Attending Convention

Thirteen college age Christian Science Church members from Marin County will attend the seventh biennial conference of college students tomorrow through Sunday at the First Church of Christ, Scientist in Boston.

Attending the conference on "building in a revolutionary period" will be David Smith of San Rafael; Teri Spence, Holly Mensing and Hoyt Smith, all of San Anselmo; Buzz Beattie of Ross; Wendy Wurtz and Bob Webb, both of Kentfield; Ruth Kauer of Mill Valley; Consuela Smith, Ann Horton and Judy Shelly and Robin Jurs, all of Belvedere.

77 Years' Service For Three Retirees

A lieutenant colonel from San Rafael and a lieutenant colonel and captain from Corte Madera were among 11 Army veterans who participated in their final retreat ceremony at the Presidio of San Francisco yesterday.

Retiring after a combined total of 77 years in the Army were Lt. Col. Charles W. Jones Jr. of 7 Terra Linda Drive, San Rafael; Lt. Col. Anthony Barkovich of 9 Key Largo Course, Corte Madera, and Capt. Noriya Fujiwara of 41 Staghound Passage, Corte Madera.

Colonel Jones, and infantry officer, served in Europe during World War II and also saw service in the Korean War and in Italy, Japan, Iran, and Vietnam. He served 27 years in the Army.

Colonel Barkovich, who entered the Army in 1942, has served in the Quartermaster Corps in Yugoslavia, Germany, Korea, and Vietnam. He has been on the logistics staff of the Sixth Army since February 1968.

Captain Fujiwara entered the Army in Hawaii in 1946 and served with the Chemical Warfare Corps in Europe, Japan, and Vietnam. He has been on the headquarters staff of Sixth Army Special Troops since returning from Vietnam, where he received the Bronze Star and Air Medal.

A burglar yesterday broke into the residence of Dr. John L. Bradin Jr., 215 Wilson Way, Larkspur, and stole 300 drug capsules and property valued at $500, Larkspur police reported.

Stolen were 200 Dexadrine capsules and 100 Dexamobarb capsules, a pad of prescription blanks, a tape recorder, a portable radio, a camera, clothing, a wristwatch, a .22-caliber rifle, phonograph records and tape recordings.

Minor Injuries In Two Wrecks

Two persons received minor injuries in separate accidents on Highway 1 in Stinson Beach yesterday, the California Highway Patrol said today.

At 11:45 a.m., a car driven by Iphigens Malony Bittman, 18, of 550 Sonoma Mountain Road, Petaluma, hit the rear of one driven by James Anthony White, 60, of Stinson Beach, as Miss Bittman was pulling away from a stop sign at the highway's intersection with Calle Del Arroyo.

Elizabeth White, 67, a passenger in her husband's car, was slightly injured in the mishap but did not require hospital treatment, the patrol said.

Gerald Steven Granados, 24, of Bolinas, was also injured slightly at 1:30 p.m. when his car stuck the rear of one driven by Donna Renard, 22, of San Francisco, the patrol said. He did not require hospital treatment.

The patrol said Miss Renard had stopped to turn across the highway into a parking lot when the Granados car hit hers.

Higher Signs Along Highway 101 Studied

Possibility of raising the height limits on signs along Highway 101 was reviewed last night at a joint study session of the Petaluma City Council and Planning Commission.

Paul Stanley, planning commission chairman, said that the present 30-foot limit on all signs has caused many requests for variances.

Stanley said he felt the limit should be raised to 75 feet for freeway oriented businesses with the sign size and heights to be approved along with the use permit application so that some control could still be exercised.

Operators of present freeway businesses told the group that higher signs approved by the commission had brought as much as a 25 per cent increase in business.

With most council members in agreement on raising the sign heights, several suggested that the proposed amendment to the sign ordinance include what types of businesses could be considered freeway oriented. Some recommended that the businesses be limited to gas, food and lodging.

Andy Anderson of the planning staff said there might be a problem in the future when many businesses are competing for air space. He suggested the group might work with the state Division of Highways in having signs on Highway 101 stating "gas-food-lodging" placed at appropriate intersections. Anderson said small emblems of national businesses represented locally could be incorporated beneath the sign.

Robert Koenitzer, planning commissioner, disagreed with the other members saying the national trend is away from large and high signs. Stanley said the commission would consider the amendement at a future meeting and make a recommendation to the city council.

The group also reviewed the possibility of ammending the service station ordinance to permit a large grouping of stations at freeway interchanges. The ordinance now allows only two stations at each intersection.

The proposed amendment will also be discussed at a future planning commission meeting.

Only Half A Burglary In Tamalpais Valley

Ina A. Devin of 295 Flamingo Road, Tamalpais Valley, reported to police that when she returned from a vacation last Thursday that her house had been ransacked and $50 in coins taken, sheriff's deputies said today.

The burglar apparently had been frightened while in the house and had left a television set, a stereo and other articles piled in the front hall.

Informal Talks On Park Plans

The Belvedere Parks and Recreation Commission did not hold its regularly scheduled meeting last night for lack of a quorum, according to Wendy Buchen, secretary.

However, the two commissioners attending informally discussed the proposed parks master plan with several persons in the audience.

The commission will hold another community meeting on the master plan at 8 p.m. Sept. 9 in city hall.

Arabs Again Seek Anti-Israel Unity

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Hoping to capitalize on Moslem indignation over the fire at the Al Aksah Mosque in Jerusalem, the Arab nations have agreed to try to convene a summit meeting of all Islamic nations and also to hold a joint Arab defense council in November.

As the Arabs inched toward unity, in words at least, the U.N. Security Council voted another condemnation of Israel, and the Israelis reported finding 13 Arab missiles trained on the heart of Jerusalem.

Foren ministers and other representatives of the Arab governments ended a two-day meeting in Cairo yesterday with a communique which said Saudi Arabia and Morocco would be asked to line up all the Moslem countries for the Islamic summit. This is to enlist such non-Arab nations ar Iran, Pakistan, Malaysia and Indonesia in the fight against Israel.

The ministers said the Arab defense meeting, to be held in Cairo in the first week of November, would "put the necessary plans toward mobilizing Arab military potentials against Israeli aggression and consolidation of the Palestinian revolution."

Plans for an Arab summit conference to unify action against Israel were postponed until after the November defense meeting.

The Security Council unanimously condemned Israel for an air attack Aug. 11 in which Lebanon claimed four civilians were killed. Israel admitted the attack but said the targets were guerrilla bases in southeast Lebanon from which terrorists had been raiding Israeli border settlements.

Israeli Ambassador Yosef Tekoah told the 15-nation council his government would continue to defend its borders regardless of the resolution.

The unanimous vote came after Lebanon's supporters agreed to include in the resolution an indirect slap at the Arab guerrillas. The provision, demanded by the United States and Britain, deplored "all violent acts" in violation of the 1949 armistice.

Court Refuses Marijuana Case

Gray was arrested May 22 by drug agents.

Underground Press—Bourgeois?

BERKELEY (AP) — Underground newspapers are "pretentious . . . deviantly bourgeois. . . schizophrenic . . . and dirty," a professor asserts. Two publishers of such papers disagreed.

Walter Gieber, journalism professor at San Francisco State College, also asserted purchasers read only the paper's racy want ads.

On the other hand, Art Kundin who publishes the Los Angeles Free Press said the papers reach those disaffiliated persons who don't read the regular papers.

"We don't ask the police what they think is happening on the streets," he said. "We go out and ask the people on the streets."

The two were on a panel yesterday as the Association for Education in Journalism held its convention at the University of California.

In another speech, Jerome K. Full, director of information services for Eastern Airlines, said: "The news media do not generally concern themselves with the public substance of a corporation."

"They will not offend the most craven or vicious enterprise nor encourage, for fear of committing the heresy of commercialism, the most socially responsible."

Newspapers and broadcasting stations should run the names of companies that pollute the streams and atmosphere and cite by name those which "peddle bad merchandise."

Lifeguard Life No Piece Of Cheesecake

REDNODO BEACH (AP) — A hard-working lifeguard has no time for larking about with pretty girls.

His heroic rescues are likely to take place in about three feet of water.

He spends most of his time handing out bandages, picking up trash or looking for lost objects—children, rings, watches and false teeth.

Such, at least, are the observations of Bob Moore, who has worked for the Los Angeles lifeguard service for more than 35 years.

"I'm afraid a lifeguard's job isn't what it's like in the movies," sighed Moore, still trim, hard and handsome at the age of 59.

Moore has rescued hundreds of persons. One day he and two other lifeguards pulled 82 persons from the surf.

But, he confesses, "the rescues usually occur in the shallows just off the beach.

"They're people who start panicking when a wave hits them and they swallow a little sea water," he said. "These are usually the tired, the fat, the drinkers. They fall face down and can't get back up."

He says it's the muscle men who cause the biggest headaches.

"They swim far out and look back and suddenly people on shore looks like ants," he said.

"They begin swimming, hard and fast. Pretty soon their elbows droop and they go under. I see it coming and haul them to shore."

He blames fear for most drownings.

"Without fear you will float high enough to breath, whether you can swim or not," says Moore. "With fear you thrash around, use up your oxygen, and sink."

BEFORE LEGION — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird waves and smiles prior to addressing the 51st national convention of the American Legion in Atlanta. In his speech yesterday, Laird warned that more cuts in the defense budget would "reduce our defense readiness . . . both short and long term." (AP Wirephoto)

Pentagon Critics Plan New Attack

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators critical of the defense budget are planning new assaults on it despite a Pentagon campaign depicting further cuts as dangerous.

Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., said the Senate no longer will accept as infallible the judgment of the Pentagon or the White House on weapons spending.

When the Senate reconvenes one week from today, it will take up once again an amendment to cut $533 million for the giant C5A transport plane from the defense budget.

Action is due later on an amendment sponsored by Case and Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., to slice $377 million programmed for work on a nuclear-powered aircraft carrier.

Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., is considering an effort to knock out $239 million for the new F14A Navy fighter plane.

Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., is challenging a $90.2 million item for research and development work on a new manned bomber.

And there may be other attempts to trim the $20 billion bill authorizing weapons purchases, research and development spending, and other military outlays.

The overall military budget now stands at some $77 billion.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said yesterday those demanding further big cuts in that budget "are urging a very dangerous course."

Laird told the American Legion national convention in Atlanta that the defense budget has been trimmed $4.1 billion since the new administration took over.

"Even these cuts do not satisfy some critics who impatiently demand additional major reductions," he said.

Laird entered a special plea for $6 billion in research and development spending.

But Case, in a report to his New Jersey constituents, said the long Senate battle over Pentagon spending reflects an irreversible change in approach to the defense problem.

"The American people, I believe, are no longer willing to accept as inevitable the upward spiral of the arms race," Case said. "And the United States Senate clearly is no longer willing to accept as infallible the Pentagon's or even the President's judgment that a particular weapons system is essential to national survival."

Drunken Driving Charge Dismissed

Felony drunken driving charges against Airman Jose Tamayo, 20, of Hamilton Air Force Base were dismissed yesterday in Marin Municipal Court after Deputy Dist. Attny. Gary T. Ragghianti said that witnesses were unavailable.

He said that a passenger in Tamayo's car who was injured in an accident Dec. 22 on Highway 101 is still hospitalized in a mental hospital in the East and has no memory of the collision.

Two other witnesses cannot be located, Ragghianti said.

One Killed In Munitions Explosion

NEWHALL (AP) — An explosion rocked a munitions and flare manufacturing plant building last night, killing one man and injuring nine others, sheriff's deputies said.

It was the second death within a week from an explosion at such a plant, the other coming last Thursday in an explosive-making plant at another company's nearby site.

Fire officials said there was absolutely no suspicion of arson or sabotage. Both firms involved have extensive defense contracts, officials said.

The dead man, burned over most of his body, was identified as Ian K. Bruce Jr., 30, Lancaster.

The building, at the Bermite Powder Co. three miles east of Newhall, was destroyed with $20,000 damage, Los Angeles County fire officials said.

The cause was unknown but the sheriff's substation at Newhall said it received a report that a worker saw a spark just before the explosion, which touched off a fire that engulfed the structure of steel and concrete.

Flares and explosives were made in the building, officials said.

Deputies said the blast occurred in a disposal area and that magnesium might have been what was initially touched off.

U.S. Help Promised For Smogless Car

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — Presidential science advisor, Lee DuBridge said yesterday it may take some kind of new, unconventional "automotive propulsion device" for cars to solve the pollution problem before the turn of the century.

And, he said, the government plans to spend some money to help the auto industry to speed development.

DuBridge said there may be a lively race between companies trying to turn out an unconventional car engines and those seeking to improve the gasoline engine to the point pollution will be no great menace.

"We do not know," DuBridge told reporters, "how that race will turn out but we want to make sure it is a lively race and that the federal government stimulates private industry to encourage development along all these lines.

The Department of Transportation, DuBridge said, is spending $2.2 million in this field now, but hopes to double or triple that in the next year or two.

He said many private companies are putting up funds and with a little stimulation and federal insistence, he said, it is thought there will be rapid stimulation for turning out prototypes to do the job.

"We think," he said, "these will be developed by private industry because the opportunities of sales of automobiles is so enormous that there is great attractiveness in getting the best possible engine so they can keep ahead of the requirements for air pollution."

Opinions On Tam High To Be Reported

Public opinion about the Tamalpais High School District, sought in a survey of the community, teachers and students by Field Research of San Francisco, will be reported when the district board meets at 8 p.m. Sept. 8 in the Little Theater at Redwood High School.

The $18,500 survey was ordered after the district's third failure to pass a building bond issue. The board is urging the public to attend and hear the report, according to Administrative Assistant Edward J. Neumeier.

FLOATING INFERNO—Flames from a burning Gate 5 houseboat illuminate the Sausalito waterfront as firemen attempt to quell the blaze. Neighbors worked to tow the burning boat away from neighboring houseboats. The fire broke out about 9:45 p.m. and ended 45 minutes later with the houseboat sinking on the mudflats between Gate 5 and Strawberry Point. (Photo by Sandra Jahns)

Fire Destroys Gate 5 Houseboat

A spectacular fire swept through a Gate 5 houseboat last night, destroying it before it sank in the mudflats between Strawberry Point and Gate 5. No one was injured.

The blazing boat also damfore neighbors cut it loose and towed it away from the thickly populated area, Marin County Fire Chief Louis J. Bloom reported.

Bloom said the fire call came at 9:43 p.m. When the first unit arrived a few minutes later the houseboat already was being towed away.

$3,000 to the structure and $200

Neighbors told Bloom they heard a sound like someone blowing a horn, looked out and saw the houseboat afire. An explosion followed, he said.

The cause of the fire is being investigated.

Bloom said the boat was owned by John Steinert and Dennis Samson. Neither was at home at the time of the fire.

A boat owned by Eric Morris had 14 windows broken and the side was scorched — $400 damage. The boat on the other side, owned by Pat Petteruti, had $100 damage, Bloom reported.

Assisting the county fire department was the City of Sausalito and the Coast Guard. The Coast Guard was called in as the boat was being towed out but as two Coast Guard boats arrived, the houseboat burned to the water and sank.

Bloom said major assistance also came from neighbors.

The area is one which has worried county officials for some time, Bloom said. There are no hydrants and water has to be hauled in.

The fire followed by three days a statement on national television by John F. McInnis, chairman of the board of supervisors, on the health and safety problems of the houseboat colony.

They've never had a fire so they don't think there will be one, McInnis said.

Apartment Addition Unit Ordered Removed

A building addition under construction on a three-unit apartment at 20 Walnut Avenue should be removed, the Larkspur Planning Commission recommended last night.

The commission denied a use permit sought by Robert Busse for the addition and recommended the city council start abatement proceedings to have it removed.

According to a staff report, Busse has violated five city ordinances by failing to take out building, electrical, plumbing and heating permits and by failing to get the use permit before starting the addition.

The staff report also recommended denial of the use permit because the lot is below standard size for the existing three units, and because no additional parking is available.

The commission adjourned to Sept. 23, agreeing to omit the scheduled Sept. 9 meeting for lack of business, secretary Barbara Bruton reported.

Play At Church

The Black Arts Drama group production of "Soul Survival" will be presented Friday, Sunday and Monday nights at 8:30 p.m. in the St. Andrew United Presbyterian Church in Marin City rather than in the Manzanita as orginally scheduled, the group announced today.

Marin Republicans Name Two New Representatives

Two new district representatives were named to the Marin County Republican Central Committee last night, chairman Charles Michals reported.

Sterling Hilen of Novato was named fifth district representative to succeed J. Wallis Madocks, and Susan Schwab of San Rafael was named first district representative to succeed Morton R. Colvin. Both former members have moved from their districts.

The committee also appointed Beth Rowen of San Rafael chairman of the resolutions committee, repiacing Colvin, and announced she will head "Operation Research and Response," which will study state and national issues, bills, candidates and officials to provide information and expertise to the central committee, Michals said.

The committee passed a resolution opposing Assembly Bill 325 on conflict of interest, contending it goes too far, and sent a telegram to Gov. Ronald Reagan stating the committee's position.

The Marin County Republican Central Committee also:

FUND-RAISING — Announced a new finance program, "Operation Outrage," aimed at broadening the committee's support among the county's 45,000 Republicans, Michals said.

DINNER — Announced a "party-to-people" dinner will be held Oct. 28 at the Holiday Inn with guest speaker State Sen. George Dukmejian, R- Long Beach, the Senate majority leader.

Fourth Wife Sues Builder For Divorce

San Rafael builder Edward W. Burgar has been sued for divorce by his bride of nine months, his fourth wife.

Dolores J. Burgar, 40, for whom this was the third marriage, charged cruelty and asked $850 a month temporary support pending the settlement of the case.

According to a suit filed Monday in Marin Superior Court, the Burgars were married Nov. 27, 1968 and separated Monday. Their home is at 73 Corte Precita, Greenbrae.

In June, 1968, Burgar was divorced from his third wife, Betty, and she was awarded a house in Greenbrae, $20,000 cash, alimony of $1,000 a month and a promissory note for $122,250.

A previous wife, Edna G. Burgar, won an estimated $500,000 worth of property and cash in a divorce settlement approved in Superior Court in 1961.

Two Injured When Car Hits Railing

Two Torrance residents were injured yesterday at 5 p.m. when their car struck a concrete bridge railing on Highway 101 north of Washington Street, Petaluma.

The driver, Walter E. McGahuey, 34, was reported in good condition at Hillcrest Hospital with head cuts. His passenger, Betty Hanson, 40, was reported in good condition with chest injuries. The California Highway Patrol said the car drifted off the right side of the road striking a guardrail and then crossed the roadway, striking the bridge railing.

MEAT PIES shaped like turnovers are the traditional Welsh pasties. But this recipe adds a half cup wheat germ to the pastry and a bit also to the spicy meat filling.

Wheat Germ Goes Into Welsh Pasties

Pasties, actually meat pies shaped like turnovers, were first cooked up by the wives of Welsh coal miners for inclusion in dad's lunch pail. But now they are enjoyed universally.

You may like this recipe for pasties, particularly, because:

1. They can be made ahead of time, frozen and cooked just before serving.

2. They're great for youngsters, either at lunch or as the piece de resistance at a teen-age party.

3. Or, they can be nutritious, nicely spiced, hearty fare for the family at dinner, when served with a cole slaw or a tossed salad.

The meat filling and the wheat germ pastry are easy to make and economical. Pasties can be eaten with a fork, or out of hand. The recipe yields 12 to 14 pasties.

WHEAT GERM PASTIES
Meat Filling

½ cup chopped onion
1 small clove garlic, minced
2 tsp. cooking oil
1 cup (½ lb.) ground beef
1 cup (¼ lb.) finely chopped hard salami
2 tbsp. wheat germ
1 tbsp. unsifted flour
½ tsp. salt
½ tsp. oregano
⅛ tsp. pepper
½ cup water
⅛ cup catsup

Saute onion and garlic in oil until onion is tender. Add beef and salami. Cook over medium heat until beef is lightly browned. Stir in remaining ingredients. Simmer 15 minutes.

Wheat Germ Pastry

1¾ cups unsifted flour
½ cup wheat germ
3 tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. salt
½ cup shortening
¾ cup milk

Measure flour, wheat germ, baking powder and salt into mixing bowl; stir well to blend. Cut in shortening with pastry blender until mixture resembles coarse meal. Add milk. Stir with fork until all ingredients are moistened. Turn out onto lightly floured cloth-covered board. Knead gently 10 to 12 times. Roll dough to ⅛-inch thickness. Cut into 4½-inch circles. Place about 2 tablespoons of Meat Filling on lower half of each circle. Moisten edges. Fold over. Press edges with tines of fork to seal. Place on ungreased baking sheets. Bake at 400° for 12-15 minutes. Yield: 12-14 pasties.

FLANK STEAK with an Italian dressing marinade is complemented with a green salad, fresh fruit and cheese dessert. Tuck onions, carrots and mushrooms alongside the meat on the serving platter to complete the main dish.

It's Almost Time To Think About Filling Lunch Boxes

"School Days, School Days," are back again. The children are at school leaving mother time to do all those things she has planned all summer.

Along with all those projects, comes the task of providing nourishing lunch box meals for the youngsters. Mothers must make lunches that fit the tastes of each youngster while keeping variety and proper nutrition in each lunch.

Lunch should supply one-third of the daily nutritional requirements, and therefore should include servings from the four food groups: milk, vegetables and fruit, meat, and breads and cereals.

A typical lunch that will please youngsters while providing them with the foods they need is Swiss Cheese Spread on whole wheat bread, carrot sticks, an apple or orange or both, cookies and cold milk. At most schools, ice cold milk can be purchased under the special school milk program.

SWISS CHEESE SPREAD

2 cups Swiss Cheese (½ lb.), shredded
½ cup ripe or stuffed olives, chopped
½ teaspoon prepared mustard
¾ cup mayonnaise or yogurt

Combine ingredients; blend well. Makes 2 cups sandwich spread.

LUNCH BOX IDEAS

Home economists have come up with some ideas to help you make lunch-away-from-home as appetizing and appealing as possible.

Make homemade breads often and use in the lunch box menus. Find a recipe for a bread made with cottage cheese, it is sure to be moist and not to crumble.

Write your youngsters little notes and hide them among the lunch box packages.

When it gets cold, fill a thermos with the child's favorite hot cream soup. Include crackers or croutons to eat with the soup. Either send a spoon, or let the youngster drink the soup out of the thermos cup.

Butter both slices of sandwich bread completely to the edge. This moisture-proof sandwiches with a soft filling and gives additional moistness to sliced meat sandwiches.

Make a salad on a stick — place cherry tomatoes, celery slices, carrot slices, and cheese and bologna cubes on skewers or toothpicks. Wrap securely in a plastic wrap.

Make a dessert on a stick — place marshmallows, pineapple tidbits, mild cheese cubes, and prunes, dates, or dried apricots on skewers.

Obtain plastic containers that seal tightly and send pudding made with milk or canned fruit for dessert.

Add Butter

Celebrate Labor Day Weekend With Elegant Almond Tarts For Dessert

Nothing makes a menu say "party" like an elegant dessert. Almond Tarts with Fruit Sundae Sauce will conclude even the simplest of meals on a gala note. They are also splendid for dessert-and-coffee entertaining.

ALMOND TARTS WITH FRUIT SAUCE

1 cup blanched almonds
1 cup flaked coconut
¼ cup butter or margarine
¼ cup granulated sugar
1 pint vanilla ice cream
Fruit Sauce

Fruit Sauce

½ cup dates
½ teaspoon grated orange rind
½ cup orange juice
½ cup brown sugar, packed
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
3 tablespoons chopped maraschino cherries

Grind almonds medium-fine in food chopper and mix with coconut. Work in butter and sugar until crumbly. Cross 2 strips waxed paper in each of 6 or 7 greased shallow 3-inch custard cups, allowing paper to stick up over rims of cups. Press crumbly mixture firmly into bottoms and sides of cups. Bake at 375 degrees 10 to 12 minutes. Cool in cups. Loosen tart shells from cups and carefully lift out by paper tabs. Remove paper. Place scoop of ice cream in each shell. Top with spoonful warm Fruit Sauce.

Fruit Sauce: Cut dates into small pieces; combine with orange rind and juice, sugar and butter. Bring to boil, stirring until sugar is dissolved. Boil about 5 minutes, until thickened. Stir in cherries. Cool slightly.

Makes 6 or 7 tarts.

Dried Beef

Creamed dried beef, with toasted almond slivers on crisp waffles makes an unusually good luncheon dish—unless it is too salty. Saltiness can be corrected by stirring in a little sugar. Start with ⅓ teaspoon to 4 servings, and taste; add more sugar if necessary.

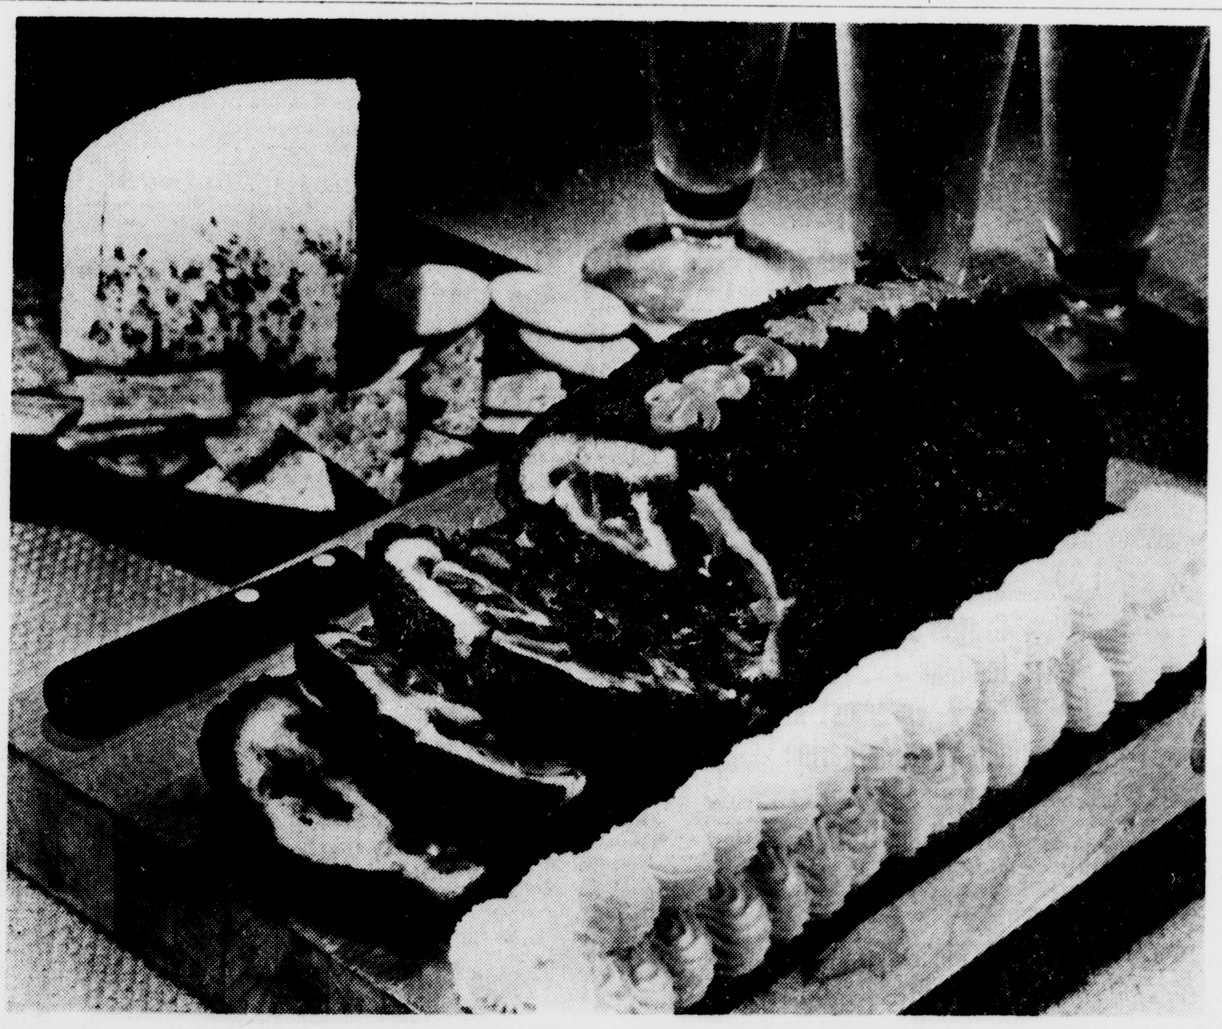
Flank Steak Tasty For Family Dinner

High in flavor, low in cost, beef dinner made with flank steak is a top favorite for family dining. The natural goodness of this flavorful meat is accented by a marinade of Italian dressing. Good with this, are mushrooms, onions and carrots. Add a tossed green salad, wine, and a dessert of fresh fruit and cheese, and you will have a satisfying balanced dinner.

Brush both sides of a two pound flank steak generously with Italian dressing. Let steak marinate in the refrigerator for several hours. Broil at high heat, 2 inches from the burner, allowing 5 to 7 minutes on each side. Carve on a board with a gravy well, or on a tray or deep platter. Slice thin diagonally against the grain. Serves 4 to 6.

Rotisserie

To speed browning when roasting meats in a rotisserie, add a teaspoon of sugar to the fat used for basting, during the last half hour of cooking.



Blue Cheese Combined In A Meatloaf

Combine the taste of beef with the salt-and-pepper flavor of blue cheese for a pleasing family or party entree.

Entrees, hors d'oeuvres, snacks, salads and main dishes are just a few ways the flavor combination may be served.

ROLLED STUFFED MEAT LOAF

2 pounds ground beef
2 cups soft bread cubes
½ cup milk
¼ cup minced onion
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
1 egg

Soak bread cubes in milk. Combine all ingredients and mix thoroughly.

Pat meat into an 8 x 14 rectangle on double sheet of foil.

Filling

½ cup minced celery
½ cup mushroom pieces
½ cup minced onion
½ cup butter
4 cup soft bread cubes
½ cup chopped parsley

Saute celery, mushrooms, onion in butter. Add rest of ingredients and mix well. Spread over meat mixture. Roll up in foil, securing well. Freeze. Bake at 450 degrees for one hour and 15 minutes. Open foil for last 15 minutes to brown. If not frozen, bake at 450 degrees for 44 minutes. Open foil last 15 minutes.

Thoughts On Loneliness, Love

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Loneliness and confusion about love account for many people's personality problems today, both as individuals and in groups, says Dr. Erika Chance.

In an interview at her home in Sausalito Dr. Chance, who holds a Ph.D. in psychology from Stanford University, discussed a variety of family situations.

An authority on child psychology and family relationships and a specialist in group psychotherapy, she is an associate clinical professor in the department of psychiatry in the California Medical School. She is also a consultant to the San Francisco school system and previously was a consultant for psychologists in the San Rafael schools.

"I AM CONSTANTLY impressed with the extent to which the family keeps coming into the problems of individuals," says the Vienna-born psychologist, adding that she is not "a red-hot Freudian."

"I feel it is important for each individual to work out what the important relationships are with family members and other important people in his life.

"In marriage people think love will make everything all right, but they haven't thought through what love is. Parents constantly look for some way of manupulating the kids, and this is why so many cry 'phony!' It isn't love. It's manipulation. On the other hand, the kids under-estimate how hard parents are trying to do what is right. They keep looking for gimmicks."

Part of the difficulty for parents, she explains, is that they are afraid to look into themselves. They can't love themselves, and it is very hard to love other people if they don't like themselves. They are also very unsure of themselves.

"VALUES HAVE changed so much that they find it difficult to know what they really believe from what they have read in newspapers or books," she says.

"If they know what they believe, even if it is against what the children believe, they will have something to offer."

A large part of the youth rebellion is just "Take notice!" she maintains.

Dr. Chance believes that loneliness is at the bottom of many of the problems experienced by both adults and children. The reasons for this, she says, include the looser organization and mobility of families, breakdown of marriage, impersonality of communities and decreasing importance of the church.

"PEOPLE PLACE so much importance on 'am I well liked?' when the really important thing is that they must first be able to like themselves," she stresses.

In their efforts to know themselves and escape loneliness many people are joining groups established for this purpose.

As a specialist in group psychotherapy Dr. Chance approves of this approach, but she has some very strong reservations about certain kinds of groups.

"The group approach is less expensive than the individual," she says, "but I'm not in favor of it for this reason, but because one of its great advantages is that the person is less lonely and feels less isolated in a group. He is less dependent on the therapist, and it is often easier for him to accept suggestions from his peers than from an expert.

"THE BIG QUESTION is how well is the group selected and conducted. It is very important that each person be interviewed first, and sufficient time must be allowed.

"There are strong differences between group psychotherapy and sensitivity training," Dr. Chance emphasizes. "One of the major differences is that in group therapy you have someone who is responsible — a professional person adequately trained. If he doesn't do the job right, he can be blamed. There is a professional contract for care of a person by that or other techniques.

"IN SENSITIVITY training there is neither a therapist nor a patient and no clear contract as to who is responsible, it seems to me."

"Many troubled people are intrigued by the help that sensitivity training promises. They think they will be less lonely if they take it, but there is not necessarily any attempt by the leaders to select and evaluate who is in these groups nor who takes responsibility for what happens to the people afterward.

"It attracts so many weak or disturbed people, giving them the illusion that it is just a matter of using the right techniques and that they don't have to look for the real trouble within themselves. So-called frank criticism by group members in meetings can be nothing more than hostility practice sessions, and this can mean disaster for the individual with inferiority feelings.

"Anyone thinking of going into such a group," Dr. Chance recommends, "should first decide how seriously he wants to work on himself. He should not go anywhere where he is not seen individually first before going into a treatment group.

"THE BEST procedure when looking into any psychological service would be to make a contract for two or three individual appointments with a professionally qualified person," she urges, "who is then in a position to recommend whatever kind of service is best for the individual and his problems."

The psychologist says she decided on the general direction of her career when at the age of 13 in Vienna she helped with the psychological testing of some babies. She is the only member of her family not a physician. Her father was a professor of medicine; her mother is in general practice in San Francisco, and she has two brothers who are doctors.

Dr. Chance, who talks softly with a slight accent, went on to describe her background.

"I call myself a professional sandwich," she says, "because my B.A. honors degree from University College in London and my Ph.D. from Stanford University are both in psychology. In between I received a degree in psychiatric social work from the University of London.

"I came to the United States in 1949 to New York, where I worked as a group psychotherapist in the Child Guidance Institute under Sam Slavson, who is considered the father of the group psychotherapy technique.

"AFTER RECEIVING my Ph.D. I was a research director for a child guidance clinic in Philadelphia. Then I came back in 1956 to the Bay Area as research associate at Mt. Zion Hospital in San Francisco. I did this full time until 1962 and am still a member of its attending staff.

"In 1959 my book "Families in Treatment" was published, and while studying families in a child guidance clinic, I became interested in how the staff saw their patients, and this is what brought me to the teaching of clinicians."

Dr. Chance has been teaching full time since 1962. She also has a private practice in San Francisco and holds seminars at her home for colleagues. One interesting part of her work is with the social worker in charge of a marriage conciliation court in the Bay Area.

Her hobbies are music, swimming, walking and languages. In addition to English she speaks French, German and some Italian.

A Tea And Swim Party Next For Debutantes

By MOLLY MARIN

Although the Marin Ball debutantes are returning today after their charter flight to Beverly Hills for the party given last night by the Dewey Donnells at the Beverly Hills Hotel, things are by no means over. Mrs. Jordan L. Martinelli will be the hostess tomorrow afternoon for a tea honoring her deb granddaughter, Louisa Martinelli, at the former's home in San Rafael. Both the Marin debs and San Francisco debs have been invited with their mothers, as Wiki Martinelli will make her debut both at the Marin Ball and the Cotillion in December.

Mrs. Martinelli has asked Wiki's other grandmother, Mrs. Reginald D. Jenkins of San Francisco, and her aunt, Mrs. William J. P. Jackson of San Mateo, to pour tea. And assisting with the receiving of guests will be Mmes. Leon Smith, Thomas Kent, Fred Herrington, Wallace Scott, Kenneth Lowe, Russell Smith, John Kirkpatrick, Charles Pollock, William Haney, Roderic Martinelli, Charles Tuttle and Frank Baumgarten.

In the receiving line to greet their guests with Wiki will be her mother, Mrs. Jordan Martinelli Jr. of Ross, and the hostess. Guests have been invited from Marin, Sonoma, San Francisco, the East Bay and Woodland for the 4 o'clock tea.

THE MILL VALLEY Tennis Club will be the scene of an informal swimming, barbecue and dancing party Saturday for the Marin debs and their dates given by the parents of Phila Cousins and Debbie Bleicher.

Phila is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan R. Cousins Jr. of Sausalito, and Debbie's parents are Capt. and Mrs. A. L. Bleicher of Mill Valley.

The party will begin at 6:30 p.m. and continue through the evening with dancing to music provided by a Mill Valley band.

PRESS GUIDE IS AVAILABLE

A new guide for press chairmen of organizations which are interested in getting news to the Marin Women's Section of the Independent-Journal is now available at the San Rafael main office and the Novato, Mill Valley and Southern Sonoma I-J offices.

The booklet, "Getting News Into Your Newspaper," is issued as a service of the Independent-Journal Women's Section to assist press chairmen for women's organizations.

Why High Cost Of Eating Wrecks Their Food Budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — The cost of getting food from the farmer to the housewife has soared 160 per cent in two decades and now consumes two-thirds of America's grocery bill. The House Agriculture Committee cites these figures:

Twenty years ago, when Americans spent $45 billion a year for food, the farmer got about $20 billion and the middlemen $25 billion. Today, when the nation's annual food bill is about $90 billion, the farmer gets about $30 billion and the middlemen about $60 billion.

The recent upward trend—the Labor Department reported Friday that the cost of living advanced again in July and is going up at the fastest rate in 18 years—has been so steep that in some areas housewives are talking of boycotts in an attempt to bring down the cost of food.

" MY FOOD BILL averaged $135 a month in 1964 and the same stuff would cost me about $275 monthly in 1969. That hurts," said Mrs. Jan Stophlett, who is leading a protest movement in Cocoa Beach, Fla.

Similar complaints are being sounded elsewhere.

"We're supposed to be on a budget, but the money never lasts as long as it's supposed to," said Mrs. Judy Sidman, a Natick, Mass., mother of two.

"It's the prices of things like bread and milk that hurt, not the luxuries because we just don't buy that many luxuries."

The widening farm-to-consumer gap is clear in a comparison of Agriculture Department statistics showing what happened to the money a housewife paid for a loaf of bread 20 years ago and what happens to it today.

In 1949, the average price of a one-pound loaf of white bread was 13.5 cents. Today, the same loaf costs 22.9 cents.

In 1949, the retailer's slice of the bread price was 2.2 cents. Today it is 5 cents.

In 1949, the baker and wholesaler—the key middlemen—got 6.3 cents. Today they get 12.2 cents.

In 1949, 1.7 cents of the retail price went for milling, grain handling and transportation. Today the figure is 2.4 cents.

In 1949, the farmer received 3.3 cents for his wheat and other ingredients—such as lard, sugar and dried milk—that went into the loaf of bread. Today he gets the same 3.3 cents.

The staff of the House Agriculture Committee, in a report this year, pointed directly at the middlemen in discussing the reasons for rising prices.

"PROCESSORS AND marketing agencies—the middleman between farmers and consumers—experiencing higher costs, have been successful in adding greatly increased charges to farmers' products before they reach the consumer," the report said.

"It's inflation—pure and simple," said Clarence Adamy, president of the National Association of Food Chains.

Parent Cruelties To Children May Be Stopped With Legal Aid

Dear Helen:

I want to keep my brothers and sisters from the misery I had when I was home, but how? I've talked to the welfare people and they don't seem concerned. I guess a child has to be so battered he shows up in the hospital before they take action.

What happened to me is happening all over again with the younger kids. My brother called me (long distance, reverse charges) at 5 a.m. (so Mother wouldn't hear). He says the kids aren't allowed outside except to do the shopping she won't do. They have bruises all over where she hits them. She beats on Dad who just stands there and takes it, and the language she screams out is vile. He says she's sick and can't help it, but he could help his children — if he would!

Here are some of the things I took before I ran away for the last time at age 16: (Luckily I found a wonderful man and, at 20, I have a nice home and two children.)

I was beaten with a heavy piece of firewood for such little things as not getting home from the grocery store in 15 minutes. She never goes outside the house so the kids run all the errands.

Several times she tried to choke me. She has thrown me to the floor and kicked me. All the while my father stayed in the other room, mainly because she was so jealous of him that she accused him of incest if he took up for me. She wouldn't even let him look at me or be in the same room.

The first time I ran away I stayed with my beloved grandparents, but she threatened them with the law and made me come home. Then she took away all my bedclothes, even coats and robes, and made me stay in my room for two months, coming out only for school and food. It was November and very cold.

These are only a few of her actions. The one time Dad tried to arrange psychiatric help for her, she went wild and said if he ever tried that again she'd do something terrible to us kids. We lived in even more fear after that.

With Dad petrified of her, there's no one who can make the welfare people understand. My brothers and sisters are in danger: They're aged 9, 10, 12 and 13. If my husband and I took them away, she'd get them back, and make life Hell for all of us. She puts on a good show for the authorities.

What can we do? — FEARFUL SISTER

DEAR SISTER :

Consult a lawyer or your district attorney. Your father must be told that he is as guilty as your mother if he allows these cruelties. If he still refuses to ask help for his children — and his wife —then I believe you and your husband, with legal aid and neighbors' testimony, can make a case strong ecough to save your brothers and sisters. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

You asked for letters from happily married men, telling how it happened. Here's my formula:

1. Get up before her occasionally, and make breakfast for her. (Thanks for the many meals she prepares for you.)

2. When the kids aren't in school, surprise her at times by not waking her at all, but getting yourself off to work. (Thanks for the many sleepless nights she spent nursing you and the children through illnesses.)

3. Never forget her special days — anniversaries, Valentines Day, etc.

4. Do one of her jobs, like throwing a load into the washer or a professional kitchen waxing job. (Thanks for her uncomplaining performance of many dull tasks.)

5. Our nightcap is a cup of tea which I prepare and serve just before bedtime. (This ends her day by having something done for her, not by her.)

I believe the words of the song, "Try a Little Tenderness" should be the anthem of all married men. While marriage should be 50-50, try to give 70 and you'll find her doing the same! — HAPPY FATHER OF THREE TEEN-AGERS

DEAR HAPPY:

Congratulations on your 140-proof marriage! Your wife is a lucky gal — who I'm sure, deserves her luck. —H.

Food Prices Soar To The Benefits Of The Middleman

rising cost—labor costs up more than 100 per cent in 20 years, costs of containers and packaging material up 40 per cent, overhead cost such as went up 96 per cent.

HOUSEWIVES, THEY add, also are demanding foods that require more and more processing—canned chocolate pudding, for example, or frozen three-course dinners.

A commission set up by former President Johnson to study food marketing costs, however, was critical of "the substantial costs built into the price of food as a result of various forms of selling effort—advertising, sales promotion, expensive packaging, salesmen."

These costs, the commission concluded, "are an important form of inefficiency in the food industry." For example, the farmer gets 4.3 cents for the ingredients in a 41-cent box of cereal. The remaining "marketing margin" is distributed this way:

23 per cent went for labor,

22 per cent for advertising and promotion,

15 per cent for profits before income tax,

13 per cent for containers and supplies,

12 per cent for administrative and otherncosts,

10 per cent for buildings and equipment, and,

5 per cent for transportation.

S. KENT CHRISTENSEN, an economist for the food chain association, said supermarket chain industry profits have dwindled steadily, dropping from 1.41 cents per dollar of sales in 1964 to .99 of a cent last year. He cited these figures from an industry-financed study by Cornell University—a study which also disclosed that the average supermarket's annual sales have climbed for 12 consecutive years and now stand at $1.679,000.

Viewed another way, food chains had after-tax profits last year of 9.18 per cent of their net worth, the Cornell study said. The Agriculture Department, however, places the figure for 58 large chains at 11.5 per cent of net worth, up slightly from the previous year.

THE DEPARTMENT also listed profits for 149 food manufacturers at $1.1 billion last year, up 2.4 per cent from 1967. It said 14 baking firms had profits of $78.7 million, 13.7 per cent of net worth; 12 dairy product manufacturers $227.5 million, 11.4 per cent of net worth; and 34 meatpacking firms, $105 million, 8.2 per cent of net worth.

The increase in food manufacturers' profits "was due mostly to a strong rise in sales volume rather than an improvement in profit margins," department economists concluded.

Middlemen, added Christensen, "have not passed along their costs in the form of price increases as fast as they occur." But farmers who look at the middlemen's profit levels believe they have been left behind.

"Do you know that 100 years ago, on Aug. 1, 1869, wheat was selling for $1.10 a bushel? That's more than we're getting now," grumbled wheat farmer Harold Tonn of Haven, Kan.

Tonn was referring to the cash price for wheat, which dipped below $1 a bushel in Kansas during this summer's harvest. Actually, counting government support payments and subsidies, the farmer in Kansas averages $1.55 a bushel.

FARMERS LIKE Joe Stucky of Pretty Prairie, Kan., points out that the typical American family spends less than 17 per cent of its take-home pay on food, compared with 20 per cent in 1960 and 22 per cent in 1940.

There's a widely held belief among farmers that consumers should be paying more for their groceries.

"I think they should," said John Wagner, a Dane County, Wis., dairy farmer. "Compared with other countries they're living cheap—they're making high enough incomes to afford paying more for food."

HOUSEWIVES, OF course, don't agree.

"I used to buy steak frequently," said Mrs. Irene Berlin of Wilmette, Ill., "but now I have to settle for ground beef—which isn't cheap for a large family."

It's the recent upward surge in beef prices that has brought talk of housewife boycotts.

On Long Island, housewives staged a protest rally with chants like "Let the meat rot," and "Prices too high, we won't buy."

And in Florida, Mrs. Grover Morgan formed a boycott group, saying, "I've decided to grab the bull by the horns and fight the price of beef."

Leo Kaufman, manager of a Miami meatpacking firm, countered: "Nobody ever hears a word when prices sink. Then let 'em rise, and they scream."

BEEF PRICES shot up this spring and summer, analysts said, because production hadn't kept pace with America's awesome craving for beef — per capita consumption has nearly doubled since World War II to 110 pounds a year.

Cattlemen had been keeping the size of their herds in check, remembering past money-losing periods of overproduction. But now, spurred by higher prices, they are moving cautiously to enlarge their herds.

As more and more cattle reach market this fall, the slaughter price of choice beef is expected to drop. But industry officials predict that the wholesale and retail markups will be widened when live cattle prices drop. The net result for the housewife: Retail beef prices will stay about the same as now, or even climb higher.

"I don't think anybody in this country can expect to see $1 round steak again, and certainly not less than about $1.39 for sirloin," said Lyle Liggett of the National Independent Meat Packers Association.

IN ITS LAST quarterly report, the Agriculture Department said the farmer's share of the price paid for a pound of choice beef was 65 per cent. The wholesaler's share was 10 per cent and the retailer's share 25 per cent.

This summer, the average price nationwide for sirloin steak was $1.49 a pound—up 20 cents from six months earlier.

Grocers are just as unhappy as housewives.

From behind the counter of his Hutchinson, Kan., store, Gene Fitzgerald said, "These have been the most unprofitable six months I've ever seen in the meat business."

His costs for a side of beef have increased 25 per cent in a year, he said, but the price he collects from the housewife hasn't gone up as much.

About the only ones happy about rising meat prices are cattlemen.

Mrs. Douglas Scott is chairman.

THE COTATI Women's Club has scheduled its annual potluck luncheon for Sept. 3. Mrs. Carl Webber will be the hostess at her home in Cotati.

Child Health Unit Appoints Advisors

"Many of the ills of society, including alcoholism, drug abuse, child neglect, and the increasing number of unwed mothers stem from basic emotional needs. In children emotional disturbances often lead to behavioral problems, emotional blocks to learning, disabling tensions and inability to get along with others."

So says Mrs. Malcolm H. Finley of San Rafael, chairman of the Children's Emotional Health committee of the California Parent-Teacher Association, state branch of the National P-TA continuing project whose aim is prevention of children's emotional disturbances.

Mrs. Finley announces the following people, representatives of professional organizations and those especially trained in related fields, have consented to serve as an advisory board for the committee: Herbert Bauer, M.D., Yolo County Mental Health Director; William B. Beach, M.D., State Department of Mental Hygiene; Dr. Eli M. Bower, University of California, School of Education; Allen F. Breed, State Department of Youth Authority; Martin A. Cabalzar, County School Superintendents Association; F. J. Clark, Association of Classroom Teachers; Leonard J. Dalton, Home Health and Counseling Services, Inc.; Dale C. Garell, M.D., Children's Hospital of Los Angeles; Miss Margaret Helton, California School Nurses; Stewart Herriott, California Teachers Association; Theodore A. Montgomery, M.D., State Department of Public Health; Stanley Sworder, State Department of Education, and Wallace C. Young, California Association for Mental Health.

This advisory board will assist the committee in providing essential training and supportive services for P-TA councils and units.

The role of the local P-TA is to increase parents' and teachers' understanding of the importance of the family and the school in safeguarding mental health, and to initiate, cooperate with, and participate in any kind of community action necessary to secure, expand, or improve community mental health resources.

The committee will meet Sept. 9 at Sheraton Palace Hotel, San Francisco. It is now conducting a state-wide survey of mental health facilities and services available and local activities now under way.

ARTS FESTIVAL

Even Lying Down Is Going Euphoric

Bob Ellison yearns to be the total artist, to touch all senses with light, sound sensation, pushing the outside viewer into participation in the art.

Ellison is head gardener of the Garden of Delights, a light show troupe which has glowed at the great rock palaces in San Francisco.

The Garden of Delights will connect with Inner Space Environments and its water bed to create the most total sensation that ingenuity, electricity and carpentry can devise.

Inner Space Environments is made up of Charles Hall and Bruce Harlow, both of Sausalito, who are promoting the water bed that Hall invented. A definition of a water bed, in a welter of euphoric names and artistic nomenclature is directly simple: it's a strong vinyl mattress filled with water.

Put it in a plain frame to keep the water mattress from too much slithering, lie on it and feel the relaxation which can be compared to nothing less than weightlessness.

Twitch a toe. The bed undulates, gurgling pleasantly beneath you as waves run through it and under you.

The combination of talents encompassed in the two otherworldly named operations will result in something approximately like this at the Festival: A few participants at a time enter a darkened room, recline or sit on the gently rolling water bed.

Surrounding them will be depthless waving lights, sometimes moving over persons on the water bed, sometimes on the mobile suspended overhead. Sound will surround the room.

Ellison, now living in a truck in Sausalito, says he visualizes it as "an integrated event so no one does his thing at the expense of someone else. It's based on the structure of a balloon that expands evenly."

At this stage, ideas are still as unstable as the water bed, with ideas popping from the heads of Inner Space and the Gardens. No one has yet mentioned the possibility of some fragrance to further the sense involvement.

What has this got to do with an arts festival, not noted for its gravity, but still traditionally devoted to painting, sculpture, ceramics, wood, leather, photography, weaving and jewelry? None of the artists who have tried the water bed has yet asked "but is it art?"

This environment and another depicting not the enjoyment of the senses but the daily assaults upon them, a tunnel devoted to the smell of herbs and contemplation, plus more traditional arts will be open to the senses from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. during the three-day Labor Day holiday at the arts center on Nevada Street, just off Bridgeway on the north side of Sausalito.

Aretha Franklin Cancels Bookings

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Singer Aretha Franklin, the "queen of soul," has canceled the rest of her bookings for 1969 on the advice of her doctor.

A spokesman for Miss Franklin, 27, said she was suffering from the effects of overwork and needed a rest.

Judy Garland Died In Debt

LONDON (UPI)—Judy Garland was $1 million in debt when she died June 22, her fifth husband said today.

Mickey Deans, who married Miss Garland in London last March, said his wife earned $10.8 million in her lifetime. He said she owed half the debt to the U.S. Internal Revenue Service.

"She should have been a millionairess," Deans said. "But there was no estate. Too many sharks in the business used her as a pawn to their own ends."

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—No sooner did Patrolman Charles Burgoon retire from the police force, than his son Joseph joined up.

Shirley Temple To U.N. Post?

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Richard M. Nixon is expected to name former child actress Shirley Temple Black as the next U.S. ambassador to the United Nations Educational Scientific and Cultural Organization, the Washington Post reported today.

It was reported that Clare Boothe Duce, former ambassador to Italy and widow of publisher Henry Luce, was offered the Paris post but suddenly decided against it.

Mrs. Black was an unsuccessful Republican candidate for Congress last year in California.

Youth Commission Screen Panel Named

A five-member committee to screen candidates for the Marin County Youth Commission was appointed yesterday by the Marin County Board of supervisors.

Supervisors asked that the committee propose three candidates in each of the county's five supervisorial districts.

The screening committee members were suggested by Chris Harris, summer coordinator for the commission. Listed by supervisorial district, they are:

FIRST DISTRICT — John Oliver, 40 Marine Drive, San Rafael, a teacher and former Peace Corps volunteer.

SECOND DISTRICT — Guy Bachelis, 79 San Rafael Avenue, San Anselmo, a director of Switchboard of Marin and a member of the Juvenile Delinquency Prevention Commission.

THIRD DISTRICT — Horace White, 59 Cole Drive, Marin City, a youth worker with the Marin County Human Rights Commission.

FOURTH DISTRICT — Rev. John J. O'Connor, 29 Paloma Drive, Corte Madera, director of the Catholic Social Services Agency and member of the Governor's Youth Conference Committee.

San Anselmo's Robson Park Denied To Art Foundation

Use of Robson Memorial Park as headquarters for Atheneum Arts Foundation was unanimously denied last night by the San Anselmo City Council. (Another San Anselmo City Council story, page 1).

The action was based on an opinion of City Atty. John G. Buresh who said the request could not be legally granted without subjecting the city to liability.

Buresh said a dedicated park is "for the use of all people" and no part of it may be set aside for use of any particular persons or class of persons."

He said that any breach of the park use as spelled out by agreement and court order could result in a reversion of the lands to the Robson Estate.

The San Anselmo City Council Also:

BATHROOMS — Continued to their next regular meeting at 8 p.m., Sept. 16, discussion of two proposed bathrooms at Robson Memorial Park.

TOT LOT — Approved phase A of the tot lot in Memorial Park. Mayor Woodrow Capurro said the plan includes two ground circles with sprinklers for children to play in but no wading pool. Total cost is $2,200.

REZONING — Voted to rezone lots at 58 and 72 Magnolia Avenue, owned by Sidney Alexander and Edward Wicander, from single family to multiple use for housing for senior citizens. Conditions attached are that the lots be combined as one, with a third lot at 37 Magnolia Avenue; that Magnolia Avenue be considered the frontage road, and that seven-and-one-half feet of setback be added to the normal setback on Magnolia.

CREEKSIDE PARKING—Approved the preliminary plan of the creekside parking lot at the Hub with 49 parking spaces and landscaping.

DRAINAGE WORK — Agreed to retain Hoffman and Albritton, engineers, to prepare plans for Melville and Austin avenues storm drains and for Holstein Road street work at a total cost of $17,890. The council also voted to call for bids on the projects with the Holstein Road project to be an alternate.

HUMAN RIGHTS — Heard an invitation from Capurro that anyone who is interested in serving on the human right commission mini board should write to the council and arrangements will be made for an interview with the council. The miniboard is now two persons short of its seven-man complement, since Richard Kientz and Dr. Festus Adebonojo have resigned.

POLICE OFFICERS — Agreed to hire two new police officers, John W. Tegtmeyer, to start Sept. 1, and Joseph R. Mendez, to start Sept. 16, both men to receive $693 monthly.

STREET OPENINGS—Agreed to discuss at its next meeting on Sept. 16 the present right of utility companies to open up streets at will for maintenance or new installations.

PUBLICITY — Adopted an ordinance to allow the San Anselmo Chamber of Commerce to do advertising and publicity on behalf of San Anselmo. Councilman James E. Reed abstaining.

BACK HOE LOADER—Granted permission to advertise for bids for a new back hoe loader, approved in the 1969-70 budget at $14,000.

UNDERGROUNDING — Set 8 p.m., Oct. 14 for a public hearing to discuss undergrounding utilities at the Hub.

CREEK WALK — Set 10 a.m., Sept. 7 as the date to walk the San Anselmo Creek to check for violations on creek property.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned to 8 p.m., Sept. 4, to discuss waste disposal problems created by the backyard burning ban.

$6 Million Suit In Heart Case

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A widow's $6 million suit contends her husband died because of the deterioration of an artificial aortic valve placed in his heart.

The suit was filed in Superior Court yesterday for Mrs. Osiride Kliegl and her three children, Linda, 19; Randy, 16; and Kevin, 12.

Defendants are American Hospital Supply Corp., Edwards Laboratories and Dow-Corning Corp., the valve's manufacturers and suppliers.

The suit says Harold Kliegl, 45, who died Dec. 1, suffered from a rheumatic heart disease and that the operation was performed at Veterans Hospital in Los Angeles. He had been a butcher and a former Marine.

Mrs. Kliegl contends it had been claimed the valve "would last for at least 41 years without wear or fatigue."

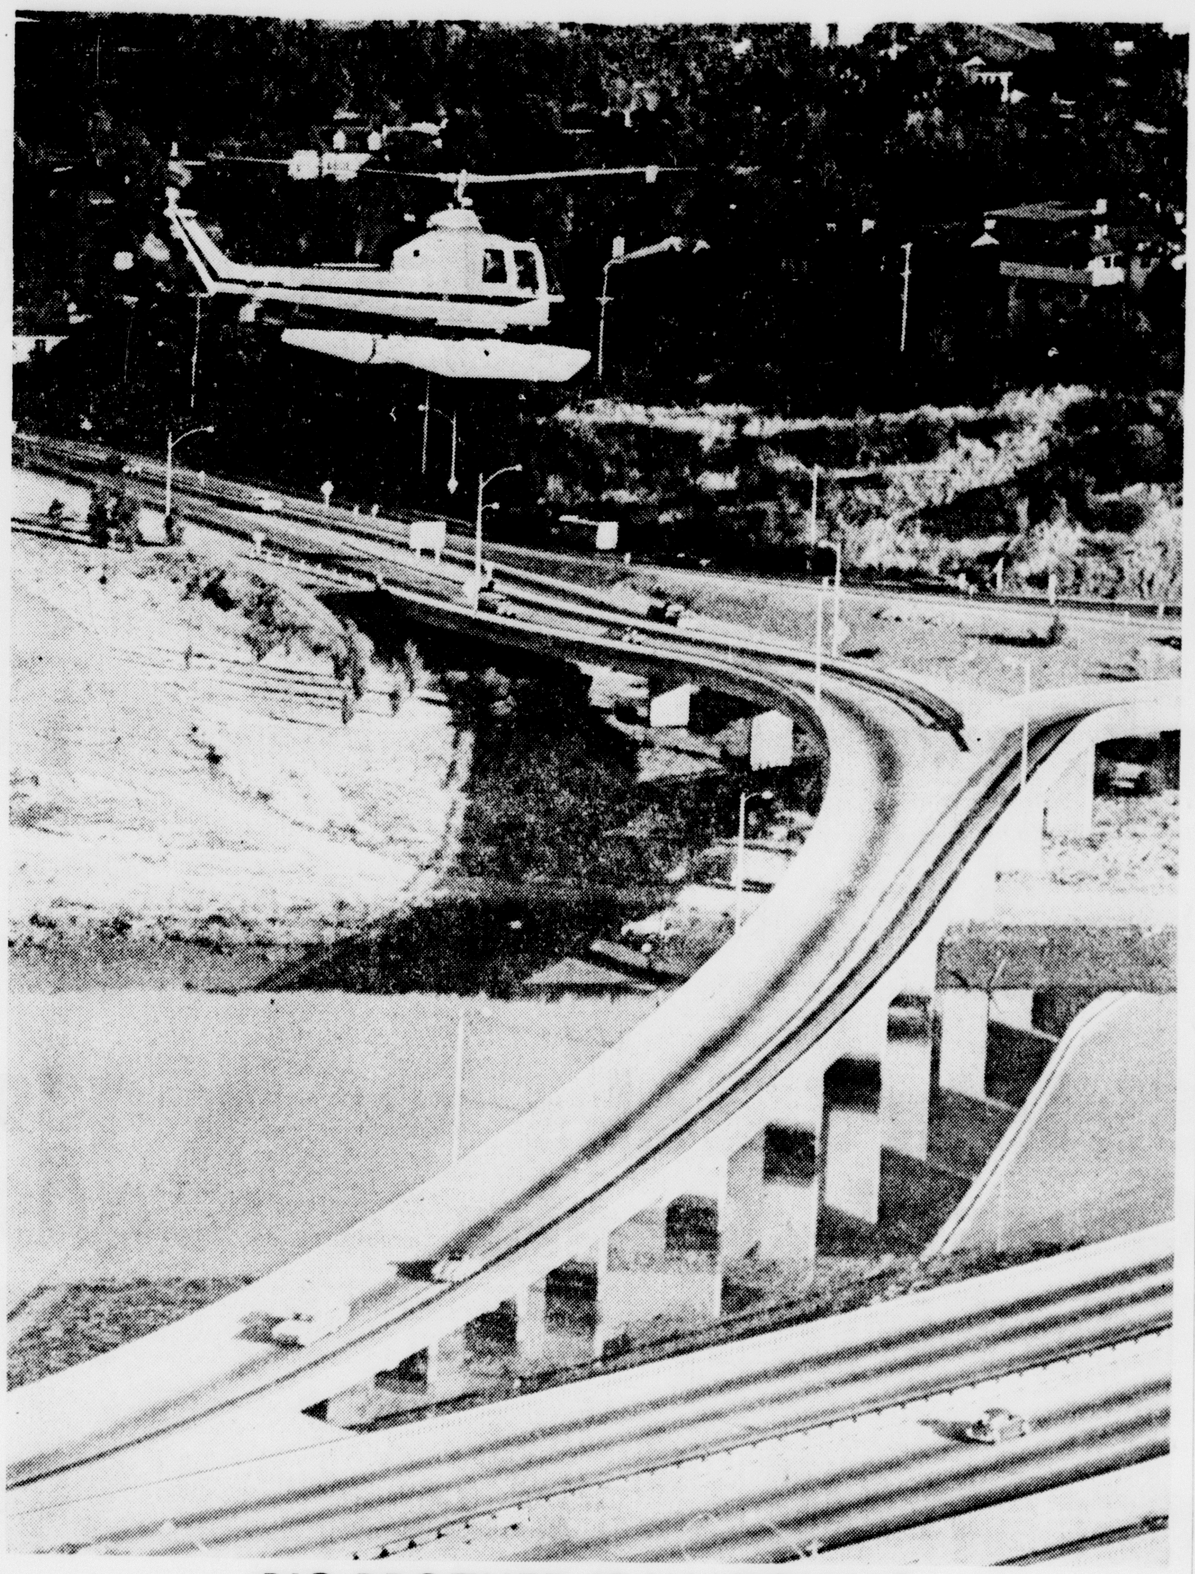
SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

THIRD SECTION — SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 27, 1969 — 23



BIG BROTHER IS WATCHING

Newest addition to Marin skies, a blue and gold California Highway Patrol helicopter, hovers over Sir Francis Drake Boulevard at the Greenbrae interchange watching for potential traffic situations. The chopper, which went into service Monday on a year long experiment, will be used for traffic surveillance, service to motorists and law enforcement, the patrol said. (Independent-Journal photo by Bob Hax)

Gate Bridge Role Measure Is Signed

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District has two years to prepare a study on what it should do when it gets out of debt.

Gov. Ronald Reagan has signed into law a bill by Assemblyman John F. Foran, D-San Francisco, which directs the district to study its role after it pays off its bonds in 1971.

The law requires the district to hold public hearings as it studies alternate means of moving people and vehicles between San Francisco and Marin County.

Also, the district "may study, construct, acquire, improve, maintain and operate any and all modes of transportation within the district" but it may not until late in 1971 start any action designed to add a second deck to the bridge.

The law speaks specifically of water transportation by allowing the district to use up to 30 per cent of its net revenue for the next two years "for water transportation services."

Dixie School District Board Chops Pupil Bus Service

Bus service for 60 to 80 pupils in the Nova Albion Way and Lea Drive areas to Don Timoteo and Nova Albion schools will be eliminated late this fall, Dixie School District trustees agreed last night.

Asst. Supt. Joseph B. Goff reported that a 1960 board policy limited bus service to pupils living more than one mile from school, if they are in kindergarten through second grade, and to more than two miles if they are in third through eighth grades.

The special bus service from these two areas was authorized several years ago by the trustees, pending completion of sidewalks to the schools. The work is expected to be completed in October, Goff said.

The only pupils living more than one mile from Don Timoteo School are those in the upper Butternut Drive area, Goff reported. No Nova Albion School pupils will get bus service after the sidewalk project is completed, he said.

In other business, trustees agreed to set up a citizens' advisory group to assess the district's future building program, and asked Goff to propose candidates for the group at the board's Sept. 9 meeting.

But a proposal that an advisory group be formed to review instructional goals was referred back to the staff for more detail on how such a group would work.

Trustees also approved a request by Lucas Valley School Principal William Van Winkle that he be allowed to organize team teaching to avoid the necessity of combining pupils from more than one grade in any single class.

Resignations were accepted from Ronald Davis and Mrs. Roberta Williamson, teachers at Mary Silveira School, from Bernard Hoffman School teacher Neil Fitzpatrick, and from Miller Creek School teacher Gay Guthrie. Trustees hired four teachers: Harland Bartholomew, at $8,140 a year; Mrs. Mary Brenner, at $8,650 a year; James Licklider, at $10,690, and Ronald Weiss, at $8,650. Mrs. Annette Gaskin was hired as a librarian at $7,930 a year.

Trustees also accepted $3,000 in damages from W. H. Chapman, contractor on the AK View School project, for failing to complete the project within the time in the contract.

Subdivision Map Advances

The four hillside lots would have frontages of 90 feet. Nielsen said the anticipated construction of home above average in cost.

The commission, reviewing a referral from the Sonoma County Planning Commission, recommended denial of the use permit application of Elmer Cornelius for a mobile home at 504 Railroad Avenue. The commission said that one mobile home is already at the location and that another would not benefit the area.

SAUSALITO INTEGRATION

Drop In Student Count Continues

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

(Third of five articles.)

While most school districts in California wrestle with problems of growth, the Sausalito district is plagued with a declining school population.

The decline was sharpest during the period when population of Marin City was reduced by removal of wartime housing in preparation for redevelopment. But it has continued each year, with a single exception. There was a very slight rise in enrollment in the 1965-66 school year — the first for the district's integration plan.

The 1960 census showed 2,519 residents in Marin City, in 815 households. A Marin County Housing Authority report in 1964 showed only 449 households, indicating a reduction of nearly half. During the interim, average daily attendance in Sausalito schools declined from 1,245 in 1959-60 to 931 in 1964-65, despite a slow growth of population in Sausalito itself.

The attendance recovered slightly to an average of 934 in 1965-66. Since then, the decline has continued: 885 in 1966-67, then 860 in 1967-68, and 820 last school year. During the last five years, Sausalito population has grown and that of Marin City and the forts has changed little.

Wilson C. Riles, director of the California Department of Education's Commission on Equal Opportunities, commented in a pessimistic 1964 report on the possibilities of integrating the district: "There are an unusual number of youngsters in this district going to private schools. I am not going to say they are going there because they are unhappy with Richardson Bay, because I have no way of determining this. It may be they just like private schools."

There are many requests for transfer from Sausalito schools to other public schools, besides those children sent to private schools. Applications for transfer by inter-district agreement come from both white and black parents. Sausalito school officials, concerned over this trend, discourage such transfers. Except in cases covered by the exchange agreement between Sausalito and Mill Valley school districts, most of them are denied. Reasons for the requests seldom come to light, since the Sausalito board's practice is to consider them behind closed doors.

The decline in school population has been accompanied by considerable increase in costs. In 1959-60, the Sausalito School District's budget was $559,140. Last year, it was $1,476,217. It has been reduced slightly for this year, to $1,469,959.

Virtually all school budgets have escalated sharply during the decade. It is in cost per pupil that Sausalito's has outstripped others in the area.

The cost for each of the 1,245 pupils in average daily attendance in Sausalito schools in 1959-60 was $481. That for each of the 820 in average daily attendance last year was $1,800.

By way of comparison, cost per pupil in neighboring Reed School District (which has introduced many rather expensive innovations) during the same period rose from $468 to $1,019. In more conservative Fairfax School District (with school population now not quite equal to Sausalito's in 1959-60), it rose from $414 to $794. Kentfield School District spend $482 per pupil in 1959-60 — almost exactly the same amount as Sausalito. Last year its per-pupil cost was $963.

Integration increased the Sausalito school budget from $786,000 in 1964-65 to $989,085 in 1965-66, due in large part to additional busing and personnel. The biggest increase, however, was from $1,172,230 in 1967-68 to $1,476,217 last fiscal year.

Reduction of class sizes has been cited as a principal reason for increases, with Sausalito schools attempting to keep classes down to 20 pupils. There have been other contributing factors, of course.

Special programs have added much to the cost. These have included, among others, a special mathematics program which was largely funded by the state until this year; expansion of the number of teachers' aides; hiring of additional special subject and "resource" teachers; inauguration of a counseling center (an unusual feature for an elementary school district), and numerous field trips for pupils (the district in the last fiscal year paid $8,000 to Kenneth Pratt of Mill Valley, who arranges many of these trips and provides transportation). The field trips became the subject of controversy this year, with some Marin City parents complaining because their youngsters were taken to Black Panther headquarters in San Francisco.

Residents who have complained about the schools contend the added spending has not produced accompanying improvements in learning. The response of school officials has been that more time is needed for the results to become evident to outsiders.

AWOL GI Wounded In Marin City

The victim was identified as Daniel Hayden Jr., 22, of 115 Drake Avenue. He was reported in good condition today at Letterman General Hospital where he underwent surgery last night for damage to an arm artery. Authorities said he would be turned over to military police.

Deputies said Hayden's sister told them the soldier was in Hayden's Market in Marin City when he got into an argument with two men who allegedly had stolen $1,500 from Hayden's father. The sister did not give details of the alleged theft, deputies said.

Deputies said the shooting is still under investigation.

Innocent Plea To Drug Charge

Thomas Hugh Harris, 20, of Larkspur pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to possessing marijuana when arrested Sunday in Larkspur. A preliminary hearing was set for Aug. 28.

Harris, a passenger in a car stopped by police because of a loud muffler and lack of a license plate light, was discovered to be AWOL from the Army when police noted his extremely short hair cut.

Dental Care Plan For Hospital Staff

A dental care plan for Marin General Hospital employees was approved last night by the Marin Hospital District Board,in a 3-1 vote.

The board agreed to accept a Blue Cross plan in which the hospital will pay $4.45 a month for each employee's dental care. Employees can pay for dependents' dental care at a cost of $5 a month for husband or wife and $3.10 a month for all children.

Board President George E. Croke voted against the plan but directors Marion C. Ibach, Thomas K. Procter and George H. Folsom voted for it. Dr. Gwendolyn W. Campion was absent.

The board was told that that 200-pace parking lot across Bon Air Road will be completed Sept. 5 and authorized bid opening at the Sept. 23 meeting for repair and resurfacing of the main parking lot.

The board also authorized opening bids Sept. 23 for remodeling and expanding the emergency department.

The Marin Hospital District Board also:

DIET — Was told the hospital will now offer patients the choice of a low-fat "prudent diet."

BUDGET — Was told the Marin County supervisors have approved the district's 1969-70 tax lefy of $190,760.

RADIOLOGY — Approved buying a film processor for the radiology department for $5,377 from Picker X-Ray Company of San Francisco, low bidder. Other bids were $6,105 from General Electric and $6,945 from the Siemens Company.

Melvin Randolph Not At Meeting

The Independent-Journal erred yesterday in identifying Melvin Randolph as a speaker during a discussion of the breakfast program at a meeting of the Sausalito School District Board Monday night and in identifying him as a Black Panther. Melvin Randolph, an employee of the Marin County Housing Authority, is not a Black Panther and was not at the meeting.

The remarks attributed to him were actually made by another man who said his name was Randolph and identified himself as a Black Panther. His first name was not available today.

Arraignment In Drug Case

Michael Brand Galvin, 22, of 130 Francis Drive, San Anselmo, was arraigned Monday in Marin Municipal Court on a charge of possessing marijuana after an arrest earlier in the day.

Two drug agents said they saw Galvin and another man walking down San Anselmo Avenue in San Anselmo apparently sharing a marijuana cigarette. The other man swallowed the cigarette, they said, but Galvin had two other hand-rolled cigarettes with him.

Judge Hadden W. Roth yesterday ordered the sheriff's department to return $322 taken from Galvin returned to him. Deputies had intended to turn the money over to the Internal Revenue Service.

Galvin was ordered to return to court Sept. 5 to plead to the charge. The other man was not arrested.

Gas Station Burgled In Corte Madera

An employee of the Union 76 service station at Paradise Drive and Highway 101, Corte Madera, arriving at work Monday morning discovered the station's safe had been opened and about $350 had been taken, sheriff's deputies said today.

The burglar apparently knew where a key to the safe was hidden, officers said.

Meningitis Case Not Deadly Kind

A case of meningitis was reported in Larkspur last week, but the case was caused by a bacterium and is not the deadly kind which has caused epidemics on California military posts, Marin County Public Health officer Carolyn B. Albrecht said yesterday.

The illness is not serious and not communicable, she said, although the case was initially reported as a communicable disease.

The public health department also reported 34 cases of gonorrhea in Marin during the week which ended Saturday, and 27 cases of streptococcal infections.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Ringworms Not Always Guilty For Rashes On Toes And Feet

Ringworm should not be blamed for every rash between the toes or on the soles of the feet. The lesions may be due to excessive perspiration or to sensitivity to one of the plastics in shoes. There are other causes of dermatitis and it is foolish to start treatment before a positive diagnosis is made.

Our feet take a beating during the summer when sweating is profuse, particularly if nylon socks or nonventilated or rubber-soled shoes are worn. The affected skin becomes moist, white, and dead-appearing, unless dried and exposed to the air periodically.

VAN DELLEN

MACERATION, blisters, and cracks develop and may look like ringworm. But this diagnosis cannot be confirmed unless scrapings of the tissues are sent to the laboratory and the fungus is found in this material. If the causative microorganism is not present, ringworm treatment is of no value — in fact, it may be worse than the disease.

On the other hand, in susceptible persons, warm, moist skin is made to order for the ringworm organism. Invasion of the toes is followed by a blister, and when it ruptures, the skin becomes scaly, cracked, and red. Scaliness is the most consistent finding and usually is noted unless the tissues are not severely macerated.

FUNGAL INFECTIONS of the skin rarely are confined to one spot. When the nails are involved, they become discolored, thickened, and brittle. They may separate from the toes along the outer edge. If the soles of the feet are affected, there are fine scales, with or without blisters.

Athlete's foot is easy to treat, but there is no guarantee that results will be lasting. The most widely used remedies are griseofolvin tablets by mouth, tolnaftate solution or powder, Desenex, Timofax, Sopronal, and Whitfield's ointment.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

TONSILITIS

REPLY

Not in the strict sense. Rheumatic fever may be preceded by tonsilitis, but those destined to develop rheumatic fever have an inherent susceptibility to certain streptococci. When members of this select group develop tonsilitis or sore throat caused by strep organisms, rheumatic fever may be the outcome. These children usually benefit from tonsilectomy.

INFECTION

D. D. writes: Could infection somewhere in the body raise the blood pressure?

REPLY

Yes, especially if the infection is located in the urinary tract and affects the kidneys. On the other hand, the most common forms of high blood pressure are of vascular origin and are associated with stress and strain rather than infection.

CHEEK-TO-CHEEK CHAT

C. C. writes: Is it safe for me to carry on a cheek-to-cheek conversation with a person who has a collapsed lung due to tuberculosis?

REPLY

This depends upon whether his sputum contains the tubercle bacilli. Why the cheek-to-cheek conversation? Are you deaf? Or, are you in love?

RATING MILK

P. B. writes: How does milk rate calorically?

REPLY

An 8 ounce glass of whole milk contains 165 calories; skim milk has a 90 calorie value and buttermilk (if it is made from skimmed milk) contains 90 calories.

Extremists Hit Sex Education In Maryland

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Maryland is one of four states where right-wing extremists are waging their "most intense" campaigns against sex education in public schools, a National Education Association official said yesterday.

Paul Putnam of the NEA testified that the intensity of the anti-sex education effort in Maryland is matched only by campaigns in California, Oregon and Washington.

Putnam appeared before a special panel appointed by the Maryland Board of Education to review the board's controversial requirement that sex courses be taught in public schools.

Part of the quickness of the anti-sex education movement in Maryland is because "the leadership of many right wing groups is located in Washington, D.C.," Putnam said.

Nathan Hare To Publish Magazine

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — One of the leading figures in disruptions at San Francisco State College last spring announced yesterday he is abandoning his controversial demand to head the school's black studies department in the fall.

Dr. Nathan Hare, militant interim head of the black studies unit, who once shouted down college President Dr. S. I. Hayakawa, said he will work instead on a new black intellectual magazine.

The magazine, Black Scholar, will be a journal of black studies and research.

He said he was "tempted to continue the struggle" at the college but feels that as publisher of the new magazine he will be playing "a more significant role" in the militant black movement.

Dr. Hayakawa refused to renew Hare's contract for the coming year.

Sausalito Burglary

Experimental Project For Ghetto School

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Raphael Weill Elementary School will begin a three-year experiment next week with an individualized, nongraded approach to education and with parents as teacher-assistants.

It was pressure from parents dissatisfied with the education at Raphael Weill that led to a one-day boycott last February and also led to the new program, named Project Learn Well.

The program is one of the first in the country. There are similar ones in New York City and Harlingen, Tex.

Dr. Robert E. Jenkins, San Francisco superintendent of schools, announced the $159,000 program at a news conference yesterday.

Instead of classes divided into kindergarten through sixth grade, as in the past, the 680 pupils will be grouped roughly by age into four learning blocks.

The blocks will be language arts, mathematics and science, social studies and arts and crafts. Youngsters will work at their own pace, and there will be one adult to guide each group of 10 to 15 children.

Provision has been made to hire three guidance teachers and 32 parents being trained as teacher assistants, Jenkins said.

Pupil enrollment is 75 per cent black, 15 per cent Oriental and 10 per cent white.

Mrs. Joella Moon, chairman of the parent-community council of the school, called the new approach a "welcome change."

Behavioral Research Laboratories of Palo Alto is coordinating Project Learn programs and supplying materials. A staff member, LeRoy Bolden, is consulting director of the project.

Jenkins called Project Learn Well "ideal for the inner-city child since the learning process can be fitted to the student, instead of fitting the students to one program."

Sonoma State Is Full For Fall

The Sonoma State College admissions office has been deluged with calls from prospective students for the fall term while applications have been closed for months.

H. J. Soeters, dean of admissions and records, said that fall undergraduate openings have been filled at all state colleges and that inquires should be made only for the spring semester beginning in February.

Sonoma State expects to open with an enrollment of 3,375 on Sept. 10.

Dumke Sees Less Turmoil On Campus

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The head of California's 19-campus state college system says "there's a good chance the era of massive turbulence may be over."

But Chancellor Glenn S. Dumke said in an interview yesterday that "if it is true that massive confrontations are coming to an end, then obviously militants will resort to other tactics more in the nature of guerrilla techniques."

Dumke spoke on the telephone from his Los Angeles office about the 180,000-student system, the nation's largest higher education facility. Violent demonstrations broke out during the last school year at San Francisco and San Fernando Valley campuses.

Both disturbance involve demands for more programs for minority group students.

"I certainly don't think tensions and pressures are over," Dumke said.

He explained possible campus guerrilla techniques as "hit and run tactics," such as harassment of individual administrators.

He said massive demonstrations may not occur in the coming school year because the college system has "learned much better how to cope with problems of this sort, and the goals of militants may change on campus as well as in the cities.

"The nation has been quieter this summer than anybody has had a right to expect," Dumke said.

The legislature and state college trustees have adopted new rules and attempted to clarify existing laws governing campus conduct. A series of college regulations outlined last spring give college presidents emergency powers during campus crises.

"I approach this year with some reasonable optimism," Dumke said. But he added the tensions probably will exist as long as students are concerned about the Vietnam war and as long as there is pressure for reforms for ethnic groups on campus.

Tax Exemption Date Extended

Gov. Ronald Reagan today signed two bills extending until next Monday the deadline for filing for homeowners' tax exemptions, Marin County Assessor Bert W. Broemmel was informed from Sacramento.

AB 1726 extends to Sept. 1 the deadline for filing for the $70 refund from last year's taxes or $750 exemption on this year's taxes for those who filed for only one of these last spring.

AB 2349 extends to Sept. 1 the deadline for those who were denied veterans' tax exemption last spring to file for the $750 homeowners' exemption.

79 Evening Courses Offered To Southern Sonoma Residents

Southern Sonoma residents will have the opportunity to choose from among 79 adult education evening courses this year with classes scheduled to be held in Petaluma, Rohnert Park and Cotati.

Classes will open Tuesday and will continue through June 3. Registration may be made Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at either Petaluma Senior High School or Rohnert Park Junior High School from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. or at the high school district administration building, Fifth and B streets, Petaluma, from noon to 4:30 p.m.

Class schedules have been mailed to most Southern Sonoma homes or can be obtained at any high school in the district. Most registration fees will be $2.50.

Robert Chapman, director of adult education, said additional courses may be added if enough interest is shown. Most classes have a minimum of 15 members.

One of the new classes to be added this year is a discussion of great books planned on Mondays from 9 a.m. to noon at the Petaluma Boy's Club library. No fee will be charged to persons taking the course for high school credit.

Innocent Plea To Taking Funds

A former San Rafael man who now lives in Chico pleaded inocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a charge that he embezzled about $600 from his former employer, Western Union, last year.

A preliminary hearing was set for Sept. 18 for James Ray Purcell, 23.

He has just completed a jail term in Butte County for failing to support his children, according to his attorney.

Camp Meeting In Marin City

Plans for a two-week religious camp meeting in a tent at the entrance to Marin City were announced today by Rev. Fred Small, pastor of the Marin City Church of God.

Small said members of Crusade '69, an interdenominational group organized by his church, will call throughout the county during the next few weeks to raise funds to cover the cost of erecting the tent and putting on the program.

Teague Will Attend World Scout Meeting

Lt. Harvey Teague, chief of the juvenile division of the Marin County Sheriff's office, will leave next Wednesday for a three-day scouting conference in England.

Teague is one of five men from the U. S. who will attend a golden jubilee reunion of persons in scouting's Wood Badge outdoor training program at Gilwell Park in Epping Forest in London.

Gilwell is the base for the world Wood Badge training program which was established by Lord Baden-Powell, who also founded the scouting movement, Teague said.

In 1919 Powell trained a group of men in scoutmaster leadership as the beginning of the program. Teague is a director for the training program in the United States.

Following the London meeting, Teague will tour Europe including the French Surete and Scotland Yard. He also plans to devote some time to collecting recipes for his cooking hobby.

Two Injured In Separate Car Crashes

Two persons received minor injuries in two separate multiple-car accidents Monday involving seven cars, two of which burned.

The two vehicles burned in a four-car wreck on northbound Highway 101 near the Civic Center at 11:05 p.m., the California Highway Patrol reported. The patrol said a car driven by Francis Ogle Davis, 58, of San Francisco hit the side of a car driven by Howard Charles Crowell, 68, of 111 Silver Drive, Cotati, while changing lanes.

The Davis car then careened to the right and hit the rear of a car driven by Valerie Harlan, 17, of 463 Nova Albion Way, San Rafael, pushing her car into one driven by Walter Henry Lethbridge, 61, of Palm Springs.

Crowell's car caught fire and the fire spread to Davis's car, the patrol said. Davis was injured slightly, but did not require hospital treatment.

The other accident, a three-car rear-ender on the Golden Gate Bridge, was at 8:20 a.m.

Sandy L. Hendershot, of 7 Merrydale Road, Apt. 8, San Rafael, a passenger in one of the cars, received minor injuries and went to her own physician, the patrol said.

The patrol said a car, driven by Clarence Edward Bostock, 50, of San Francisco, slammed into the rear of one driven by Michael Jan Pratt, 24, of 7 Merrydale Road, San Rafael, knocking his car into the third one driven by Joseph Patterson Harris, 23, of 627 Magnolia Avenue, Larkspur.

THEY'RE OFF AND SWIMMING IN MARIN LEAGUE MEET

JIM GILMARTIN

Norman Bright Isn't Just A Dipsea Myth

Sunday was my 24th Dipsea Race. No, silly, not as a runner. I couldn't drive over the 6.8-mile mountainous course let along run it. I mean as a spectator.

When I first covered Marin's famed distance race back in 1946 I heard the name of Norman Bright for the first time. He was listed as holder of the Dipsea record, running from Mill Valley to Stinson Beach in 47 minutes, 22 seconds in 1937.

Each year since then the name has come up as the record holder, but in name only. The body was missing. He was the p h a n t o m of the Dipsea. A myth. Everyone connected with the Dipsea, of course, new the name but nobody new anything about him. Was he killed in the war? Did Skid Row claim this former distant runner? Questions were answered with shrugs.

Well, I am happy to report, Norman Bright is alive and well and surprisingly turned up in Mill Valley last weekend for Sunday's 59th running of the foot race. But, like me, as a spectator. It was his first visit to the Dipsea since 1937.

"We didn't know he was coming," said a member of the Mill Valley Junior Chamber of Commerce. "He just turned up Saturday and said 'Here I am.' Of course we were delighted."

He Remembers Record Run Well

Bright handed out trophies at Stinson Beach Sunday. An affable chap now employed as a guidance counsellor in the Seattle school system, working with r e t a r d e d children, he remembered his record run well.

"Look here," he enthusiastically greeted reporters, "I still have the track shoes I wore that day. The course was in awful shape — slick from rain — so the Tamalpais High School track coach gave them to me for better footing. I forget the coach's name, but he helped me file down the spikes.

"I'd come here from Sunnyvale where I was teaching school at the time and was really out to break the record which was 47:56 set in 1912. But the course was in such awful shape from the rains that my coach told me I didn't have a chance. In fact, he didn't even come to the race that day; he stayed in his hotel room."

You Have To Prepare For Race

Bright said he was surprised that his record has remained unbroken for all these 32 years but added: "No one will break it unless they thoroughly study the course and prepare for it as I did. I camped out here at Stinson Beach for two weeks prior to the race and trained daily. The first two times over the trail I got lost and had to knock on a door to ask directions. But I finally learned the Dipsea — every foot of it. For example, I carried a stop watch with me and timed every section of the trail. I timed myself running up the (400) steps in Mill Valley and then timed myself walking up. I found out I could walk up them just as fast as I could run, so that was important information. To beat this course you must learn to pace yourself. You just don't simply overpower it.

Now 59 years old, wearing cheaters and sporting snow on the roof, Bright couldn't resist the temptation of retracing his steps along what is considered by many to be America's ruggedest footrace course. "It took me 47 minutes and 22 seconds in 1937, and 155 minutes Saturday," he laughed.

Incidentally, Bright was slightly amazed at the turnout of 775 runners Sunday. "In 1937 I beleive there were about 70 runners. I finished second in setting my record." (The Dipsea is a handicap race and scratch runners seldom finish first.)

Well, now we know there really is a Norman Bright and not just 12 letters printed indelibly in the record book. It was fun to see and meet the Phantom Sunday.

Circus Air As Oakland A's Gains Split With Tigers

DETROIT (AP)—There were brass bands, and clowns, and an Arabian Horse Troop at the sixth annual Shrine Night at Tiger Stadium yesterday.

So, in keeping with the carnival atmosphere, the Oakland Athletics and Detroit Tigers sandwiched each side of the halftime entertainment by turning the baseball diamond into a merry-go-round.

They scored 29 runs in splitting a twi-night doubleheader, with Oakland winning the first game 8-6 and Detroit taking the nightcap 9-8.

Mike Kilkenny, 3-4, was scheduled to pitch today for Detroit against the Oakland's Jim Hunter, 9-11.

Mickey Stanley drove in six runs, three in each game, and Al Kaline drove in three runs in the nightcap with a pair of home runs to pace Detroit.

Tito Francona, recently acquired from Atlanta, knocked in two runs in the opener and a run in the second game as he collected three singles, a double, and a homer in the A's well balanced attacks.

Oakland took advantage of a sore-armed Denny McLain in the first game, but the Tigers took advantage of a mental lapse by A's second baseman Ted Kubiak in the second.

"It cost us four runs, but whose to say what the outcome would have been if it didn't happen," said Oakland Manager Hank Bauer.

The mental miscue came in the second inning when Jim Price hit into what should have been an inning-ending play. But Kubiak failed to relay shortstop Bert Campaneris' throw to first and just stood on the infield grass while Price slid into second.

Bonds Bat Booms From Fifth Spot

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The surging Giants' season-long search for a No. 5 batter apparently has ended, thanks to the robust slugging of Bobby Bonds.

Taking some of the pressure off cleanup batter Willie McCovey, Bonds cracked two homers and drove in five runs yesterday, helping the Giants crush the Philadelphia Phillies 13-4 for their sixth straight win.

The only thing Bonds didn't do was overshadow McCovey who collected six RBIs on a grand-slam homer a single and a sacrifice fly as San Francisco maintained its half-game edge in the National League West.

McCovey and Bonds, batting back-to-back, have been a terrifying twosome since Manager Clyde King decided on the new alignment Thursday in New York.

The Giants have yet to lose with Bonds batting fifth. The same lineup was to face Rick Wise, 11-10, when the two clubs continued their three-game series today. Mike McCormick, 9-7, was to be the Giant starter.

Almost overlooked in Tuesday's power show was a five-hitter by Gaylord Perry, 15-10, who allowed baserunners in only three innings, striking out eight and allowing two earned runs.

STICK WITH IT

"I plan to stick with this lineup for a while," said King. "I decided to bat Bobby fifth when it looked like Jim Hart wouldn't come back to his old form.

"I talked with Bonds about it, and he said he was willing to try," the manager added.

The move was an instant success. Bonds has five homers and 13 RBI in the six games, boosting his homer total to 27.

McCovey has 15 RBIs over the same span, zooming his total to a career-high of 106. That is only one less than league-leader Ron Santo. McCovey tops the senior circuit with 40 homers.

Bonds' switch from the lead-off spot also has thrust rookie Don Mason into the limelight. Mason has batted leadoff in the last five games, reaching base 16 times and getting nine hits in his last 12 at-bats.

Foreman Planning No Barry Meeting

OAKLAND (AP) — Attorney Earl Foreman, who has a $2.6 million deal to buy the Oakland Oaks and move them to Washington, talked yesterday with staff members of the American Basketball Association club, including Coach Alex Hannum.

Foreman met all questions with "no comment" except one, to which he replied: "There are no present plans to meet Rick again."

Superstar Rick Barry and Foreman met in Los Angeles Monday. Foreman later announced the Oaks' forward said he didn't want to leave the San Francisco Bay Area and felt his contract did not require to him to leave.

Barry was unavailable yesterday for further comment, amid reports he was ready to sign a new contract with the San Francisco Warriors of the National Basketball Association—the team he left two years ago.

Warriors' owner Frank Mieuli was not available to add to his Monday comment that he was "more optimistic than I've been in 2½ years" about the possibility of getting Rick back to San Francisco."

Foreman contends Barry and Coach Hannum, who led the Philadelphia 76ers to a world championship in 1967, are included in the franchise purchase.

Hannum, an Oaks stockholder like Barry, said yesterday, he met last weekend with a group of Albuquerque, N.M., businessmen there on the possibility of an ABA franchise for that city.

"I personally am very optimistic. It has been confirmed to me what everybody has been telling me—what a truly great basketball area this is," Hannum said.

Ira Harge, an Oaks player who lives in Albuquerque, said that if Hannum should get a franchise there, he would play out his option then play in New Mexico.

Classy Fellow Shows Up For Six At Meadow Club

Newly-crowned Professional Golf Association tournament king Ray Floyd dropped in Friday afternoon to squeeze in six rounds of golf on a Bay Area stopover.

Seems Floyd, who lives in Fairfax when he's not on the tour, lost most of his clothes in Dayton and had to come to see his San Francisco tailor for a new set. And that's why he didn't play in the Avco Golf Classic in Sutton, Mass., this weekend, which he explained to PGA officials in a phone call from the Meadow Club.

ROHNERT PARK held its first tournament of champions at its more or less spanking new golf course, but the local golfers couldn't buy a high place finish for a million bucks.

McClaren Park Golf Club won the team trophy with a 123 net score, followed by Antioch/Petaluma at 129.

Individual low gross honors went to Charles Creecy of Antioch with a nice two-day total of 75-69-144. He was followed by teammate Bob Olds at 74-72-146.

Incidentally, Rohnert Park will be forming a ladies golf club, by popular demand.

Charter memberships will be available for a limited time only at a special fee of five dollars. First club meeting is set for Monday, Sept. 8.

THE MARIN COUNTRY Club held a father and son tournament last Sunday with low net and low gross champions named in five different age groups.

Here's the results:

Sons Ages 7-9 — Low Gross, Ken and Mike Harais 44; Low Net, Al Cueva and Phil Janney 33. Ages 10-11 — Low Gross Mike and Bill Dougherty 43; Low Net, Bob Proett and Bret Bauer 36. Ages 12-14 (18 holes) — Low Gross, Stan and John Mertel 86; Low Net, Jim and Jeff Henricks 73. Ages 15-16 — Low Gross, Milt Morley and Jim Rich 75; Low Net, Lloyd Ferguson and Phil Van Dyke 70. Over 16 — Low Gross, Bernard and Mike Ahern 78; Low Net, Art and Craig Ballantine 74.

Griffith To Head Bay Knarr Skippers

Dick Griffith of San Francisco will head a pack of 10 Bay Area skippers who will compete in the week-long International championship Knarr Regatta that will help the San Francsico Yacht Club celebrate its Centennial beginning Saturday on San Francisco Bay.

Griffith was the top finisher in the qualificatons for the ten Bay Area spots in the Knarr part of the regatta. There will also be action in the International One Design and the Folkboat divisions. The other five Knarr spots will be filled by the top five skippers in the Royal Danish Yacht Club of Copenhagen giving the week-long series of races a truly international flavor.

Bob York of Belvedere was runnerup in the Bay Area Knarr qualifications, followed by Clyde Jacobs of San Anselmo, Bob Fisher of Belvedere, Knud Wibroe of Sausalito, Grant Settlemier, Terry Anderlini, Wynn Oliver and Barney Barnett, all of San Francisco, and Ted McKown of Sausalito.

Flag raising and other official opening day ceremonies will be held Saturday at the San Francisco Yacht Club. There will be a one-day break in the regatta on Sept. 3 to allow for repairs and refurbishings.

Playoff Talks Today

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn was to preside at a meeting today at which the details of the divisional playoffs in both the National and American leagues will be ironed out. Representatives of all the contenders will attend.

Schultz Is Still Manager

SEATTLE (AP) — "I've never said Joe Schultz was fired," Marvin Milkes said yesterday in objecting to reports that he was ousting the field manager of the Seattle Pilots.

Such reports are humiliating to Joe and to us," said the general manager of the American League expansion team.

"Joe is our manager until we make up our minds at the end of the season in October.

NO LOVE-IN

"The whole thing has been blown up out of proportion."

Milkes said Monday that some people believed a manager who is loved by players and fans alike should be retained, adding:

"I'm not conducting a love-in; I'm running a major league baseball team."

"Understand," he added, referring to the team's current 10-game losing streak, before last night's victory over Baltimore, "I'm not blaming Joe for what has happened.

"I feel Joe has made some mistakes, but so have I. Mistakes are bound to happen in the first year of an expansion club. I have not put pressure on Joe and I am not now trying to create a cloud of mystery."

NO COMPLAINTS

Milkes reiterated that Schultz, who was hired off the coaching staff of the St. Louis Cardinals to manage the Pilots, was under a one-year contract.

Durocher Pressure Wish Comes True

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

For a while, it looked as if Leo Durocher wasn't going to get his wish, but the way his Chicago Cubs keep throwing away games and the New York Mets keep picking them up, Leo might get it after all.

Just last weekend, Durocher was saying how curious he was to find out how his players would react to pennant pressure. But the way the Cubs had been winning, it didn't appear as if there would be much pressure to react to.

However, all that has suddenly changed and after the Cubs lost again to Cincinnati 8-7 yesterday afternoon, and the Mets swept a twi-night doubleheader from San Diego 8-4 and 3-0, the pressure is on.

The results left the Mets only three games behind Chicago in the Nationl League East and only one in the important loss column, quite a drop from the 9½-game lead the Cubs had only 14 days ago.

St. Louis and Pittsburgh missed golden opportunities to add still more pressure when the Cardinals split a twi-nighter against Houston, winning 1-0 and then losing 4-2, and the Pirates lost to Atlanta 6-4.

The third-place Cardinals thus picked up only a half game and stand 7½ back, while the Pirates are eight behind.

The West Division needs no added pressure with one game still separating the first four teams after all won.

San Francisco clung to its half game, three percentage point lead over Cincinnati by clubbing Philadelphia 13-4, and Atlanta remained two points behind the Reds. Los Angeles is one game and seven points behind after bouncing Montreal 6-0. Fifth-place Houston is three games back.

FAR BEHIND

For the second day in a row, the Cubs fell far behind and then fell just short with a ninth inning rally that ended with a relief pitcher coming on to get the last out with the tying run on third base.

It marked the sixth defeat in eight games for the Cubs and their third in succession.

Cincinnati piled up seven runs in the first two innings on a flurry of singles, but the Cubs pecked away at Jim Merritt, 15-5, with homers by Don Young, Glenn Beckert and Ernie Banks and Ken Rudolph's two-run pinch single in the seventh.

The Reds scored the winning run in the ninth for an 8-6 lead on Lee May's double, but a walk, Beckert's double and a sacrifice fly drove out Merritt in the bottom of the ninth.

The Mets took full advantage later as Tom Seaver, 18-7, became the league's first 18-game winner with a four-hit first game victory and Jim McAndrew, 6-5, followed with a five hitter, running the Mets' winning streak to five games and 11 in their last 12 outings.

Money Talks In Pro Circles

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

To paraphrase Vince Lombardi: Money isn't everything ... it's the only thing. Ask Jerry Wolman and Leroy Keyes.

Wolman, making another "gold line stand", has come up th a new scheme to buy back the Philadelphia Eagles, and Leroy Keyes is considering a "substantial contract offer" to play in the Canadian Football League.

Wolman's latest plan was presented to federal bankruptcy referee Joseph O. Kaiser in U.S. District Court in Baltimore Tuesday. It involves a new partner, Washington financeer Thomas Shaheen, and a few Wolman businesses—the Yellow Cab companies of Philadelphia and Camden and the Yellow Limousine Service.

Hyman Tatelbaum, Wolman's lawyer, said Wolman hopes to repay $3 million to creditors over a 10-year period with the latest plan. But, he said, the exact method of financing the repayment plan has not been determined.

FIRM REVENUES

He explained the $3 million could be raised from revenues of the firms; from a refinancing of the debts using the companies as security, or through a merger of the businesses with a prominent, yet unspecified company that is listed on the American Stock Exchange.

The availability of the National Football League team for purchase, however, is a matter of debate between Tose and Wolman. Wolman insists he's still able to execute a buy-back clause in the sale agreement—but Tose disagrees, saying any such clause has been voided.

Meanwhile, the British Columbia Lions of the Canadian Football League say they have made a "substantial contract offer" to Keyes, the Eagles' No. 1 draft choice.

Danny Veitch, Lions' general manager, said the club has been dealing with Keyes' agent, Arthur Morse, and a final decision is expected from the Purdue star Thursday.

If you've waited this late in the year to drive a bargain-drive a tough one.

You couldn't have picked a shrewder time to save yourself some money.

A make, for example, that doesn't offer the double-walled strength you'll find in that Chevy Fleetside's pickup box above.

The double walls not only add durability, but keep your truck looking better all the years you'll be using it.

Chevy cabs have double-walled construction too.

And the whole solid package rides on deep coil springs all around. With a choice of engines—right up to a 396 V8 you can order—that have a special knack for taking loads off your mind.

All of which simply adds up to what industry scrappage rates have shown for years:

Chevy trucks have a longer working life than the others.

Semi-Pro Baseball World: Oddities Small Things In A Long Summer

By GARY TISCHLER

Small things, odd places, weird names. (What's a Bellingham Bell, a Eureka Crab, a Seaside Bomber?) Postcards from towns with a gas station, a grocery store, one church, three bars and a ballpark.

The very name semi-pro conjures up a team of men a step or three and a bag of money away from the bigs, an emotion away from a pickup game on a weekday summer afternoon.

HAVE BEENS

The players have been, are sometimes, could have been, could be or may never be pros and there is your definition of semi. The older guys envy the promising youngsters their legs and stamina; the kids are still naked, minus all the bits of information, bags of trick and sheer manhours that make a pro and keep him one.

This semi-pro world is full of trips to outlandish places in station wagons, buses and campers. It isn't a place to get rich, but people become friends, pass the summer, and come out telling stories, smelling of glove leather and resin. It is one way, a good and tough way, to learn and to play baseball.

Take a trip with the San Rafael Braves, their last trip of another successful summer.

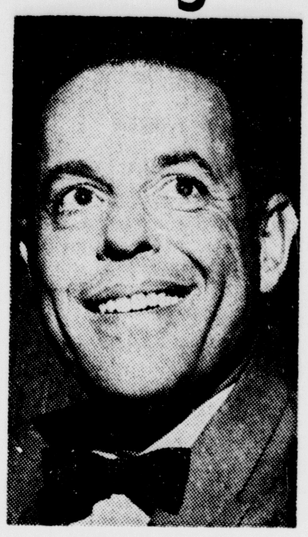
Meet Joe Anselmo, their gruff and articulate manager, who has seen more baseball players than a 100-year-old fan. Joe isn't 100, but sometimes he feels like it.

Take this trip with the San Rafael Braves, who will need a sweep of a doubleheader 120 some miles away to win the San Jose Travel League title all by themselves.

EARLY START

Start early, when most people are just beginning to feel the first twinge of regret about Saturday night. You're packed in a station wagon, with Anselmo at the wheel, his two daughters and their friend in the front, young ballplayers Dave Edson and Dave Lee, Terra Linda High School grads both, in the back and bulky John Burnett asleep in the way back with a ton of equipment.

You whiz through San Jose, take a giddy morning mountain ride over to Santa Cruz, bypass beautiful downtown Salinas, slide by the rifle ranges and barracks of Fort Ord and pop into Monterey.



JOE ANSELMO
Veteran manager

The town is besieged by motor nuts. It's one huge STP patch, everybody wearing sunglasses in the fog, ready for the Lagunua Seca. Even the gas station flunkies give you directions to the race track before you can say fill 'er up.

You wind up at this ballpark, which is surrounded by a Dennis the Menace playground, a picnic area, a pond and a cemetery.

"Okay, boys, it's all left-handed hitters," he says, then goes running round the field, warming up his legs, scaring the hell out of the seagulls who seem to have been living here for at least a week.

There are cobwebs at the lockerroom entrance but the shower works, hot and cold. It's not the Astrodome, but it's home.

As the early hours pass by, the rest of the Braves arrive, some of them with family in tow. The entire Corder clan of Novato, headed by player Tom, is here for the game. So are the parents of Ben Burch. It seems a lot of Marin has moved to Monterey.

END OF SUMMER

You can tell it's the end of summer by the state of the equipment. Baseballs that players have been hoarding for the past few weeks pop up for batting practice. Some of the leggings on the pants are tattered and some of the shoes have holes on the side.

Jess Jacinto, the wily elder statesman of the club, pitches batting practice in a continual stream of banter. The sun comes out. The opposition shows up.

The local heroes are the Seaside Bombers, ensconced somewhere in the middle of the league standings. Their pitcher is a fellow named Muddy Rivers, who looks on the distant side of 30. Years old, that is.

His pitches look about the same way, but this man has been somewhere a few times. They come in slow, then slower, outside to the lefties, jammed up to the righthanders. He pitches smart and wily and the Braves look at the fat ones and pop up.

COSTLY MISTAKES

It gets frustrating. They know they ought to be beating his brains out, but they're losing 4-1 instead. Russ Dillon, the youngster from Novato, is blazing his fast ball, but he makes mistakes and in this kind of park, it costs.

The umpires, those bogeymen of road games, don't help. You never expect them to. If it's close, forget it. That's a fact of road life. And it could be worse. One of them could be the catcher's father, which he was in a game against the Crabs in Eureka last summer.

Art Blunt, the muscleman of the Braves, gets called out on a dipping curve that almost cleans off the plate. Disgusted he sits on the bench murmuring soft choice words while chewing sunflower seeds. They lose anyway.

MAKE MERRY

The Braves make merry, scoring 11 runs on 14 hits while Burch, a nice-looking kid with big white teeth and a shock of bright-blond hair, hums them by the Bombers.

Meanwhile, in the stands, a local fan, equipped with a public address system and a bottle, is happily announcing the game.

"And now, ladies and gentlemen, it's time for a pause for the cause," he drawls. "Jim Beam, that is."

PASS THE HAT

It's that kind of afternoon, lazy, meandering. They pass the hat, boys sell peanut brittle, jets pass by overhead, foul balls dent cars and gravestones, it goes by.

By now, the Braves know for sure that it's practically a tie.

Which, as you know, is like kissing your sister, and that leaves a bad taste all the way through the bumper-to-bumper tuna-tight traffic jam home.

Pit stops for ice-cream, all-you-can-eat dinner where they're breaking some kind of child labor law with 12-year-old waitresses, watch all the blown radiators looking like Poland after the blitz.

It will stay a tie and that's that—but half a championship ain't bad.

It's still hot the next morning, but the summer is over for the Braves.

Guess Who Recommended Don McMahon To Giants

It seems incredible that the Giants finally got Don McMahon. Desperation can drive even ball clubs to do the unexpected. And the Giants were desperate for bullpen help after giving up on Joe Gibbon and later Ronnie Kline for whom they traded Gibbon back to the Pirates.

During the years that McMahon was being traded around both major leagues, the Giants, of course, knew he was available but repeatedly passed him over.

AL DAVIS urged the Giants to sign McMahon some years ago when they slipped into perennial second place finishes. Davis is the bright fellow who built the Oakland Raiders into an American Football League powerhouse.

Davis's knowledge isn't confined to football and his knowledge of McMahon dates back to the days when they were high school classmates in Brooklyn. The Giants felt Davis was just putting in a good word for McMahon who, incidentally, is a Raider football scout during baseball's off-season.

McMAHON WAS shocked and surprised when the Giants purchased his contract Aug. 8 from the Detroit Tigers.

The shock was due to the fact that despite an overall 3-5 record for Detroit this season with an unimpressive 3.89 ERA. Detroit sold him just when he had put together a string of 11 scoreless relief innings during which he allowed only two hits.

THE SURPRISE was due to the fact that he was well aware of Davis' efforts several years ago in his behalf with the Giants. McMahon felt the Giants were the last team that would give him a second look.

McMahon is a 39-year-old campaigner with plenty of pressure experience, the kind acquired in three successful pennant drives (1957-58) with the Braves and last year with the Tigers.

LESS THEN 24 hours after he reported to the Giants in Candlestick Park, MacMahon made his first appearance for them Aug. 10 against the Cardinals. He came on in the ninth inning because Juan Marichal's shoulder had tightened at the end of the eighth with the Giants in front 4-3.

McMahon struck out the first batter. The next, Mike Shannon, hit him for a homer that tied it 4-4 after which McMahon was belted for three more runs and a 7-4 loss.

THOSE GIANT executives who had dinged Davis' recommendations years back wore sour "I-told-you-so-looks."

But last Thursday in New York when the Mets belted Frank Linzy and tied the score 6-6 in the ninth, McMahon came on once again. This time he pitched like he did when he was the premier relief ace of the Braves a decade ago. He stopped the rally and he stopped the Mets 1-2-3 in the 10th and 11th.

NOT ONLY that, he got a single in the 11th and scored the winning run on a triple by Ken Henderson.

Now it was time to ask: "On whose recommendation was McMahon acquired?" Nobody seemed to know. One thing, however, was certain. Horace Stoneham had to approve purchase of McMahon's contract. Maybe Stoneham has secret scouts who report directly to the president of the ball club.

Stars Shunted To Net Sideline

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — The world's richest tennis tournament, the $137,000 U.S. Championship, broke with tradition and opened a 12-day stand with the name players shunted from the spotlight.

Top-seeded Rod Laver of Australia, gunning for the first Grand Slam of the Open era, faced Luis Garcia of Mexico today on an obscure side court at the venerable West Side Tennis Club.

Defending champion Arthur Ashe, hoping to break out of a service slump, and second-seeded John Newcombe, runnerup at Wimbledon, were among other stars relegated to field courts.

MARKED BREAK

"This is a marked break with tradition that we are not starting with the defending champion," said referee Mike Gibson of Britain. "But we feel it's more important to give the public at Forest Hills the most attractive possible matches rather than those featuring the name players."

At Wimbledon and elsewhere, the defending champion opens on the center court, regardless of the status of his opponent.

Although Laver, with Australian, French, and Wimbledon Open victories behind him, is one of the most-talked about players here, the outcome of the feature match between third-seeded Tony Roche of Australia and unseeded Bob Lutz of Pasadena, Calif., could provide a barometer for the entire tournament which officials hope will put tennis on the road to commercial success.

RESTS SHOULDER

Lutz lost to Stan Smith, his Davis Cup doubles partner, last weekend in the U.S. Grass Courts Championship while Roche skipped a pro tournament in Newport, R. I. to rest an ailing shoulder.

The preliminary match on the cushy grass center court pitted fifth-seeded Tom Okker of Holland, runnerup here last year, against unseeded Mark Cox, a British Davis Cupper. Rumania, the United States' Davis Cup Challenge Round adversary, will be featured on the center court with Ilie Nastase playing Ian Crookenden of New Zealand.

Although he is seeded 12th, Smith is expected to be very much in contention for the $16,000 first prize which has lured an elite field of 128. The 22-year-old 6-foot-4 Smith, like Lutz a product of the University of Southern California, is billed in many quarters as America's star of tomorrow. He drew Patricio Rodriguez of California as a first round opponent, also on a field court.

The women, shooting for a first prize pot of $6,000, begin singles play Thursday.

Little Action For McNeil If He Signs

SANTA BARBARA, (AP) — Even if pass catcher Clifton McNeil comes to terms with the San Francisco 49ers before Sunday's game, he will play very little, coach Dick Nolan predicts.

"He might go in for a play or two, but nothing more, and that's only because he knows the system," Nolan said yesterday.

McNeil, the National Football League's most successful pass receiver last season, has been holding out for more money.

The 49ers play the Oakland Raiders next, but Nolan refused to take the cross-bay rivalry seriously at this time. "We figure it as just another game in the exhibition season and I'm sure John Madden feels the same way," he said. Madden is the Raider coach.

The Raiders, put 10 men on waivers yesterday, but didn't name them.

Players put on waivers now can be withdrawn from the list if claimed. If they get through the waiver season without being claimed, they can be kept on the Raider taxi squad. Consequently the club does not advertise the men on waivers.

Putting the 10 on waivers cut the squad to 49. It must be trimmed to 40 before the American Football League season starts.

Kazanski To Coach

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Tigers announced Tuesday they have signed Ted Kazanski, former infielder with the Philadelphia Phillies, as a coach for the rest of the season.

Leo Hints Umpire Conspiracy

As a result Durocher was tossed out of yesterday's 8-7 loss to the Cincinnati Reds following a blowup with umpire Shag Crawford which nearly resulted in a swinging match.

Crawford thumbed Durocher out of the game in the second inning. During the fracas Crawford clenched his fist and Durocher dared the umpire to swing.

"I dared him," said Durocher after the game "and told him I'd spot him the first shot. Then I kicked dirt on him."

HE'S A LIAR

"He's a liar if he says I kicked him," said Durocher.

"He's a liar if he says he didn't kick me," said Crawford.

"I've only kicked two umpires in my life," said Durocher, "once I kicked the late Bill Stewart and then I got into the kicking battle with Jocko Conlon. Conlon and I were kicking each other in the shins until I realized I was getting the worst of it because he was wearing shin guards."

NO CHANCE

"Walker no sooner got to the foul line when the umpires started for the mound," said Durocher. "That's when I jumped off the bench and started for the mound myself.

"All I want to know is why when I or one of my coaches go to the mound, the umpires immediately converge upon my pitcher? They never give us a chance.

"Yesterday when Dave Bristol went out to talk to his pitcher his whole infield was out there and there were the umpires, all at their positions for two minutes before anyone made a move.

Billy Ray Key Takes Fourth In Nationals

The youngster finished fourth in the 40-lap main event in a field of 45 in the single suspended class of the Grand National Quarter Midget Auto Championships here Sunday.

He also qualified fourth-fastest in the qualifications for a berth in the ten-car grand final.

Dream Come True After Ocean Jaunt

Cox was relaxing in his Honolulu hotel room after completing a 2,200-mile sailing trip alone in a 26-foot Columbia sloop from Santa Monica, Calif. to Honolulu. After 41 days at sea, the 63-year-old retired construction worked arrived here Saturday.

"The hardest part of the trip came three days after I left California," Cox said. "I hit a storm which drove me about 100 miles off course and wiped my wind vane off."

Cox said without the wind vane, an automatic steering device, he was left with the choice of returning home and starting again or continuing and doing all the steering by hand.

"I thought if I go back now, I may never try again," Cox said, "and so I headed on to Honolulu, steering by hand all the way. When I wanted to sleep, I'd elt the sails down and let it roll.

"I wasn't lonely," he said "I didn't have time."

Cox said the lack of a wind vane resulted in the trip taking a longer time than the 30 to 35 days he originally expected.

Share Repurchase Could Be Bearish

By ARNOLD SPEAR

Q. I own shares of U.S. Industries which made an offer to buy back shares. What does this mean for the stock's price action? — F. N.

A. Wall Street has interpreted a company purchase of its shares as being bullish, indicating advance knowledge of some favorable development. But a recent study by Allan Young, assistant professor of finance at Syracuse University, reveals that the reverse may be true. A block of 227 NYSE companies which had bought 1 per cent or more of their own shares in any year from 1960 through 1967 was compared with 227 control companies selected at random. A significant difference in the two groups was noted in earnings performance just prior to repurchase, indicating that reacquisition was used as a diversionary tactic. Price earnings ratio in the two years following repurchase tended to be lower, primarily reflecting poor price performance, since per share earnings are increased by reacquisition. Companies with a lower leverage factor and a declining capital base tended to use share purchase to adjust this balance. A company may utilize market weakness to acquire shares for later acquisitions. These purchases frequently serve as an immediate prop to the price.

U.S. Industries' recent tender offer for 300,000 shares is an excellent example of this. The original offer at $24 was amended to $26.50 because of strong price action. Confirming Young's findings on leverage, USI's long-term debt is only 30 per cent of total capitalization. Earnings have shown rapid growth, as have sales. But profit margins, after rising sharply in 1965 and 1966, widened only slightly last year and have remained unchanged this year.

This sluggishness might be misinterpreted as corroborating the study's conclusions on the relationship between earnings and repurchase. If price action should follow the presumed pattern, USI could lag behind the market, near term. Since the effects of repurchase are transitory depending on the company involved, I see no reason to disturb holdings.

Picture Brightens For Stock Market

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks turned higher today in what analysts described as "a technical readjustment after two dismal performances."

In the news budget was a prediction from a top government economist that inflation will plague the nation for the balance of the year despite Washington's efforts to put a clamp on the price spiral.

The government's index of leading economic indicators showed a drop of four-tenths of 1 per cent last month, but it was attributed chiefly to a sag in the housing industry.

Active issues included Jim Walter, Cities Service, Benguet, City Investing, Natomas and Litton.

Oils and electronics were among the widest moving issues. Oils moved in both directions, while electronics generally traded higher.

Airlines showed scattered strength after drifting easier in recent sessions. Aircrafts and rails traded on both sides of previous closings.

Motors, steels and chemicals traded in fractions, as did most gold mining shares, all of which lacked a definite pattern.

Petrochemical Plant

WILMINGTON, Del. (UPI) — DuPont Co. has announced it will build a petrochemical plant at its Sabine River works at Orange, Tex., to make adiponitrile, an intermediate chemical used in making nylon. The plant will employ 200.

Kentucky Claims One Million Heads Of Beef

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI)— Kentucky farmers ranked 10th in the nation in the number of beef cattle and calves on farms as of the first of this year, with slightly more than 1 million head.

The state also was 10th in the number of milk cows two years old and over, with 400,000 head. Once a major sheep producing state, Kentucky dropped to 29th spot with 112,000 head. The state placed 13th in the number of pigs with 2.3 million.

Price Sign At Station Protested

The Marin Independent Service Station Association last night opposed an application by a station operator to attach a price sign to his free-standing identification sign.

About a half-dozen association members appeared before the San Rafael Planning Commission to protest, but based their arguments on sign clutter, not price listing.

Edward Simas who applied for architectural approval of a three-by-four-foot price sign for a service station at 1103 Third Street, then asked that the matter be postponed until Sept. 10.

Edward C. Bendel, association president, said the association has cooperated with the city "to clean up signs," and he felt the sign regulations could still be strengthened.

If the Simas application were approved "it would end up in a real mess of signs again," he said.

The San Rafael Planning Commission also:

SEA SCOUTS — Granted the Sea Scouts a one-year use permit for a berthing dock for Explorer Ship 20 on San Rafael Canal behind the Montecito Shopping Center.

STORAGE YARD — Renewed for six months Quin Ongaro's use permit to operate offices and storage area at 1625 Francisco Boulevard for his contracting business.

NORTHGATE OFFICE — Granted contractor John A. Riebeiro a use permit and architectural approval for a 3,200-square-foot office building at 54 Mark Drive, Northgate Industrial Park.

SERVICE STATION — Granted GIF Properties Inc. architectural approval for an addition, a 350-square foot lubrication bay, to a gasoline service station at 1004 Northgate Drive.

SETBACK — Granted Dr. and Mrs. Robert Celli of 32 Dunfries Terrace a front setback variance. 12 feet six inches where 15 feet is required.

FENCE — Granted Bok Reitzel of 1 Locust Avenue a use permit for a six-foot high redwood fence along an unimproved section of Linden Lane and a 12-foot high chain link fence to enclose a tennis court on his property.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned until Sept. 10 at 7:30 p.m. at city hall, because the regularly scheduled meeting date falls on Admission Day, Sept. 9.

Commissioners Jorgen V. Lunding and John J. Adams were absent.

Firestone Sued For $3.1 Million

FAIRFIELD (UPI) — The parents and sister of a 19-year-old sailor killed when his newly repaired car went out of control in 1966 have filed a $3.1 million damage suit against the Firestone Tire and Rubber Co.

The suit filed by Mr. and Mrs. William Faren of Torrance and Mrs. Gloria Root alleges the victim, William J. Faren, had his car repaired at a Firestone Service station three days before the accident on a county road.

The suit alleges the brake shoes were found to be improperly fitted and there was a hole in one tire, despite the fact repair work had been done on the brakes, springs and shock absorbers.

The younger Faren was a sailor on the USS Willsie, which was docked at Mare Island at the time.

Louisiana still calls its counties "parishes", preserving names given them when they were church units.

Use Permits To Two Auto Agencies

San Rafael Planning Commission last night granted use permits and architectural approval for two auto agencies on former city corporation yard property along Francisco Boulevard.

Hercules Viglienzone was granted a permit to locate his Marin Bay Lincoln Mercury agency on a two-acre parcel at 475 Francisco Boulevard.

The city recently sold the property to the two auto dealers for $323,896 but retained about three acres at the rear of the parcel along San Rafael Canal.

Along the east end of the Viglienzone property there will be a roadway providing access to the city property along the canal, and both owners will be required to install curbs, gutters and sidewalks along Francisco Boulevard.

Viglienzone was granted architectural approval for three free-standing signs, one 42-feet high and two 25-feet high, while Dexter's sign plan is to be submitted at a later meeting.

Senior planner Charles J. Linthicum recommended redwood slats in a chain link fence at the rear side of the property for the sake of appearance since the rear would be the view from the canal.

Contractor William H. McDevitt, representing Dexter, said there has been auto stripping at car lots and the fencing should be open so police officers could view inside while patroling. Commissioners then agreed to drop the requirement that there be redwood slats inserted in the fencing.

The city, planning to move its corporation yard to a city-owned lot at Second and Lincoln streets, will take space now used by Western Grayhound Lines for parking commuter buses.

Thus, last night commissioners received an application from the bus company to establish a new parking lot on Northwestern Pacific Railroad Co. property at 166 DuBois Street.

Commissioners approved the permit with one of the conditions that the lot be paved.

Ross Valley Flood Board Minor Flap

A routine appointment to the Ross Valley Flood Control Zone Advisory Board ran into some static yesterday before the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

At issue was the appointment of someone to replace Ann H. McCorry, who resigned three weeks ago without explanation.

The advisory board had nominated attorney Aaron E. Rucker of 230 Hillside Drive, Kentfield, but Supervisor Peter H. Arrigoni yesterday nominated Fred B. Graham of 7 Upland Road, Kentfield, a management consultant.

"I want another viewpoint on the advisory board as it relates to the aesthetics of the Ross Valley," Arrigoni said.

Supervisor Michael Wornum agreed, adding, "I'm not sure self-perpetuating boards are a good thing."

Noting that Graham was not among the four persons considered for the nomination by the advisory board, the supervisors referred the nomination back to the board for its opinion on Graham.

Arrigoni said that the advisory board had not interviewed the four candidates, but merely discussed them on the basis of how well they were known to the other members of the board.

Lagoon Transfer Due In November

Legislation signed Monday by Gov. Ronald Reagan to transfer jurisdiction over Bolinas Lagoon from Bolinas Harbor District to Marin County will be effective 61 days after the final adjournment of the Legislature, not 61 days after the Aug. 8 close of the regular legislative session as reported incorrectly yesterday by the Independent-Journal.

The legislature opens its constitutionally required five-day veto session next month, so the bill will become law probably by early November, depending upon the date of the adjournment at the end of the veto session.

Foreman Hassle In Novato Council

Novato's public works chief drew harsh words at the city council meeting last night when demontion of a maintenance crew foreman was proposed. (Another Novato City Council Story, Page 1).

The council agreed to hear complaints from the maintenance crew at a special closed meeting at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the council chambers.

Councilman Babe Silva led the attack on Public Works Director Clifford E. Temps's proposal.

"You may be a good engineer but you're a poor personnel manager," Silva said.

Silva said Temps was creating four bosses out of 10 men — one boss for every two men.

"Wade Lackey (maintenance foreman), who's worked for the city for eight years, is getting a bum shuffle from you," Silva charged.

Temps had asked for creation of a position of maintenance superintendent with a salary of $941 to $1,90 and the elimination of the foreman, whose salary range is $738 to $813. The foreman would be reduced in pay to lead man, range $607 to $670, and there would be four lead men.

"The superintendent could do some of the planning of street work," Temps said. This would relieve a junior engineer of the work.

City Mgr. Charles A. Brown said he approved Temps's plan. Tempers finally cooled and the matter set for Tuesday.

"I idin't you would bring that up in an open meeting," Mayor Harley A. McAskill later told Silva.

Cooler Contract

A $167,693 contract for more water chillers and related equipment at Sonoma State College, Rohnert Park, has been awarded to Frank M. Booth, Inc., of Marysville, the state Department of General Services announced yesterday.

Dominican Offers Weaving Course

Classes in primitive and loom weaving, spinning and dyeing will be offered during the fall semester at Dominican College by Mill Valley weaver Ida Dean Grae.

Sponsored by the college art department, the classes will meet from 2 to 4 p.m. Monday and Wednesday at the college. Registration will be held at the college Sept. 2 or in class during the first two weeks.

Texas is the only state that was an independent republic, recognized by the United States before annexation.

Grant Avenue Closing Time

Grant Avenue in Novato from Highway 101 to Seventh Street will be closed from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Sept. 7 for resurfacing, according to Public Works Director Clifford E. Temps.

This is a part of the city's Fall Street resurfacing program and will be done on Sunday so that as little traffic as possible will be diverted from the avenue.

Parallel Parking Proponents See Cause Die Without Formal Vote

The question of angle versus parallel parking on the south side of Grant Avenue, west of Highway 101 in Novato, died last night without even a vote by the Novato City Council.

At its meeting on Aug. 12, the council split 2-2 on whether or not to eliminate angle parking on the south side of the street from Second to Fifth. It postponed the matter until last night when the fifth councilman J. Wayne Womack, would be present.

"All of the arguments which would be presented tonight would be for my benefit alone, and I have read all of the minutes, so there is no reason to repeat them," Womack told the audience, containing many businessmen opposed to parallel parking.

Womack said he had interviewed six women drivers with five of them favoring angle over parallel parking. He then went on to say the main bottleneck on Grant Avenue was not angle parking, but in crossing Highway 101.

"Until the freeway is relocated, I do not feel that we should change the parking," Womack said.

With that, the council voted to go on to the next item without taking a formal vote.

The Novato City Council also:

RELENTLESS BATTLE

Erosion Ruining Beaches

WELLFLEET, Mass. (UPI)—The spot where Marconi pressed a key 66 years ago and sent the first transatlantic cable message crackling across the ocean from President Theodore Roosevelt to England's King Edward VII is more than 170 feet out in the water, a casualty of the sea's relentless battle with the land.

Along these sand and gravel cliffs formed by the glaciers, conservationists are losing their battle to preserve one of the most magnificent beaches in the United States—the Great Outer Beach of Cape Cod, 60 miles of wild beauty watched over by the U.S. Interior Department's National Park Service.

Erosion, a fact of life wherever the sea meets the land, is often a dramatic phenomenon here where even one lashing northeast storm can lop up to 20 feet or more off the beaches and cliffs.

The forces of erosion are wind, wave and current, and as James H. Bowman, a civil engineer charged with maintaining the nearly 27,000 acre Cape Cod National Seashore, says, "once the sea attacks you're done."

MAJOR FACTOR

Another significant factor contributing to the erosion of the nation's beaches, according to Joseph Caldwell of the Army's Coastal Engineering Research Center in Washington, is that "practically no streams or rivers are contributing new sand to our beaches.

"We are working with the same supply of sand that has been there for thousands of years," Caldwell said. "It is a loss which is not being replenished unless man comes along."

Caldwell, top research specialist for the center, said "everything is working against the beaches and nothing is working in their favor." Surveying the huge number of eroding beaches along the east coast, Caldwell added, "most of our beaches would be eroding even if man never put a foot on them."

While the sea's attack on the Cape's Outer Beach is spectacular and sometimes devastating, few sandy areas along the Eastern Seaboard have gone unscathed.

KNOWN EROSION

Of the known serious erosion sites along the coast, Florida alone has 33, North Carolina 10, including perhaps the most severe problem area at Cape Hatteras; South Carolina 8; New Jersey 7; Georgia 5 and Delaware 1. The Maryland coast also is eroding at a rapid pace.

New England's rocky northern face virtually is indestructible, but moving south toward the Cape are several problem areas, such as the overworked beaches around the Boston metropolitan area, the Connecticut shore and, in New York, the barrier beach of Long Island Sound, which has many seriously eroded areas.

The Army Corps of Engineers is the federal agency which tackles beach erosion. Steven Onysko, project engineer with the Crops' New England Division at Waltham, Mass., explained: "We can't fully prevent erosion; what we can do is retard it—and we are finding more and more that we have to work with nature rather than bucking it."

The problem on Cape Cod is symptomatic. When Marconi set up his first wireless telegraph station in 1902, he built four large transmitting towers. With new technology the station has been dismantled, and the sea has carved its way inland more than 170 feet.

At points along Nauset Beach, the magnificent barrier beach at the elbow of the Cape, the average erosion loss per year has been measured at 5.5 feet.

TWO-SIDED PROBLEM

And erosion is only one part of a two-sided problem. Sand washed from one beach often piles up, or accretes, in bays and estuaries forcing men once again to step in with dredges or jetties to allow continued navigation and recreation.

Here on the Cape's outer beach, offshore currents carry sand stripped from Nauset Beach south and threaten to block the entrance to Pleasant Bay. The same currents carry loose sand north around the tip of the Cape, and in the Provincelands area, accretion measures up to 6 feet a year.

What can be done to prevent erosion and accretion? "What we have been able to do thus far is very little," said Bowman. "You can't stop all erosion, so you ask yourself how much. We have to consider the practical values—as for the theoretical values—beauty and space—nobody's put a price tag on that yet."

Onysko, sitting in the Army's Waltham office where beach and harbor erosion studies abound, admitted there was little that could be done for the Cape seashore under present regulations. However, a $15 million federal-state project for the Cape's Pleasant Bay, which will improve navigation and recreation, has been readied for government approval. Here the economic benefits can be spelled out.

The questions still arise:

Will Cape Cod disappear or the beach at Cape Hatteras be battered away? Will New Yorkers have to retreat from their comfortable homes near the shore of Long Island Sound or the happy new homeowner at Cocoa Beach, Fla., have to do battle with the sea to keep his life time savings?

The answer seems to be, no—or at least, not yet. The beaches will continue to disintegrate before the relentless forces of nature, but man is busily at work to preserve what he can along the thousands of miles of the East Coast.

Red China Gearing For New Educational System

HONG KONG (AP) — For the first time in China's 3,000-year history a system of rural compulsory free education goes into effect this fall. In some respects it may be a system of compulsory labor.

The new school system is mostly Mao Tse-tung's idea, Western analysts of Chinese affairs say. They think it may be one of the biggest gamble China's 76-year-old leader has taken since coming to power in 1949.

The "old" school system was built largely along European lines with doses of Mao thought grafted on. Its destruction was one major goal of Chairman Mao's cultural revolution purges. This summer the purges were finally extended to elementary schoolteachers and staff.

Now that Mao's men run the classrooms, they can put into effect the kind of education plans opposed by deposed President Liu Shao-chi and his followers.

These are the major outlines of the new school system as related by the Chinese press:

All children 6-13 will go to school in September.

Courses have been shortened from 12 to 7 years, and almost no children from the countryside will ever go to a technical institute, college or univeriti.

Children will spend the seven years in "productive labor," the study of Mao's writings, and in learning better farming methods and in the use of farm machinery.

All schools will be administered and financed locally, instead of from Peking's Ministry of Education.

Mao apparently is saying that to develop its economy China needs fewer physicists and more good farmers, fewer well-educated bureaucrats and more literate welders.

Including "productive labor" in the curriculum will give the country's leaders a ready reserve of flexible labor. Shortening the course to seven years will speed people into the work force.

Experts here say Mao may be right. Developing nations don't have many jobs for highly trained professionals. Mao evidently thinks China has been wasting manpower resources and needs to concentrate training and skills in the lower levels of the country's labor force.

"Essentially Mao is saying that the old way of developing a country by emphasizing experts and heavy industry hasn't worked in China despite 20 years of trying," one analyst says.

Execution Dates For Quentin Pair

Execution dates have been set for two more inmates on San Quentin Prison's Death Row, Associate Warden James W. L. Park has announced.

Charles Robert Coogler is scheduled to go to the gas chamber Oct. 8 and Robert Lee Nye is to be executed Nov. 5. Both were sentenced in Los Angeles County courts.

Four of the 75 men on death row now have execution dates set. Tony Montoya Lara is to die Sept. 3 and Gus Tolbert is scheduled for execution Sept. 24. The other men have appeals or further court actions pending.

A MENTAL PRICE

How To Invent An Obnoxious Noise

NEW YORK (UPI)—The purpose of this scientific experiment with people was to find out if they pay a mental price for adapting themselves to obnoxious noises.

They do adapt to them. Of that there can be no doubt. If a mind-price is involved, city people must be putting out for it constantly —assuming at least some elements in their rising noise pollution are obnoxious to them.

Of that there is doubt and this required the New York scientists, Drs. David C. Glass, Jerome E. Singer and Lucy N. Friedman to find a truly obnoxious noise.

Commonplace city noises, such as the roar of traffic and of jet planes, wouldn't do. Many city people aren't really aware of them. Invention was needed and Glass, Singer and Miss Friedman invented as follows:

They made separate tape recordings of (1) two persons conversing in Spanish; (2) one person speaking in Armenian; (3) a mimeograph machine mimeographing; (4) a desk calculator calculating; (5) a typewriter pounding away.

These tapes they superimposed on one another on another tape and when it was played the noise could be guaranteed to jar any ear. No element, whether voice or machine, was distinguishable. Babel couldn't have sounded the way it did.

This tape they played individually, repeatedly, and under varying conditions to 45 college girls who were paid $3.40 each to sit still for it. They heard it amplified to an ear-splitting 110 decibels and again at the moderate 56-decibel level.

They heard it at both levels when it was regularly spaced among intervals of silence. While they adapted they knew when it would come on and go off. And they also heard it when it broke into their consciousness at random and there could be no anticipating.

While subject to all this, they performed simple mind-tasks, such as adding two digit figures, picking out the a's in a list of words and, at the end, taking tests that assessed what mind-prices they were paying, if any.

When the girls adapted while able to anticipate when the noise would come on and go off, they paid no measurable mind-price, even when the volume was at 110 decibels.

Only Part Of Defense Iceberg Under Attack

Congress and public are paying close attention, for the first time in many years, to the spending of the military services.

Some pretty loud criticism has been voiced of late over disclosures such as 120 C5A jet transports that will cost $1.8 billion more than the $3.4 billion originally contracted, that potential brake failure in the A7D attack plane was concealed from the government, that tanks were bought which were incapable of operating with the firing system they were supposed to mount, etc., etc.

MILIARY SPENDING certainly needs to be watched closely. Many billions that might have been used for permanent benefits for the nation have been wasted by the military over the last two decades. But the concentration on contracts ignores the submerged part of the iceberg.

"Of the total annual defense budget of $80 billion, only about $20 billion goes for actual weapons procurement. In the remaining $60 billion unnecessary overhead bulks large, and it is this sector which should be attacked by economizers rather than the building of the weapons themselves, according to one outstanding defense company president."

IT IS RELATIVELY easy to detect waste when an airplane costs twice what was estimated or when a missile is declared obsolete before its launching facilities are completed. It is much harder to track down the waste in needless proliferation of bookkeeping, in antiquated organizational systems, in inefficient assignment of manpower, etc. But the waste is there.

This applies not only to the Defense Department, of course. Other governmental operations—federal, state and local—suffer from many of the same ills.

The trouble with attempts to make government operate more efficiently is that each such effort seems to add another layer to the bureaucratic paper shuffling. Parkinson's Law operates here with a vengeance.

Neither can man depend on computers to create more efficiency. We have in our own county an example of how introduction of computers inaugurated a spiral of rising costs in operating the data processing department itself, which are only now being brought under control after a long period of wasteful operation.

THE PLAIN FACT is that the only way to root out waste is to get out in the field and investigate personally to find where it is occurring. This is an unpleasant task from which both politicians and high-priced administrators shrink. But any smart bureaucrat can turn out reports of time, labor and material usage that will look good when run through a computer.

That $60 billion part of the defense budget that is submerged under the surface may require a lot of sonar soundings. In the meantime, attacking the visible part that is represented by contracts for weapons and supplies at least promises some needed savings.

Try Gopher Plant

If you are much troubled with gophers making a mess of your garden, a friend of ours claims to have the answer. It is a distant cousin of the poinsettia and is called gopher plant, also caper spurge, mole plant and compass plant.

There is no doubt that it is poisonous, as it sometimes poisons cattle. An annual or biennial, one to three feet tall with very attractive foliage, gopher plant is a native of the Mediterranean region, but now grows wild in Marin. It is usually found in moist situations.

We hadn't heard of it before, but if it lives up to its billing, the neighbors will have our share of gophers next year. Gophers are said to avoid any small portion of land where gopher plants are growing.

Shakespeare Festival Appreciates Help

The Marin Shakespeare Festival is enjoying a very successful season. This is due to the hard work and gracious assistance of many, many people, civic organizations, and community spirited businesses.

Outstanding among those who have helped to make our ninth season such a success (and, indeed, to give us the necessary impetus to be able to continue the festival) has been the Independent-Journal.

Because the I-J does publicize so very many youth, cultural, and civic groups, we find it especially gratifying that you have helped us to such a great extent. And your Mr. Ray Rogers has been wonderful with his assistance and expertise.

The Marin Shakespeare Festival provides clutural, entertainment, and visitor attraction benefits for Marin. Your very generous support certainly deserves the thanks of our community.

Obscenity Not In 4-Letter Words

Eldridge Cleaver and LeRoi Jones certainly do have obscenity in their books. It has nothing to do with Dr. Max Rafferty's four-letter words, however. It has to do with the obscene way that this society has treated black men. Is it not much more obscene for us to tolerate undernourished children being bitten by rats—or any other manifestation of discrimination and poverty in this affluent society—than it is to use a few four-letter words?

Maybe the real reason that Dr. Rafferty wishes to suppress those books is because they "tell it like it is." He wants the children of this state to grow up with the assumption that all is right with America, and Cleaver and Jones angrily and sharply challenge that assumption. Therefore he, like so many affluent whites, prefers not to listen.

I dislike the entire idea of state approval for textbooks; it allows no professional confidence in a teacher to bring meaningful materials to students. But banning books is even more ridiculous.

Banks Get Challenge To Face Responsibility

(Reprinted from Oakland Tribune)

Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Robert Finch has offered the challenge to the nation's bankers in clear and unmistakable terms:

They can continue making federally guaranteed loans to needy college students despite a tight money situation that would bring them slightly less than the maximum profit.

Or they can be steadfastly firm in grasping for the highest possible gains at the expense of some 200,000 students who could thus be denied entry to the nation's colleges in the next few weeks.

THE PROBLEM is not the doing of the Nixon administration nor of the bankers, but mostly can be attributed to a "tight money" situation and a foot-dragging Congress.

Banks have been increasingly hesitant to make loans to college students, even when they are government-guaranteed, because present law permits only a 7 per cent interest rate while they can easily get 8½ per cent elsewhere and thus make a greater profit. Banks are themselves paying 6¼ per cent interest on corporate funds placed by corporations in certificates of deposit of $100,000 or more for six months.

THE SENATE overwhelmingly passed a bill to permit interest rates on such loans as high as 10 per cent, but the House of Representatives failed to act before the current three-week congressional recess started. There is every reason to expect the 10 per cent rate will eventually be approved, probably on a retroactive basis so the banks won't suffer any dollar loss.

In calling on the bankers for an "enlightened response" to his plea that the loans be continued, Secreatry Finch focused on a vital issue:

He was asking, in effect, if the banks can recognize that they have a special obligation to the thousands of young people of this nation who want to further their careers but whose parents don't have the financial means to match spiraling college costs.

TO DATE, just one lending institution, New York's Chase Manhattan Bank, has been reported meeting that obligation by not limiting approval of student loan applications.

If other major banks would step in to "share the load," the students' needs would be met without appreciable financial sacrifice on anyone's part, particularly in view of the expected congressional action on the interest rate.

The "paper losses" would be more than made up by the good will acquired and the improved image for the bankers who all too often are viewed by the public as heartless, unfeeling creatures.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

That $524 Million 'Surplus' Turns Out To Be All Spent

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO, — (CNS) — Perhaps there should be some different method of explaining the financial situation of the state to the public. The figures handed out by the state's financial experts are somewhat difficult to understand.

Ordinarily, when a business comes up with a surplus, it means that the business at the end of a year has taken in more money than it has spent.

But with the state, it is not quite that simple. In fact, it is not simple at all, as the list of "conditions" attached to the state's surplus for a fiscal year creates a situation in which the taxpaying public wonders where it actually stands.

FOR INSTANCE, State Controller Houston I. Flournoy happily announces California wound up fiscal 1968-69 with a "free surplus of $524 million."

But this generous figure, it is found, is not a surplus at all, as $194 million is deducted for "working capital" necessary to be on hand to assure operations during the 1969-70 fiscal year.

Further, the 1969 state legislature already has appropriated funds from this mythical surplus for various purposes for the current fiscal year, primarily for support of education.

After one makes his way through the maze of figures connected with the so-called $524 million surplus, one comes up with the fact that out of this figure, there is an additional $9 million surplus, which the governor says will go to support of education.

BUT THE $9 MILLION can't be spent this year, and will have to wait until next year, before the educationists can get their hands on this excess amount of tax the citizens of California have contributed to the state general fund.

All of which means when a layman figures it out, there actually isn't any surplus at all, for the simple reason the $524 million has been spent in one way or another prior even to the computation date used to describe the mythical "surplus" of state funds.

THIS IS the first time in history, the department of finance says, that the state has ever come up with that much of a paper surplus in state funds.

It might also be called to the attention of the public that this year is the first time in the financial history of California that taxpayers have been beleagured with such high taxes.

In other words, the state is collecting more money that it needs to run the government, in the amount of $524 million, and at the same time, committing this excess for future expenditures, instead of returning it to the taxpayers where it belongs.

IF ONE overpays a bill with a private business organization, he usually gets a credit slip back showing how much the organization owes him for the over-payment.

Not so, however, with the state. It voraciously applies the over-payment to some future expenditures, and leaves the taxpayer holding the sack!

THE DRUMMONDS

No Time For 'Patch And Wait' In Defense Dept. Procurement

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

They are assuming that, because the horrible and costly inefficiencies in Pentagon procurement occurred during previous administrations, they can take their own good time setting things straight.

They can't.

EVERY DAY that goes by without massive surgery to carve out the gross incompetencies in defense procurement is eroding the nation's respect for the military and is imperiling the security of the United States in a world where serious war is in the air — on the Sino-Soviet border, in the Middle East, in Eastern Europe.

The administration simply can't go about trying to cope with this Pentagon virus with a penknife and an eraser. And it can't expect the country or the congress to smile benignly at it because the worst horrors of mismanagement took place under other administrations.

Richard Nixon didn't get us into Vietnam, but he's saddled with it and now it is his responsibility.

Laird didn't preside over loose contracting, mounting cost overruns and immoral coverups, but he's saddled with them and now they are his.

BECAUSE THE worst Pentagon blundering took place under Presidents Johnson and Kennedy, the Nixon administration seems to think it can proceed with all deliberate slowness to do what needs to be done.

It can't.

Public patience is wearing thin.

Congressional patience is wearing thin.

Rightly so.

And there is grave danger that since the only effective sanction congress has to compel reform is to cut the defense budget deeply until adequate reform is forthcoming, it will do just that. And the end result would be to leave the United States militarily weak at a period of great uncertainty in the world.

SECRETARY LAIRD believes that the $3-billion cut in current defense spending required by congress is beginning to do just that.

Congress has been criticized for nit-picking at the defense budget, hacking off money indiscriminately without ever taking a total view of the nation's defense commitment and its defense needs in order to determine its total defense requirements.

But it is no more intelligent and no more justified for the Nixon administration to expend precious time just patching up Pentagon procurement.

It is true that Secretary Laird has talked of taking a more skeptical attitude toward eager-beaver new-weapons enthusiasts. The President has directed the Budget Bureau to look with suspicion at the military budget and has named a committee to study Defense Department procedures.

But none of this is good enough, nor is it moving fast and far enough, to restore the stern, practical discipline the Defense Department so urgently needs.

HOW DO WE know enough is not being done? Everybody would know it if it were. But now, one top Pentagon official is blurting out the truth. He is Dr. John S. Foster Jr., director of defense research and engineering. He knows the facts and is telling them:

"Our past and present methods of acquiring weapons have lost us the confidence of the public and are threatening our country's future security. Unless we change our practices drastically, our future ability to deter war and to fight can be seriously jeopardized.

"The country, until recently, has been patient with us. We have assumed that we had time to do better. But the country's patience has run out. The signs are all around us."

What needs to be done? No routine checkup will be adequate, says Dr. Foster. The need is for "major surgery."

When are they going to wheel the patient into the operating room? Why not now?

5 Per Cent Income Tax Cut Won't Apply To All

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — There is a lot less Santa Claus than claimed for taxpayers in the middle income brackets ($8,000 to $20,000) in the tax reform bill voted by the House.

Instead of the loudly fanfared 5 per cent cut in individual rates for the millions of taxpayers in these brackets — hurriedly written into the measure at the last minute by the ways and means committee — the actual reduction is from ½ of 1 per cent to 1½ per cent.

This is revealed in an analysis of the House-passed bill made by staff experts of the Senate Finance Committee — where the legislation is now pending. The committee study states the measure does cut individual tax rates 5 per cent. But it points out that percentage is an overall figure that includes all income brackets — from $500 to $400,000 and over.

In other words, 5 per cent is a blanket reduction that, as it works out, benefits those with incomes of $64,000 and over.

Several millions of poor are exempted from paying any income tax.

FOR — "The reduction is justified on the ground that present rates are unrealistic and have been instrumental in encouraging the development of tax avoidance devices and tax shelters. Lower rates reduce the incentive to use and devise methods of avoiding tax and reduce the disproportion-tion on economic decisions, both socially desirable goals."

AGAINST — "Tax rates should not be reduced during a period when inflation is so strong, and further extension of the income tax surcharge rates is being considered to combat it. Also the reduction all rates is highly questionable because of the huge loss of revenue — $4.5 billion. The amount unbalances the reform and relief program in contrast to the rate schedule in the bills as reported by the Ways and Means Committee. Tthat rate schedule roughly balanced the revenue gain from tax reform and revenue loss from tax relief."

THE HOUSE measure is certain to be considerably changed by the Senate Finance Committee.

Both Republican and Democratic committeemen disagree with many of its provisions. Also, members want to incorporate additional items. Foremost among them is an increase in old age Social Security benefits.

Two amendments already are pending on that. One by Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., would raise these payments by 7½ per cent; the other by Sen. George Aiken, R-Vt., by 10 per cent.

Hartke contends an immediate 7½ per cent hike is feasible without increasing Social Security taxes. He bases this on the ground the Social Security reserve has some $3.5 billion in surplus funds to finance such a hike — which both he and Aiken vigorously argue is necessary because of the inflationary increase in the cost of living.

Schmitz Bill Won't End 'Family Life' Arguments

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Opponents of early sex education have scored a victory with the passage and signing into law of Sen. John G. Schmitz's SB 413, but the measure cannot be expected to end the arguments over "family life education."

Schmitz's measure, which passed the state Senate 23-0, forbids sex instruction in the schools without parental permission. It also gives parents the right to examine materials to be used in such classes before deciding whether to let their children attend.

The measure was opposed by the California Teachers Association in a battle in which the issue became submerged in charges of "right wing support" and "left wing opposition." The CTA made much of Senator Schmitz's membership in the John Birch Society.

The act is likely to result in redesign of the "family life education" courses in those school districts where there has been considerable opposition to sex instruction — of which there are quite a few. It may result in abandonment of the program in some districts, at least in primary grades.

THE FURORE over "family life education" is reminiscent of earlier fights over sex education — but with a difference.

In 1957, Editorial Research Reports prepared a resume of the status of sex education in the schools, and the controversy surrounding it at that time. Here is an excerpt from it:

"Sex education of the young is undertake primarily to guide boys and girls toward acceptance of the attitudes and behavior patterns which accord with the prevailing moral standards of the society in which they live. . . .

"Virtually every statement of purpose of sex education enunciated by agencies engaged in it reflects the fundamental motive of helping young people to adapt their primitive impulses to the demands of a social idea, the monogamous family unit."

THE CURRENT view is expressed in an article by Don Speich, education writer of the Sacramento Bee, which appeared this month. Speich wrote:

"Whose sexual guidelines and morals will the teacher impart to the students? The answer is no one's. Ideally, the instruction is of an amoral nature, with the teacher presenting all sides of the coin to the pupils."

This lack of moral instruction in the sex courses is what caused George Romney, then governor of Michigan, to veto a bill for sex classes in that state's schools last year.

UNDOUBTEDLY, much of the opposition to sex courses is from parents opposed to sex education per se. But their ranks are swelled by those who (1) object to the lack of moral teaching, or (2) oppose introduction in the lower grades of material which in former sex courses was offered at about junior high level.

Typical of the latter is a comment by Hardin B. Jones, professor of medical physics and physiology at University of California, Berkeley. Wrote Professor Jones:

"The fuss is about the rightful concern of parents and educators when SIECUS (Sex Information and Education Council of the U.S.) and others urge that tots and preadolescents should be introduced to the mechanics of sex and the concepts of sexuality long before there is physiological and mental development for such understanding."

EVEN IN THOSE districts where its sex education approach has been accepted, "family life education" may not have a smooth road ahead. A citizen advisory committee in Hillsborough School District in San Mateo County recently went on record against the program for its inclusion of "sensitivity training." Other groups have attacked it on the basis of invasion of privacy.

Trumpeter Swan Gets Fresh Hope

WASHINGTON (AP) — The humpback chub may swim to oblivion and the whooping crane may give up its struggle for survival but there's fresh hope for the trumpeter swan.

In a new report, the Interior Department is reminding Americans that 90 species of fish and wildlife are in danger of disappearing but it reports conservation efforts and the discovery of new breeding populations in Alaska have assured the trumpeter swan will be around for a while.

The report—titled "The Right to Exist"—lists the black-footed ferret, the ivory-billed woodpecker, Attawater's prairie chicken, the California condor and the Florida Key deer among the species in danger of passing from the scene. The great auk, the passenger pigeon, the Carolina parakeet, the plains grizzly bears and the giant sea mink have ceased to exist.

The endangered species—such as the humpback chub, a distinctive little minnow in the Green and Colorado Rivers north of the Grand Canyon—must have help or extinction probably will soon follow, says the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife.

The bureau adds: "As the numbers of our wildlife grow fewer, their true individual value grows greater, for in the few are concentrated all the worth of one small but valuable part of our whole world."

The report says that of all the continents, North America has seen the most drastic changes in abundance of wildlife and the greatest number of extinctions in historic times.

"This is undoubtedly because of its sudden transition from primitive to highly civilized conditions," it says.

Laser Beam Branding Iron For Cattlemen?

DALLAS (UPI) — The laser beam, a space-age tool used by scientists on the earth and the moon, may be a boon to the nation's cattlemen .

Engineers in Dallas, blasting away with a laser at an array of green steer hides, believe they have perfected a laser branding iron. They believe it may end the use of hot irons and chemicals to brand cattle.

Clifford G. Stilwell, vice president of Veterinary Research Institute, said his engineers now are building a laser branding unit for field tests on live steers. Stilwell hopes to have the unit ready for tests in six months.

Stilwell said laser branding is so fast-in the time span of microseconds —than an animal is branded before it knows it. Stilwell thinks the pain will be less, laser branding will be cheapern it will be permanent and hides will be less damaged.

Laser stands for "light amplification by stimulated emission radiation." There are some differences between the laser used in space work and the one used in the VRI laboratories.

The astronomers use a ruby to get a radar beam that starts out half an inch across and is not wider than half a mile when it hits the moon. VRI engineers use carbon dioxide in a long tube in place of the ruby. It generates laser beams in the infrared frequency.

But Stilwell said their branding laser achieves temperatures of 1,000 degrees Centigrade. He and the engineers are making a study to determine whether to put on the brand with a stencil or by moving the beam.

Whatever method will be used, the animal will be stopped in a chute and in the merest fraction of a second the brand will be applied.

"It now costs 25 to 40 cents to put a brand on an animal," Stilwell said. "We hope we can get this down to 12 or 15 cents."

A laser branding machinen of course, would cost a good deal more than a metal branding iron and a mesquite wood fire.

Stilwell expects that the government will require identification marks on all cattle and hogs within five years and that laser branding will be the answer to the problem.

He and his engineers also have been trying their beams on a collection of cow and steer skulls and find that they do an instant job of dehorningm The speed of the process would lessen the shock of the operation.

Stillwell said VRI in its laboratory is trying "to bring all technology to bear on the animal health industry," and to th's end also will try to adapt radar to castrating animals.

Novato Gets Downtown Study Pact

The City of Novato has received its contract with the state for its $45,690 federally assisted downtown study, Planning Director Brian W. Mattson reported yesterday.

This is the first step in unraveling the red tape which has delayed the contract for more than four months.

The Department of Housing and Urban Development last spring changed its method of handling 701 grants and Novato was the first city affected, Matson said.

In the past, the state and the city's planning consultant took care of everything from the formation of the contract to handling the money. Under the new system, Novato must do everything, with the result that the city had to get a contract approved by the California Council on Intergovernmental Relations, the contract was received today.

Now the city must contract with its planning consultant, In this casee is Sedway and Cooke of San Francisco, who in turn must make a contract for the consulting services of Arthur D. Little and Co. of San Francisco which will make the financial portion of the study.

Under the new system, Novato will pay bills for the study and then bill the state for the federal share $30,460. The city will pay $15,230, $1,600 has been donated to date by the merchants who will benefit.

The delay has not stopped work on the project, begun April 15 by Sedway and Cooke. The study is scheduled for completion on July 14, 1969.

Today is Wednesday, Aug. 27, the 239th day of 1969 with 126 to follow.

The moon is full. The morning stars are Venus and Saturn. The evening stars are Mercury, Mars and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1859 the first oil well in the United States was drilled near Titusville, Pennsylvania.

In 1928 the Kellog-Briand Pact to outlaw war was signed by 15 nations in Paris.

In 1939 Adolf Hitler served notice on England and France that Germany wanted Danzig and the Polish corridor.

In 1963 miners David Fellin and Henry Throne were rescued after being trapped for 14 days in a mine at Shepptron, Pa.

A thought for the day: David Crockett said, "I leave this rule for others when I am dead: Be always sure you're right . . . and then go ahead."

Missouri Struck By Physician Shortage

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—Physician shortages mean "illness neglected and remedies delayed, leading to poor health and human suffering," witnesses told a Missouri legislative committee seeking to find a way to train more Missouri young people to study medicine.

In 1965 the state had 149 physicians per 100,000 population, and it was estimated that by 1975 Missouri would have only 139 medical doctors per 100,000 population. The lawmakers were told doctor shortages were felt most severely in small towns, rural areas and in poorer sections of the state.

Opening lead — ♠ 10

When today's hand was played East put up the queen of spades, and South won with the king. Declarer led the king of diamonds next, and West shrewdly dropped the queen.

This was a very neat play since if West had played his low diamond, South would have continued diamonds and would have allowed West to win the second diamond trick with the queen. South would be safe if West had the lead, and declarer would easily win at least 10 tricks.

CONTINUES DIAMONDS

After the actual play of the queen of diamonds, declarer led another diamond to dummy's ace. He tried three rounds of clubs, but the suit didn't break.

Since West had discarded a heart on the third round of clubs, declarer took the ace and king of hearts. But West dropped the queen of hearts on South's king.

Now there was no way to keep East out of the lead. East was sure to get in and could then lead a spade through South's jack. Down one.

South could have made the contract by a very simple play. After winning the first trick with the king of spades, he gets to dummy with a club and then leads the first diamond from dummy instead of from his own hand. East must play low, and South takes a deep finesse with the nine of diamonds.

West wins with the queen of diamonds, but West is the safe opponent. If West leads another spade, South gets a trick with the jack of spades. If West leads anything else, South is ready to run the rest of the diamonds for a total of 10 tricks.
